Beattie Trial Nears the End

FINAL ARGUMENTS

Were Made in the Beattie Murder Trial Today

CHESTERFIELD COURTHOUSE, Va., Sept. 8.—It was within the range of probability that before midnight tonight Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., indicted for the murder of his wife, will know his fate. Before sunset Harry M. Smith, Jr., counsel for the defense, and I. C. Wendenburg, for the prosecution, will probably conclude a battle of words before the twelve jurors who are expected to reach a verdict tonight. The final arguments began earlier than usual and although they were expected to end at sundown this was by no means an assured fact.

"I expect the case to go to the jury tonight," said Judge Watson. "I know the jurors are anxious to get to their homes and I will urge the lawyers to endeavor to finish tonight."

"It was a bitter fight enveloping all the finer details of criminal law that was staged at the historic courthouse today between Attorneys Smith and Wendenburg. Continuing the line of talk begun by his colleague, Hill Carter, against the veracity of Paul Beattie, who gave the most sensational and damaging testimony against his cousin, Mr. Smith, battered away at the story of the purchase of the gun, the alleged confession and the chain of circumstantial evidence forged by the prosecution.

Commonwealth Counsel Wendenburg took notes during Mr. Smith's argument preparatory to the delivery of the address which will bring the trial to the point of consideration by the jury while the prisoner, in a light suit and a white cravat, sat beside his counsel assisting him constantly in finding pages in the voluminous typewritten record of the testimony and followed the argument closely.

Mr. Smith said:

"We do not anticipate and do not fear at your hands a conviction. What we are troubled about is those of you who are satisfied that you cannot bring in a verdict of guilty and yet cannot assent to a verdict of not guilty."

"We will endeavor to show you that if that is your frame of mind we are entitled to an acquittal."

Mr. Smith cited the Kestelberg incident as an instance of circumstantial evidence.

"You heard the boys testify," he continued, "of their trip to Bon Air, how they saw a man in front of an automobile and a woman on the running board, of how they have felt when Mr. Kestelberg himself came forward and thrust aside all suspicion that Henry Beattie or his wife were in that machine. This, gentlemen, illustrates the danger of making up your minds until a case is closed; a pit into which many jurymen and even judges have often fallen."

"No one classes for the commonwealth, therefore, has a distinct advantage in weaving together theories from facts we have not known. What can have been the purpose of Mr. Smith's testimony that he saw a young man alone on the Miltonian turnpike early on the evening of the tragedy. It must be that they think the accused went to the stump they have talked about and placed the gun there a few hours before the crime. But there is a man of intelligence who on the witness stand must have impressed you, a man of kind disposition, and yet they want you to believe that he prepared in this blundering fashion for the crime a more heinous and brutish has seem been conceived by the brain of man."

The lawyer dwelt at length on the question of reasonable doubt, reading the instructions to the jury on this point.

"It is inconceivable," he added, "that this young man could for three days live in the same house with his dear father and loving family, could kiss them each night with this terrible vision on his mind. It is inconceivable, gentlemen."

"In taking away a human life you are face to face with God, almighty and unless you are convinced to a moral certainty that this young man committed this dastardly crime, you must of course bring in a verdict of not guilty."

"You have been shown the dangers of circumstantial evidence but I will show you that the accused must have been only a blundering idiot to have committed the murder. For he there picked out a much-traveled road where everybody could see him. In full view he hides a gun. I may as well say that if he thought out or planned this crime, why, can you tell me, should he have used a shotgun when a pistol, easily procured, and easily concealed, without taking anybody into his confidence, could have been used."

"Gentlemen, there is more than one human life at stake, not only the life of this young man but that gray-haired father, the future of the brother and the good name of a sister. They all appeal to you to give them the benefit of the doubt."

"Our mail has been flooded," said Mr. Smith, "with newspaper clippings and letters from people all over the United States telling of the dangers of circumstantial evidence."

"I don't think you should have mentioned that," interjected Prosecutor Wendenburg.

"Well, if it was wrong, I hope His Honor will rule it out, for I want to secure your verdict only by fair and rightful means."

Mr. Smith then closely reviewed the evidence with particular stress on the reluctantly given testimony of Kestelberg as indicating the danger of circumstantial evidence.

Characterizing Paul Beattie as a "moral wreck," the lawyer held up the testimony of the cousin as influenced by stronger-minded detectives.

"We do not believe that Paul Beattie was guilty of this crime. The question has probably occurred to you as to what our theory is. Well, gentlemen, instructions distinctly point out that it is not necessary for us to locate the criminal agent."

Clarence H. Raymond, for several years department clerk in the office of the superintendent of streets at city hall, has resigned that position to accept one more lucrative. It is stated, in Boston, and his resignation has brought about a transfer of clerks in the municipal building that is decidedly out of the ordinary. The transfers mean more pay for those who have been promoted, but the advisability of transferring a clerk from a department with the workings of which the clerk is thoroughly familiar, to one with which the clerk is not familiar, is questioned.

Clinton P. Tuttle, clerk in the office of the city auditor for the last nine years, will succeed Mr. Raymond in the office of the superintendent of streets and Miss Eleanor M. Churchill, clerk in the office of the purchasing agent, will succeed Mr. Tuttle in the auditor's office.

As clerk in the auditor's office Mr. Tuttle was receiving $22.50 a week and as clerk in the office of the streets department he will receive $25.02. Miss Churchill, one of the most competent bookkeepers and accountants in the city, received $16.50 a week in the purchasing agent's office. Miss Churchill has been clerk in that department for a dozen years or more and Purchasing Agent Foye feels that her services there are almost indispensable, yet he does not want to stand in the way of her advancement.

"I think Miss Churchill is the most competent clerk that I have ever seen," said Mr. Foye, "and I have felt all along that her salary here was too small. I regret very much that she is going to another office and I would gladly have made her salary equal to that of the position to which she goes in the auditor's office but the appropriations committee refused to give me the necessary money. She was so familiar with the work here that it seems almost impossible to fill her place. She was so quick and accurate that she could really do the work of two ordinary clerks."

WOMAN FILES PETITION IN SUPREME COURT

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Mrs. Mollie F. Pearce, widow of a Covington, (Ky.) banker, has invoked the aid of the supreme court to recover the $4180 that she entrusted to Eugene Christian, "naturalist and food expert." She charges that he "cheated and defrauded" her by inducing her to invest in stock of his Christian Natural Food company.

Three years ago, when Christian had a place of business in East Forty-first street, where he demonstrated his natural food, there came to him for treatment Miss Lida Pearl, of Covington, who told her sister, Mrs. Pearce, about Christian's prediction of the company's golden future.

Mrs. Pearce got in communication with Christian. "We've just got one block—310 shares—left in this allotment," she says he told her. "It's all treasury stock and every dollar goes into the treasury."

Mrs. Pearce declares she first bought the 310 shares for $2945 and, later, 30 more shares for $295. In January, 1909, she made another purchase of 100 shares for $250.

Christian was the president of the company. George W. Allee is credited with being vice-president and S. S. Murray the secretary and treasurer. The Christian Natural Food company became a bankrupt.

Christian filed an answer denying all of Mrs. Pearce's charges, but was ordered to appear today for examination.

CHILD KILLED

LITTLE ONE WAS RUN OVER BY A CAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—A throng of about a thousand persons, some muttering threats, others grimly silent, followed a large covered van, from Ninth avenue and Twenty-first street to the old West Twentieth street police station last night.

The van was guarded by policemen. It contained a frightened man and the body of a little girl. The man was the motorman of a trolley car that had killed the child.

When the station was reached the reserves had to charge the crowd, and it was an hour and a half before it was considered safe to escort the motorman out of the danger zone.

Grace, the six-year-old daughter of Alfred Nicholson, of No. 188 Ninth avenue, was playing at the door of her home when her father and little brother Robert passed her on the way to a barber shop across the street. She begged to go with them, but her father said she had better run back in the house.

She started toward the door, but when her father had entered the shop, she must have turned again and crossed the street. She wandered down to the Twenty-first street corner, where she tried to cross the trolley tracks. A southbound car, in charge of Motorman Frank Tuohetara, struck her and one of the wheels passed over her before Tuohetara could stop. The child's dying scream brought persons from every direction. It was scarcely a minute before 1500 were packed around the car.

BIGAMY CHARGE

MAN ARRESTED THREE TIMES IN THREE HOURS

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—John M. Griffiths, of Baldwin, L. I., who has a wife and five children living in that town, and who, it is charged, is married also to Rose Gordon of Far Rockaway, was arrested three times on a bigamy charge within three hours yesterday, and each time the complaint was dismissed by Justice Norton, at Freeport, because of some flaw in the drawing up of the papers.

Finally, as Griffiths was walking out of the court for the third time, he was arrested on a charge of abandonment. It being declared that he has not contributed toward the support of his first family. His first wife and five children were in court, while Mrs. Griffiths No. 2 paced up and down outside the court awaiting the result.

Mrs. Joseph Sawyer, of 113 Gershom avenue, received word yesterday of the death of her sister, Mrs. Pierre Beaumier nee Adeline Boulard, which occurred suddenly at Cap de la Madeleine, Que. The deceased who was 55 years of age, was well known in this city where she came on several occasions. Her funeral will take place Saturday morning.

HELD ROUSING RALLY

Local Democrats Opened State Campaign Last Night

The democratic state campaign was formally and most enthusiastically opened in Lowell last evening with a rousing meeting in Mathew hall. It was the original intention of the democratic city committee to have an informal opening of headquarters last evening with addresses by prominent speakers to the members and party workers on the benefits of party organization but when the identity of the speakers became known so great was the demand by the rank and file for an opportunity to hear them that the meeting was transferred to Mathew hall where a large gathering assembled.

The meeting was in the interest of no particular candidates and both candidates for secretary of state, Frank J. Donahue and Edward O. Skelton were present and spoke. Addresses were also made by the Hon. David I. Walsh, of Fitchburg, democratic candidate for lieutenant-governor, who, while in Lowell, was the guest of James E. O'Donnell, chairman of the democratic state committee, and Charles Barton, candidate for county commissioner.

The meeting was called to order by Cornelius Cronin, chairman of the city committee, who in brief remarks introduced as the presiding officer Humphrey O'Sullivan. Mr. O'Sullivan who has just returned from a trip to Ireland received an ovation as he arose to speak, and his fine appearance after his sojourn was the subject of much congratulatory comment. Mr. O'Sullivan explained that the meeting was held primarily to enliven the members of the city committee and the party workers with some of the energy that pervades in the party throughout the state. He then introduced as the first speaker John F. McDonald, chairman of the democratic state committee.

In this state there are thousands of assessed voters who are not on the voting list of either party. In Lowell there are many that are not on the list, a condition which is deplorable for it is certain if they were voters they would vote the democratic ticket. The work here, then, is to organize and get these eligible men and women voting. The French American vote in Lowell, in fact all over the state, must be reckoned with. It has been neglected by the republican party for years, and the French vote must be given some consideration. Never until this year have they received any state office, when the governor appointed one of them to a position of trust. They are a factor and a big factor and should be carefully given consideration.

It is up to the city committee to get out this vote and to get the names on the voting list that are eligible. If this done, then Lowell and Massachusetts will give the whole democratic state the largest plurality known for years. The eyes of the nation are on this state and we are a most important factor in the coming national election. Maine and Connecticut have gone democratic, New Hampshire and Rhode Island are on the verge.

Maine and Connecticut have gone democratic, New Hampshire and Rhode Island are on the verge.

Michael A. O'Leary, secretary of the state committee, was introduced and he spoke interestingly on organization. He called attention to the fact that the entire democratic ticket must be voted upon. He explained one of the great factors of republican success to be their control of "county rings," for which they never fail to vote.

Edward O. Skelton, one of the two democratic candidates for secretary of state, was next called upon and he urged all to vote the entire ticket. In regard to his own candidacy he stated that he considered himself the logical candidate because he was a Grand Army man.

Secretary Olin was a Grand Army man, he said, and the veterans felt that the office was almost a hereditary one for a veteran, and would vote accordingly without reference to party lines. Mr. Skelton spoke of his early years which he spent in Lowell, where his grandfather was a practicing physician.

Ex-Mayor Barton
Hon. Charles Barton, ex-mayor of Melrose, was next introduced as the candidate for county commissioner. Like the previous speakers Mr. Barton dwelt strongly on the fact that in the past the democrats have neglected the ticket outside of the head.

I was a sufferer from stomach trouble for years, and Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done me more good than any medicine I ever used. has to its credit more than fifty years of success without a question as to its merits as a curative agent. During this time it has brought the blessings of health to overworked men, delicate women and sickly children, who find in it the strength-giving properties that are so necessary to them. It quickens and strengthens the heart action, aids digestion, restores health and vigor, makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous. It is prescribed by doctors and is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, be sure you get the genuine. It is an absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in sealed bottles only—never in bulk. issue with Mr. Skelton. He spoke as follows:

We are entering upon the most unique campaign ever waged in the history of this commonwealth—unique, strange as the statement may seem in this state where American liberty had its birth, because the people for whom the laws are ostensibly made and administered are to be permitted to name the men who make and administer the laws.

A last real life and meaning is to be injected into that moth-eaten and almost forgotten declaration written into the immortal bill of rights by the fathers of our government—that:

To illustrate what a hollow mockery that declaration has become, I need only to recall to you that this year a republican majority in the senate of Massachusetts defeated resolutions for an amendment to the federal constitution which would give the voters the right to vote directly for United States senators, and then defeated a bill which said that the people in any senatorial or representative district might have the right to instruct their representatives on not more than two questions of public policy on the ballot at the state election.

Now, thanks to the democratic party, the people are to name their own candidates for office and thus public officials will become directly responsible to the people. No longer will the choice of the people be restricted to the candidates picked out for them by influence by the corporate influences which have controlled the credentials of state senatorial and representative conventions. You people in Lowell have had, in the main, excellent representatives, because you have nominated them by direct vote. But they have been in striking contrast to most of your senators, nominated by delegate conventions.

No longer will it be possible for any small clique of self-constituted bosses, in either party, to frame states of candidates. There has been considerable talk to the effect that the men entrusted with the machinery of the democratic party have been using that machinery to jam through a slate of candidates of their own selection for the state ticket. Whatever truth there may be in that charge, I know that such an effort cannot succeed except through the indifference of the voters. In the direct nominations net the people have been furnished the remedy for machine domination and political selfishness but the remedy will avail nothing unless it is used.

In any case I have the utmost confidence that the voters will decide for themselves whether I am a fit candidate to carry the democratic colors in the contest for secretary of the commonwealth. I feel confident that they will ratify the verdict of those 126 democratic senators and representatives who picked me from a field of four aspirants for the party's nomination when the legislature was called upon to elect a successor to the late Secretary Olin, giving me more votes than the three other candidates combined and then casting the solid democratic vote for me in the joint convention of the two branches of the legislature.

I think that I rightfully may lay claim to having established my standing as a candidate when I polled the full party strength, with neither Sherman J. Whipple, as a candidate for United States senator, nor Martin M. Lomasney, as a candidate for speaker, strong candidates though they were, was able to do. The republican leaders admitted the strength of my candidacy when, although they had a majority of 27 votes on a joint ballot, they forced the members of their party to stand up like marionettes and announce their choice as Albert D. Langtry, although the constitution called for a secret ballot in such an election.

I could not help feel flattered at this striking testimonial to my vote got.

ANTY DRUDGE

Anty Drudge Goes Shopping on Washday.

Anty Drudge—"Is there anything I can get you downtown, Mrs. Weary? I am going shopping this afternoon."

Mrs. Weary—"What! Shopping on washday! Why, I've just got my clothes ready for the line."

Anty Drudge—"And mine are all ironed. I'm not a bit tired, either, so I'll spend the afternoon at the bargain counters. If you had washed the Fels-Naptha way, you could join me."

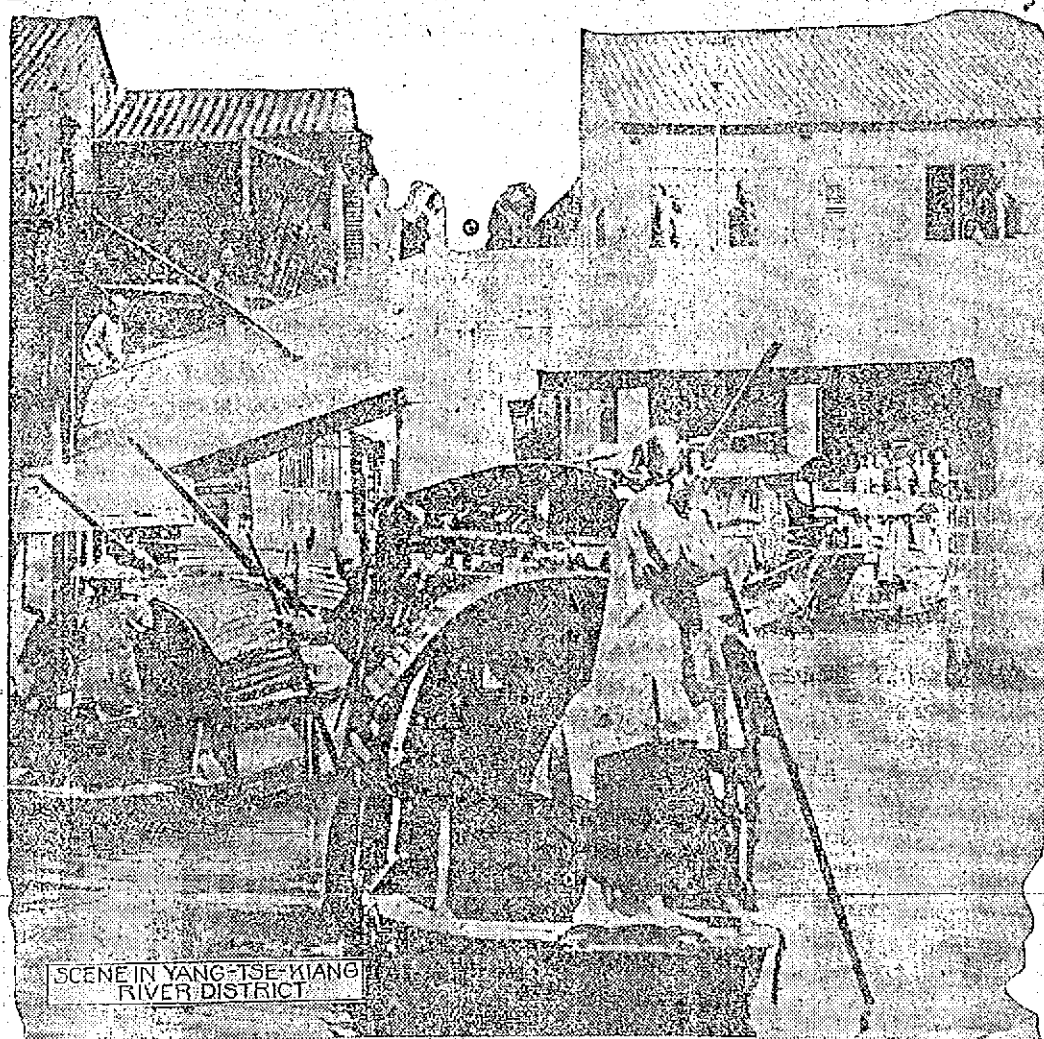

Fels-Naptha soap will make kitchen work easier, just as it does the washing of clothes. Fels-Naptha will clean anything that is cleanable, and do it far better and quicker than any other soap.

Try it on your pots, pans, dishes and other kitchen utensils. It will "cut" the grease quick as a wink and leave them bright and shiny. It will clean glassware and china, and polish them at the same time.

And because it will do this far better in cold or lukewarm water, there is no danger of breaking fragile glass and china by putting them in scalding water.

Kitchen sinks, shelves, cupboard and floor should all be scrubbed with Fels-Naptha. It whitens woodwork as well as cleans it, and neither roaches nor ants will infest a kitchen where the cleaning is regularly done with Fels-Naptha, and chips of the soap placed where they congregate.

Follow the easy directions on the red and green wrapper.

A Summer Friend

"A friend in need is a friend indeed." One is reminded of the old saying by an old New England remedy. It relieves so many troubles and proves a friend in need on so many occasions many families keep it in the house all the time. For sunburn, Brown-tail moth, mosquito bites and all kinds of rash it is a veritable blessing. You will have a most friendly feeling for Tolle-tine this summer if you try its effect on any of these ailments.

FATALLY INJURED

Man Hurlled From Wagon to Sidewalk

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Chemical 7 of East Boston, while responding to an alarm for a trilling blaze in the first section district of East Boston yesterday afternoon, crashed into a democrat wagon at the corner of Orleans and Maverick streets.

One of the occupants of the wagon, Giuseppe De Sisto, aged 39, married, of 118 Orleans street, East Boston, was thrown out. His skull was fractured. He died at 7 last night.

The chemical engine was being driven by Julius Brandt, one of the best fire men in East Boston. The democrat wagon, which is owned by Antonio De Stefano, an ash contractor of East Boston, was in charge of his 12-year-old son, Antonio De Stefano, who more than a year ago suffered the loss of a portion of his left hand as the result of a bomb exploding on the Maverick street flats. That young De Stefano did not meet with serious injury is considered remarkable, as the chemical engine struck the wagon with terrific force.

De Sisto was thrown at least 12 feet. He landed on his head on the pavement. The De Stefano boy saw that the collision could not be averted and jumped from the seat just before the collision. He landed on the back of the horse and then jumped to the street. Beyond a shaking up he escaped injury.

Brandt was thrown from the seat of the engine but held the reins of the horses and with the aid of Hoosman Crowley, who ran to the horses' heads, prevented a runaway. The two handsome bay horses of the chemical were somewhat about the back and legs. The wagon in which De Stefano and De Sisto were riding was smashed to pieces. The horse attached to it just escaped being killed.

ENGINEER BLAISDELL DROWNED WHILE TRYING TO BOARD HIS STEAMER

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Abel S. Blaisdell, aged 55, chief engineer of the steamer Gen. Lincoln of the Boston & Nahant company, was drowned yesterday afternoon at the wharf of Cunningham & Banks, Border street, East Boston, where the vessel is tied up.

He had been ashore during the forenoon and returned to the boat about 2.15 p. m. He was not seen by any member of the crew or anybody on the wharf. It is supposed he fell in while trying to get aboard the vessel.

How long Mr. Blaisdell had been in the water is not known, but it is thought he had been struggling to reach one of the wharf logs and shouting for assistance for some time.

George A. Fossett of Round Pond, Me., and Irving Cunningham of 78 Walnut street, Roxbury, members of the crew of the Gen. Lincoln, who were in a stateroom, finally heard his cries for help.

They ran to the upper deck and then jumped to the wharf. Mr. Blaisdell was some distance from the wharf. They got a rope, which was quickly fastened about his body, and he was pulled in to the side of the wharf and lifted up aboard the Gen. Lincoln. The steamer's whistle was blown for the pilot boat.

The policemen on arriving found Blaisdell was still alive and they made every effort with artificial respiration, but he was too far gone. He was taken to the East Boston relief station in an ambulance. There Dr. Penhallow found he was dead.

A son of Mr. Blaisdell, Rex Blaisdell, was working on another boat of the company nearby and when he discovered that it was his father who was drowned he was almost prostrated.

SUES HIS BROTHER

Man Alleges Alienation of Wife's Affections

Charging the alienation of the affection of his wife, Blanche Stevens, of 618 Main street, Wakefield, Charles E. Stevens, now living in Grafton Center, N. H., has brought a suit for $20,000 against his brother, Lyman W. Stevens of Wakefield.

An attachment of $20,000 upon the latter's property was filed yesterday at the Middlesex registry of deeds in Cambridge.

It is alleged that Mrs. Stevens is now living in the same house with her brother-in-law at 618 Main street, Waltham. The defendant has been ill two years.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of the Lowell

Nest of Owls was held last night in Elks hall in Middle street. There was a large attendance and President E. M. Bowers occupied the chair. Considerable routine business was transacted and the reports of various committees were read and approved. Action was also taken on several amendments to the by-laws which were submitted by a special committee appointed by President Bowers several weeks ago.

After considerable debate the amendments were passed and several recommendations of the committee were adopted.

An active campaign for new members is to be inaugurated at once, and the president appointed committees in each ward in the city.

These committees will be known as scouting or rallying committees. Each membership for the big class initiation which will be held in November. The age limit in the order of Owls is 18 and 50 years and every candidate admitted must pass a rigid physical examination. The four nest physicians will attend to the examination.

The supreme president and perhaps other members of the supreme nest will be present at the class initiation and the second degree will probably be conferred on the two Lowell members who have been honored recently.

Vice President Grover of the Taunton nest, who is visiting Lowell, was present at the meeting and spoke interestingly of the work that is being done by the Taunton nest.

Southern Massachusetts is a fertile field for the Owls and strong aggressive nests have been instituted in New Bedford, Fall River, Taunton, Waltham, Meriborough, Brockton and in said old Plymouth county, as well.

The outgoing committee, J. J. Marx, chairman, announces everything ready for the event. The price of tickets, etc., will be announced later by advertisement through the press. Many tickets have already been disposed of and the affair is now an assured success.

ROBERT MAXWELL HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Robert F. Maxwell, fish dealer with a place of business at 570 Garham street, had a narrow escape from being badly hurt yesterday when the horse which he was driving ran away and he was thrown over a stone wall. Mr. Maxwell was driving through Garham street near the East Churchford street line when the horse took the bit in his teeth and started to run. The animal headed towards a stone wall and when the wagon banged up against the obstruction Mr. Maxwell was thrown into the field on the other side.

The ambulance was summoned by some person but when it arrived Mr. Maxwell refused to be taken away, claiming that he was not badly hurt.

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Fifteen persons were driven to the street in their nightclothes early today by a fire which practically gutted two tenement houses in East Boston. WOMAN WAS SLAIN

She Was Shot Down by a Jealous Employe

WATERVILLE, Me., Sept. 8.—Mrs. Burrill yesterday by William J. Brooks, aged 35, one of the employees of the camps, proprietors of the Winona beach. Mrs. Burrill died 20 minutes later.

his forehead. He will not live.

Brooks was sent to Oakland yesterday morning by Mrs. Burrill to purchase some supplies. He went by train and returned by power boat. When he appeared at the camps he was intoxicated. It is alleged, and an altercation ensued, which ended with Mrs. Burrill's declaration that Brooks must go at once.

She accompanied him to his lodgings where he secured his effects, and packed them in a suit case and the two went down the path together toward the landing. What passed between them will never be known. There was no eyewitness.

Suddenly two shots were heard. Albert Jack, Mrs. Burrill's partner, a Portland chauffeur, was in the kitchen of the dining pavilion. He was the first to reach the scene.

Mrs. Burrill lay on the ground beneath a pine tree with a wound in her left temple. On the other side of the path lay Brooks, the fatal revolver at his side, while two bullet holes in his forehead showed where the bullet had entered and left his head. He had evidently aimed for the temple. Jack ran a quarter of a mile to the nearest telephone to summon a doctor and when he returned 20 minutes later Mrs. Burrill was dead.

In the meantime there was a panic among the dozen guests remaining at the camps and they began to pack up in a hurry. They hastened to Belgrade station to take the New York express but were stopped by Coroner J. H. Thyn of Belgrade.

Brooks was taken into a camp and laid on a bed. His mind was evidently wandering, for when he was asked by Coroner Thyn: "Why did you shoot this woman?" he replied: "Because she swore to lie about me every day in court."

Neither Brooks nor Mrs. Burrill has appeared in any litigation so far as known.

The formality of arresting Brooks was performed by Constable Guy E. Yeaton of Belgrade. Shortly after the arrest Deputy Sheriff Joseph P. McCarthy and Harry Belliveau of Waterville arrived and went to work on the case under the direction of the coroner.

Mrs. Burrill has been separated from her husband, Merton Burrill of Pittsfield, Me., for some time.

Up to four years ago there was only one camp at Winona. In company with Alfred Jack, Mrs. Burrill had added to the buildings until there are seven camps, and a prosperous business had been built up.

Brooks is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Brooks of Oakland. His aged father was bending over his bed when the arrest was made.

"There ain't much use of arresting him," was his remark.

The place where the murder was committed is so far from any settlement that it was several hours before the officers arrived. In the meantime Alfred Jack stood guard over the premises.

The confession of Brooks, although inaccurate, implicates no one else in the murder. It is believed he was jealous of other men's attentions to Mrs. Burrill.

Several weeks ago he bought a revolver and made threats against Mrs. Burrill upon their return from a dance at Oakland, where she danced most of the time with others. She is alleged to have forced Brooks to throw the revolver into the lake.

The revolver, picked up from beside Brooks yesterday, was a new 32-caliber weapon.

LOWELL IS VICTORIOUS

Lawrence Neatly Trimmed Yesterday in One-Sided Game

Up the river came the Lawrence bunch yesterday headed by Daddy-Lone-Legs Pieper, the man who says that Barrows shouldn't be allowed to play ball with Lowell. The down river fellows had even as much confidence as did the Worcester outfit Wednesday after beating Lowell with the aid of Luyster and Bannan a few days ago. This time, however, they had a real live umpire to deal with in the person of little Jack Stafford and they got what was coming to them in no more.

Down the river in two special cars came the leather lunged boy-farmers from the Middlesex Training school with their celebrated band, their acting superintendent Mr. Mason and all the teachers. Some of the boys were neatly attired in khaki uniforms while others carried blue pennants bearing the name "Lowell" on them. It was one gala day for the kiddos and they made the welkin ring, whatever that is, with their cheers for Jimmie Gray, the Lowell team, Supt. Mason, Jim Larkin, their band instructor, Phil Murphy, the cop who saluted them at Mer-tinack Square, and every one they happened to think of while en route. At the park they gave a first class concert including the immortal "Swing" which will cling to Manager Gray even as "Sweet Adeline" refuses to be divorced from Johnnie Fitz, the little Napoleon of the Hub.

The hold-over excitement after Wednesday's victory coupled with the fact that yesterday was a half holiday in the stores brought out a large crowd. There were a few hundred up from Lawrence and they made themselves heard for the Lawrence bunch wants Worcester to win the pennant.

It was announced at the grounds that Manager Gray has secured the services of Willard Jackson, the star pitcher of the Brattleboro, Vt. team which has just won the championship of the Inter-State league; Murray, the first baseman and captain of the Brattleboro team of last season's Waltham High school team. Present at the game was Joseph Page of St. John, N. B., a well known newspaper man who is arranging the Canadian trip of the Lowell team for next week. The team will play at St. Stevens on Sept. 11 and 12 and at St. John Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

There were 2200 people present when Umpire Stafford called play.

PRESIDENT WM. H. TAFT

Made a Strong Plea for the Arbitration Treaty

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 8.—To a Connecticut audience 50,000 strong, massed upon the home stretch of Charter Oak race track yesterday afternoon, President Taft spoke on arbitration between nations.

It was such an audience as is seldom seen in this state, for most of it had been drawn from the hill and valley towns where agricultural pursuits are followed, and to most of the people the president was an unfamiliar figure despite his many and frequent visits to the state.

President Taft was both the guest of the state and of the Connecticut fair association, and his address followed a state luncheon given in the new Memorial hall on Capitol hill.

Short as was his visit here it was one of action. He was whisked from the luncheon, a little late by the program to the fair grounds, three miles away, finding the crowd anxious for him to appear. He was placed upon a platform within the track inclosure, where Gov. Baldwin introduced him.

A rope held back the people, but the president asked that the barrier be taken down and the people rushed forward to within sound of his voice.

Thousands Hear Speech

The address was intently listened to, and even if many thousands could scarcely make out what he said, yet the president was in excellent voice. Quiet was maintained over a large area.

Time and again the president's plea for an arbitral court between the great nations of the world was enthusiastically applauded. At the close, owing to the short time remaining before his departure, the president was unable to receive more than a few who were in his immediate neighborhood.

Then he returned to his motor car and was whisked into the city, leaving for Boston at 5 o'clock.

President Taft is such a familiar figure in Connecticut that he spoke like one renewing old acquaintances rather than to a crowd of strangers. And this bond was sufficient to hold a large audience to a speech that dealt almost exclusively with the legal technicalities of arbitration treaties with England and France which now await the approval of the American senate.

After paying tribute to the persistent energy of the Connecticut farmer in tilling a somewhat unwilling soil, the president plunged at once into a discussion of the three principal causes of the arbitration treaties. He quoted liberally from his recent speeches on the same subject. He endeavored to show the benefits accruing to the high contracting parties and the support which his movement was receiving from peace societies and commercial organizations.

Perhaps the most significant part of his address was as follows: "The majority of the senate committee on foreign relations say that they cannot consent that somebody else shall decide for them whether a question arising in the future is within the provision of the first article of this treaty, that for them to do so is to delegate their power to another tribunal and is to bind themselves by an obligation which they have no power to assume."

"It is the view of the minority however, and with that view I am earnestly in accord, that the issue where a future difference shall be within the terms of a description of article 1 of the treaty is an international question arising out of a construction of the treaty under a claim of right by one of the parties to an arbitration and is a question, therefore, that the president and the senate, acting as the treaty-making power, have the right to agree by the treaty to submit to a tribunal for a final judgment. In what different way is the treaty-making power involved when we ask the senate to concur in a treaty which agrees to submit all justiciable differences to arbitration and when it is asked to agree to submit to arbitration the question whether a difference arising is justiciable or not under a treaty I confess that I cannot see the distinction. It is a well known fact that Norway and Sweden have made an agreement to settle all differences except those of vital interest and national honor by submission to the Hague tribunal and they have further agreed that when they differ as to whether the controversy arising is arbitral under the treaty to submit that question to the board of arbitration for its final decision. Now, if I understand the attitude of the majority of the senate committee, it is that they have no power, and therefore, the government has no power, to enter into a treaty by which we shall agree to submit to a third person constituting a tribunal the question on whether we are bound under a treaty to abide the judgment of the tribunal as to a particular issue. The treaty-making power under the constitution, it has been decided by the supreme court, hardly knows definition or limit. It is one of the broadest powers conferred by the constitution and it is conferred on the executive and the senate. Certainly it is not in the interest of the cause of peace that that power should be limited in such a way that other governments may make treaties of the kind and we may not."

"I cannot exaggerate the importance of escaping from the limited and narrow view the majority of the senate committee takes of the powers of the senate in this regard and of securing action by the senate sustaining the minority view. The ideal toward which we are all working with these treaties is the ultimate establishment of an arbitral court to which we shall submit our international controversies with the same freedom and the same dependence on the judgment as in case of domestic courts. If the senate cannot bind itself to submit questions of jurisdiction arising under the treaty, as Norway and Sweden have done for instance, then the prospect of real and substantial progress is most discouraging."

"I call your attention to the unfortunate consequences not only to ourselves but to the whole civilized world, not only for today but for ages to come if the final adoption of this reasoning by the senate committee is to prevail. Steadily throughout the world the burden of the creation of armies and fleets has grown heavier and heavier steadily the competition has grown more fierce and is crushing the life and the hopes of the people. But steadily too, and of late even more rapidly has grown the hope that an escape from these burdens may be found, that in some measure at least the peaceful methods of settling disputes among individual men may obtain between the nations in some measure, I say, let us not be too extravagant in our dreams and our prophecies, and yet who can say what the end of such a movement, of such aspirations may be? Now wherever good men and women the world over are longing and praying for the dawn of this great day of peace their eyes turn first with hope and confidence to the great republic of the west; to the land which more than any other has used the peaceful method of arbitration to settle its differences with other nations. In this great movement we are the hope of the world. We hope, by the proposed construction of the senate powers to make a treaty, we are now to strike down. The men and women who are struggling and long, we say to: 'Look not to us for leadership. We cannot even follow.' Let other nations arbitrate, let others even set up a high court of nations and pledge their fate that they will resort no more to the dread arbitrament of war but still abide by the verdict of their chosen judges. The great American nation is unable by its legislators to help forward the great movement is unable to bind itself to any future broad submission of its case to an arbitral court, though the whole world follows this light of civilization and peace. For, remember, if the senate cannot now bind us to abide, the judgment of an arbitral court as to where a question of justiciable it can never bind us, and if the senate cannot bind us the nation cannot bind us and this peace-loving people is forever incapable of taking a step along the great path which all the world wishes to tread and along which all the world thinks America best fitted to lead."

THE RECALL

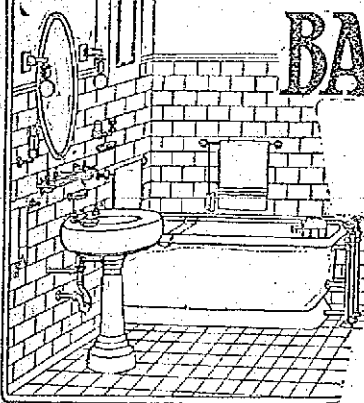

MAY PROVE A FAILURE IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 8.—When the first check of the names on the supplemental list to call a recall election for Mayor George W. Dilling was completed last night it was apparent that the recall movement had failed. Although sufficient names were found valid to force the calling of the recall election there have been filed more than 500 applications for withdrawal of names enough to make the petition ineffective. Friends of the recall are contemplating an effort to enjoin the withdrawal of these names.

RACED WITH DEATH U. S. GOVERNMENT

Mother Sped in Automobile With Dying Son

NORTH ADAMS, Sept. 8.—A race with death for 35 miles over one of the roughest roads in the state was won Wednesday night by Mrs. Joan Cuneo in a high-powered automobile.

Mrs. Cuneo's 12-year-old son, while shooting at a white rock for a target Wednesday was struck by a bullet that bounded back and severed an artery in his leg.

The accident happened at the Cuneo summer home, Lake Raconda, where there was no physician. Mrs. Cuneo, who is well known as a driver of racing automobiles, put her son into one of the swift cars and headed for Wilmington, Vt., four miles away, to get a physician.

Just outside the village she met Dr. L. F. Page in his automobile. Transporting the doctor to her machine Mrs. Cuneo headed back for North Adams. The road was dark and at its best one of the roughest in the state, but was made worse by washouts and mud of a recent rain. Unfamiliar with the road as she was, Mrs. Cuneo sent the car over the 35 miles in a little more than an hour to the North Adams hospital. There the boy received the proper medical attention and was able to return home yesterday.

CHICAGO THEATRES

Decide to Get Rid of Orchestras

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Two Chicago theatres, after the first clash, have dispensed with orchestras. The cause of the absence of music is said by the managers to be the blame of the from-bone in the orchestra pit. The musicians however, say the objection to the from-bone is only an excuse. They claim that the managers are trying to ruin their union.

The Chicago Federation of Musicians recently passed a rule that the orchestras in all of the big Chicago theatres must consist of 11 players and a leader, or as an alternative, they must go without music entirely. The ultimatum was presented to the theatre men. The manager of one of the theatres said today:

"So far, we have done well without music. Patrons of the theatre seem to regard sitting out the intermissions without music as a novelty and apparently find conversation fully as interesting."

STRIKE STILL ON

AT THE ATLANTIC MILLS IN LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, Sept. 8.—Larger in proportions today than ever, the strike at the Atlantic mills gives no indications of letting up in the course of a week or two at the least. A large number of the weavers and doers are out and both declare they will not return until the demands of both are granted. The main grievance is that while the work has been greatly increased the pay remains the same. A mass meeting is being arranged to give the public the causes of the strike and to devise means of assistance.

Does Not Want Panama Canal Threatened

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—With every disposition to encourage the investment of capital in the development of the isthmus of Panama, the government is resolved that it will not permit the issue of concessions by the Panamanian congress that will in any degree threaten the business of the canal. Attention has been drawn to the subject recently by the passage of a law in Panama, granting a concession to a company to construct a railroad entering the city of Panama from a mining country to the southward. It has been alleged that the concession is so drawn as to permit the construction of an extension of lines of road that might cross the isthmus and so prove to be an active competitor for business with the canal. There is already a project under way for the construction of a railroad entering Panama from the north and this is thought desirable because it will form part of the intercontinental system, the development of which the United States is committed. If it can be shown that the projected southern road can be likewise made available as part of this system and that it cannot be turned into a crossroad between the Caribbean and the Pacific it is possible the state department will make no objection to the concession. A careful inquiry is being made.

Michael J. Burns, who was yesterday sentenced to the state farm and appeared in court this morning and withdrew his appeal.

Michael O'Connell and Patrick Heslin were each ordered to pay a fine of $5.

Little Boy Was Seeking an Airship

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Joseph Naimo, the 8-year-old son of Michael and Grace Naimo, who live on the second floor at 16 Cleveland place, North End, went upon the roof yesterday to look for airships. His playmates were enjoying themselves in the alley below, which leads off South Hill street. Little Joe heard their childish shouts and called out to them to look up at an airship. He had started to get down to the roof of No. 14, some five feet below. With one foot on the air he turned his eyes back to the laughing array. He did not notice he was near the edge.

One more step and his foot went off into vacant space. He fell four stories, almost 80 feet, to the brick pavement.

The children scattered and ran from the heap on the pavement, but a couple of women passing the end of the alley saw Joe lying there and rushed to him. One of them picked him up just as Joe's father came out of the door, way of No. 16.

The father took the boy, but stood helpless with horror. Joseph De Cicco, a neighbor, saw him standing with the unconscious form in his arms, and took the boy from him, ran up the hill around the corner and down to the Hull street mission.

Dr. W. R. Young was in attendance at the dispensary and did all he could, but the boy died 10 minutes after being brought in, without recovering consciousness. Medical Examiner McGrath examined the body later and said the skull was fractured. The funeral will take place at the church of St. Leonard of Port Maurice, Peluso street.

The boy was born in Italy, not far from Genoa. There is another child a year and a half old. But Joe was the hope of his parents and at times they dreamed of his future when perhaps he should enter the priesthood.

Of the warm summer evenings when the father returned home from a hard day of pushing a heavy cart of produce about the streets he and the mother used to sit on the doorstep and watch Joe playing with companions in the street where he was a leader among the children.

WOMEN IN DANGER

Prompt Action of Policeman Saved Them

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—The lives of Anne Randon, 31 years old, of Concord street, Cambridge, and Mrs. Harriet Walton, of Cambridge, were probably saved yesterday afternoon by the prompt action and wonderful physical power of Patrolman William T. Hall of division 2, who held in check a 60-horse power automobile and prevented it from passing over the bodies of the two women, who were prostrate on the street.

The two women, accompanied by Mr. Walton, were crossing Tremont street, opposite Winter, about 5:20 o'clock. They were struck by an automobile owned, it is said, by the police, by P. C. Lothrop, 126 Congress street, Milford.

The machine was being driven along Tremont street, opposite Winter, when it was stopped by Patrolman Hall in order to allow people to cross the street. While standing still the engine became dead. The driver left the machine to crank it. The speed lever was left in. As the engine started the machine jumped and struck the two women. Officer Hall jumped in front and placed his shoulder against the machine held the automobile at a standstill. The women were quickly pulled from in front of the wheels.

CALLED A DRAW

MURPHY AND MOORE PUT UP A FAST BOUT

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—In a cleverly boxed and fast bout of 10 rounds between Pat Moore and Tommy Murphy at the National sporting club last night the lads fought so evenly that it was hard to choose between them. Each had an advantage in five rounds. On the points scored it was an even session, and the decision of the crowd was a draw.

No finer exhibition of boxing has been seen in this city for many a day than Moore and Murphy gave. It was artistic in the extreme. Swings, hooks and uppercuts were blocked many times. Whenever Moore landed a blow it was invariably countered by Murphy.

Pat had an early lead, but the fast pace began to wear him down and the veteran Murphy began to score in the last half. Moore's blows to the stomach, followed by punches to the jaw, staggered Tommy several times, but Murphy's ring generalship saved him.

WHY NOT HAVE STRONG NERVES?

Nervous Debility Is Preventable and Curable as This Ohio Case Proves.

Mrs. G. E. Neu, of No. 504 Oak street, Elmwood Place, Ohio, was led to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People by her husband after being in a nervous and run-down condition for over two years. She says:

"It was quite a good while before I was aware that I was suffering from nervous debility for I have always had a strong constitution. Through worry and loss of sleep due to the sickness of my children, I began to feel that I was getting nervous and was always tired. I got so that I could fly to pieces over any excitement and could not bear any noise, even that made by the children in playing. I had constant headaches back of my eyes and quite often was dizzy. My hands and feet were always cold and neither friction nor heat would warm them. I had no appetite and could not go upstairs without stopping to rest."

"I was complaining for over two years and often called in the doctor but he didn't help me. My husband had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People some years before and was constantly urging me to try them. Finally to please him I consented to give the pills a trial. Before I had taken many boxes I felt better and then was only too glad to continue using them. I soon noticed that I could go upstairs without stopping for breath and that my hands and feet were warm. When my friends would ask me what I was taking I never lost a chance to praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The pills restored my health and I wonder how any one suffering from a blood or nervous disease, can neglect to take them. I hope my experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may induce others to give them a trial."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are useful in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves such as rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, neuralgia, nervous debility, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write for a free copy of our "Diseases of the Nervous System."

RUN ON DOCK

THE STEAMER SANTA CLARA MET WITH ACCIDENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—Creeping into the Golden Gate yesterday through a heavy fog, the coasting steamer Santa Clara ran upon the submerged Centessa rocks, which government engineers in a recent search were unable to find and for the blowing up of which the last congress made an appropriation. The steamer now agrees that the rocks are there but the marking buoy was misplaced when the official search was made. The Santa Clara struck near the spot where the Rio de Janeiro, from the Orient, sank Feb. 22, 1901.

"SHOT" PIKE'S PEAK

MEN MADE TRIP ON A RAILROAD TOBOGGAN

COLORADO SPRINGS, Sept. 8.—R. O. Green of New Hampshire and M. H. Hayden of Detroit yesterday "shot" Pike's peak on a railroad "toboggan"—a grassed board with cleats that fit over the cog rails of the mountain railroad. Starting from a point above the Half Way house, they reached Manitou at the base of the peak, a distance of five miles, in five minutes and 37 seconds.

ESCAPING GAS

STARTED FIRE IN A FAYETTE STREET HOUSE

An alarm from box 14 at 8:05 o'clock last night summoned a portion of the fire department to a slight blaze in a house at 262 Fayette street occupied by Lumina Hamel and owned by B. Tracey. The fire was caused by a rubber tubing connecting a gas pipe with a stove which became disconnected, causing the gas to be ignited. A door near the stove was scorched but the damage will be small.

MAN IS ACCUSED OF LARCENY AT BANGOR

BANGOR, Sept. 8.—James Tracey, who says that he recently escaped from Augusta jail, had since served 10 days in Bangor jail, had been 13 years in the navy and was on a furlough from the national home at Togus, was sent to jail yesterday in default of $1000 bail to wait for the February term.

Tracey, according to a number of witnesses, pulled off the boldest daylight holdup known in Bangor for years. The evidence was that, in company with one Frank Moran, he was walking up Exchange street at 4:30 yesterday afternoon with a farm hand from Elm named John Haggerty. When in front of the Penobscot Exchange hotel and while people were

RAILROAD OFFICIAL

Entered An Appeal from Jail Sentence

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 8.—W. R. Crawford, manager of the Seattle, Renton & Southern Ry. Co., was sentenced yesterday to serve 30 days in the county jail for violating the public service commission ruling prohibiting more than a five cent fare without transfer privileges within the corporate limits of Seattle. Crawford appealed to the superior court from the decision and was released on $500 bond.

The fight between this railroad and its patron and the temporary injunction granted by United States Judge Hanford recently led to a mass meeting at which the judge was fiercely denounced while a crowd in the street hanged him in effigy.

DOROTHY WHITNEY

BECOMES THE BRIDE OF W. D. STRAIGHT

GENEVA, Switz., Sept. 6.—Miss Dorothy Payne Whitney, daughter of the late William C. Whitney, and William D. Straight, ex-American consul general at Mukden and more recently connected with the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. in far eastern investments, were married at the American church here at noon yesterday.

The ceremony was performed by Bishop T. A. Jagger, assisted by W. A. Nies, pastor of the church. About 30 relatives and friends were present.

Harry P. Whitney gave away the bride. She wore a gray traveling costume and was attended by her aunts, the Miss Olive and Dorothy Paget and Miss Beatrice Bishop, the little daughter of Cortlandt P. Bishop.

Mr. Straight's best man was William Phillips, secretary of the American embassy at London.

Among those present at the wedding were Mrs. H. P. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Alberto Paget, Mr. and Mrs. Cortlandt P. Bishop, Mrs. George A. Bend and Miss Beatrice Dodge, American minister to Panama, and Mrs. Dodge, Edwin V. Morgan, the American minister to Portugal, and Mr. and Mrs. Hermann B. Duryc.

Breakfast was served on the hotel terrace overlooking Geneva lake. Preceding the religious ceremony there was a civil one at which the mayor delivered a lengthy discourse in French on the duties of married life. After their honeymoon the bride and groom will go to Peking.

Summary of information contained in Letter of President of the Company.

This Company has acquired a large Oil Refining Plant and Works fully completed and equipped on the Bay of San Francisco with deep water facilities and upwards of 100 acres of valuable waterfront fronting Point.

WORKS.—The works are exceptionally well built; the construction being of brick, stone and iron with slate roofs to all important buildings, while the situation and arrangement of the plant provide for operating in a large way at minimum cost.

BUSINESS.—The business which has been done by the Works and is to be continued by this Company on a larger scale, is the Refining of Crude Oils for domestic and foreign trade, and this Company will direct its attention especially to the transaction of the Cargo Trade in refined oils to the Orient. The crude oil is to be purchased direct from the producers and the refined products sold to the markets of Asia and of all countries advantageously reached by the Pacific Ocean, especially China, India and Australia.

CAPACITY AND EXHIBITS.—The Works have a capacity of about 2500 barrels crude oil per day. It is proposed at intervals during the construction of the works, some 50,000 barrels of crude oil have been refined, and the refined products have been sold to the foreign and domestic trade of the Pacific Ocean at a satisfactory profit. This profit should amount to approximately $2.00 per barrel when the works are put into full operation. With the present capacity at 2000 barrels per day, the net profits on this output at $2.00 per barrel would amount to $1,200,000 per annum, a sum sufficient to pay the full 7 per cent annual dividend on the preferred stock, and leave a balance available for dividends amounting to about 25 per cent on both preferred and common stock.

SALE AND PROFITABLE BUSINESS.—This Company does not produce crude oil but transacts a manufacturing and export business purchasing crude material from producers and selling the manufactured products to the foreign and domestic trade. The very profitable nature of the oil refining business is generally well known. On both the American and Asiatic sides of the Pacific Ocean the demand for refined oils is constantly increasing.

NO BONDS.—No Mortgage can be put upon the property, or bonds issued by the Company in priority to the Preferred stock without the consent of every holder of the Preferred stock. This condition is enforced on each Preferred Share Certificate.

CHARLES EDWARD ERTZ, President,
American Oriental Company.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1910 was

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 2, 1911. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

We are told by some people that the old city charter is good enough, that we are going along all right and that there is no need of a new charter just at present. This statement is not in accord with the facts. For years the business of the city has been blocked, bungled and delayed by deadlocks in the city council or by disagreement between the mayor and the city council. As a result the urgent needs of the city have been neglected, money has been wasted through mismanagement, and yet the people were helpless to change the situation. The mayor has not the power to change things, neither has the city council, and thus the people are victims of a wrong system. We want a charter in which responsibility will be centered on some official or on a small number of officials and under which the people can stop abuses or mismanagement without waiting till next election day. All this can be easily done under the new charter which places the necessary power in the hands of the people and fixes responsibility so definitely that when anything goes wrong there will be no mistake as to where the blame lies.

Some crowds are very unreasonable in their demands for excitement when they assemble at a county fair or any other place of amusement. Out at Norton, Kan., the other day John J. Frisbie, the aviator, appeared on the field to give an exhibition as per contract. Two days previous he had had an accident to his engine and felt it dangerous to take another chance in the air. The insatiable crowd began to yell "Take it," and moved by their jeers Frisbie made the attempt, but it was fatal. The crowd realized their folly after they saw him fall to his death. Who will say that bull fights are too cruel for some people?

The new Sullivan anti-weapon law is raising lots of trouble in New York. In view of the dangerous gangs that infest that city extreme measures are necessary in order to stop the use of firearms and other dangerous weapons. Anybody found with any such weapon on his person or at his lodgings without a permit to keep it is subject to prosecution and fine or imprisonment. The police commission of New York is being besieged with people who have weapons and want to give them up or be licensed to hold them. The police are having their labors multiplied as a result of the operation of this law.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW

It is believed that the court dockets throughout the state will be cleared up sooner than was expected, not only on account of the increase of three judges on the superior court bench but also because of the great decrease in the number of actions of tort resulting from the operation of the Workmen's Compensation law, the more important part of which will take effect July 1 of next year. The part of the act providing for the creation of the Massachusetts Employees Insurance association will become operative January 1, 1912. Although the act will not apply to any accident that occurred prior to the dates mentioned, yet it is presumed that actions previously entered in court and pending afterwards may be disposed of under the provisions of the new law if agreeable to the parties concerned. There is still a good deal of confusion as to the provisions and scope of that law; and no wonder for it appears so complicated that few outside the legal profession understand it fully.

As to its main features we may say that except for domestic servants and farm laborers the law repeals the defense that the employee was negligent, that the injury was caused by the negligence of a fellow employee and that the employee had assumed all the risks of the business on entering the service of the plaintiff.

The employer will have the option of taking his chances in the courts with the defenses mentioned unavailable or to protect himself by joining the mutual liability association to be formed under the act, or he can insure in any outside company against the liability to pay the compensation provided for under the new law.

The act provides for the establishment of an industrial accident board to have supervision over all parties affected by the act, and this board is given considerable judicial power in forcing what it deems to be an equitable settlement in accordance with the new law.

As to the amount of compensation fixed under this law for death, partial or permanent disability and for other specified injuries, the sum may be less than would be awarded by a jury; but it is not dependent upon chance nor upon the ability of the defense to break down the evidence. Besides, in the ordinary course in an action of tort, if a liberal verdict be secured, the case is carried to the supreme court, and the chances are that when the litigation is over there will be but little if any of the amount awarded left for the plaintiff. In case of death the amount to dependents is $3000; for permanent incapacity an equal amount; partial incapacity, the amount to be paid weekly and to be determined by the extent of the injuries and the victim's weekly wage. In certain very serious specified injuries a sum as high as $1500 may be paid to the victim and his dependents in addition to the amounts stated above.

There is a good deal of detail to the working out of the law, but the accident board, the three members of which will receive a salary of $6000 each, except the chairman who will receive $6500, is empowered to make arbitration compulsory under certain conditions. It is hoped that the law will benefit the employer as well as the employee, and if it proves defective in operation it must be amended. It could hardly be expected that a law of this kind could be made strictly equitable and complete at the first attempt. It is a very laudable effort to establish a basis of compensation for injuries that will relieve the employee from the almost hopeless task of fighting a legal battle to the court of last resort.

SEEN AND HEARD

When the young couple married, a friend who laid claims of being somewhat of a magician presented them a tall bottle of transparent liquid, instructing them to place it upon their mantel and explaining that if either of them ever dared to flirt the contents of the bottle would assume a murky color.

After they had been married a year the wife went to the seashore for a vacation. In her absence her husband frequently entertained a group of bachelor friends with amusements thoroughly bachelorlike, but innocent enough. The guests inquired as to the significance of the tall bottle on the mantel, but the host persistently refused to divulge the secret. Finally, on the night before the day set for his wife's return, he explained the meaning of the mysterious bottle.

One of the guests who was much given to practical joking surreptitiously removed the cork of the bottle and he emptied the contents of his fountain pen. When the bottle had been thoroughly shaken it was replaced upon the mantel and carefully concealed behind a large photograph. Next day, after the wife had returned, in dusting the mantel she removed the photograph, thus revealing the tall bottle with its subtle contents. She very promptly took the bottle to the sink, emptied it, rinsed it out thoroughly, filled it with clean water and replaced it on the mantel.

In a good many families there is a constant tone of disrespect for the boy and all his belongings. He is not wanted in the parlor; his great hobbled shoes "kick up the carpet," and leave prints of mud and dust all over it. He is not longed for in the kitchen; a hungry boy is not to be trusted to keep his hands off cupboard handles. His toys and books are usually banished to some back chamber, or even to a cold, remote outbuilding. His hobbies are rather apt to be laughed at, and, in general, he is likely to be a stranger to the language of compliment and admiration. Is it any wonder that there is an "awkward age" for most boys brought up under such a regime? Youngsters must have sunshine; an atmosphere of approval is the kind a boy's heart always responds to, and it will not unfold properly in any other. To help a boy to reach his best development, one great first principle is to build up his respect. Let him know that in this world, and he is to live in this world, and that he is to live in it with a sense of that importance. Make it a daily study to find out something to admire in him, either in his conduct, or in his tastes or his work. The praise and interest need not always be spoken; actions speak louder than words. Never let him feel that you despise or underrate him. It is demoralizing.

NO ONE NEED REMAIN FAT NOW

Physician Doubles Fat by New Method, Simple Method, After Dinner, Medicated, Adversely Beneficial, and Starvation Diet Has All Fatted

"REDUCED MY WEIGHT 100 POUNDS"

On Nov. 1st Dr. P. Turner, a well-known Philadelphia physician, was one of the fattest men in that great city. He weighed 251 pounds, his chest measured 45 inches, and he wore 17½ collar. His health was miserable; he was weak and tired all the time; dull, heavy and stupid; and unable to do his work. He had just been refused life insurance because of this excessive weight. He was told he was in a very bad way, and that if he did not lose weight he would die. He was told that he could get rid of his fat by the methods of flesh reduction known to medical science, starvation diets, purging, violent exercise, etc., but they had done more harm than good.

With practically no health sense, considering him in the face and a wife and family to support, Dr. Turner thought of an entirely original and different from any he had used, and finally made a most wonderful scientific discovery by means of which he has actually reduced his weight 100 lbs., gaining in strength and general health with every pound he lost.

On Jan. 1st of this year Dr. Turner weighed 151 lbs., his waist measured 37½ inches, and he wore a 15½ collar. His health is perfect, he is as capable of hard work as at 25 years of age, and his mind is clear and buoyant.

Dr. Turner's wonderful success has amazed his friends and fellow physicians. His method is simple, yet thoroughly scientific. There are no medicines or drugs, no physical culture, no exercise, no Turkish Baths, sweating, purging, starvation diets, or weakening methods of any kind. On the contrary, the system, which any person can readily practice in his own home, without medical assistance of any kind, is designed not only to remove superfluous flesh, but to build up a body of about 1 lb. a day, but to strengthen the entire body, and benefit the general health right from the start.

Dr. Turner's remarkable discovery and experience created widespread attention from both physicians and the general public, and he has been fairly besieged with requests for personal treatments. Close friends have urged him to specialize in this particular branch of work, where he could command large fees, but other business interests which occupy much of his time have decided him against it.

In answer, however, to the multitude of requests for information, and in order that all may have the benefit of the system it was his good fortune to discover, he has prepared a small booklet, telling every fleshy man and woman how they may accomplish the same happy result, without the least danger of inconvenience. He has mailed these booklets without charge to those who have written him, and has also mailed copies left which he has agreed to distribute so long as they last among fleshly people, sufficiently interested to send for them, and to postmaster. The doctor's present address is Dr. P. Turner, Clark Music Bldg., Suite 704, Syracuse, N. Y., and any request for the booklet sent there will be given prompt attention.

Play starlets gleam and glitter,
Fire-flies begin to flitter,
Night is coming soon.

Water sprites are tripping, tripping
Lightly o'er the sand,
As the evening mist comes creeping,
List the crickets peeping, peeping,
Soon my darling will be sleeping
Out in fairy-land.

Baby, thou art sinking, sinking
Into peaceful slumber,
Now the twilight gently closes,
Dew-drops gather on the roses,
As thy weary head reposes,
Pillow'd on my breast,

HOUSE AND HOME
A house is built of bricks and stones,
Of eels and eels and eels and eels,
But a home is built of loving deeds that stand a thousand years.
A house, though, but a humble cot,
Within its walls may hold
A home of priceless beauty, rich in Love's eternal gold.
The men on earth build houses—halls,
And chambers, roofs and domes—
But the women of the earth know—the women build the homes.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

New Bedford Standard: Again there is agitation for the interchangeability of stamps on the railroads of New England. It would not seem to be beyond the power of the railroads of this section to institute the convenience. At any rate, when the New Haven, the Boston & Maine, and the Maine Central are all now practically under a single management, there seems no real reason why one railroad should not be permitted to answer for all three roads, yet there have to be purchased. The Pittsburgh Sentinel pertinently observes that these roads are today one system, and "if these combinations are permitted by the public through their legislatures the public as well as the corporations should receive some benefit now and then." The logic is sound. Moreover, if the interchangeable mileage book were adopted, the railroads would undoubtedly find that travel would be stimulated.

SPECIAL MAILING STAMPS

Brockton Times: Fortunately the postal authorities have condescended to approve of a style of "stamp" that may be used on first class mail, and have modified the peremptory ruling made last week sending all letters that had anything but a government stamp placed on either side to the dead letter office. The "stamp" method has been the means of bringing thousands of welcome dollars to the White Cross society, especially in holiday seasons. The originators of the "Macnamara Defense stamp" idea have submitted, and had approved an octagonal sticker which can be placed on the back of a letter.

MOVING PICTURE SUBJECTS

Brockton Enterprise: Cincinnati's mayor has declined to allow moving pictures of the Beattie murder case to be exhibited in his city. He did the right thing. It is queer that theatrical managers themselves cannot see where exhibitions of this kind would in the long run hurt their business. One of the strong features of the moving picture game has been that they were generally safe for women and little children to see. When they take up murders and atrocious murders at that, and prize fights, horrifying accidents, robberies of banks and street holdups, they are verging toward the place where they become no longer safe, but decidedly evil, suggesting violence and crime and showing how to commit crime with more or less success. There is so much that can be picked up to which nobody can object that it is astonishing to see the choice falling now and then to something that moving picture managers themselves, if they have children, would hardly be likely to want those children to see.

NO CHANGE YET

It is now the first of September, and there has been no change in the retail price of coal. A month ago the retail price in Boston advanced the price 25 cents per ton, but we determined in the Spring to make one price for the whole summer. Coal is costing 50 cents per ton more at wholesale now than it did in April, and we advise those who have not already placed their order to do so very soon. The Home Coal Company has taken particular pains this summer in laying in a stock of coal which is good old fashioned coal. If you have never burned Home's Coal give it a try, even if it's only a quarter of a ton.

MRS. BEMIS WEDS

THE BRIDEGROOM IS A FLORIDA MAN.

BARRE, Sept. 8.—Mrs. Myra A. Bemis, who has been brought into public view many times in this community by reason of the mysterious deaths which have occurred on her farm here, was married last evening to William A. Bushnell of Floral City, Fla. The groom is 67, and has had three wives previously. This is the second time that Mrs. Bemis has been married. Her age is given as 53.

The marriage occurred on the "farm of mystery" and was witnessed only by the hired man and housekeeper of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. B. Blanchard of Barre, retired Methodist minister and now employed as local manager of the Barre telephone exchange. The couple left for Boston last night. The last time that Mrs. Bemis was brought before the public was early in August last, when an investigation was conducted into the death of Frank Cecey, her farm superintendent, who died from poisoning on July 30. The death of Cecey attracted unusual excitement in this vicinity because it was the second, apparently mysterious death on the farm in which it was asserted poison figured.

STEAMER IS STRANDED

650 Iowa "Boosters" Had an Exciting Experience

MOLINE, Ill., Sept. 8.—The river steamer Sydney with 650 eastern Iowa "boosters" on board struck a rock reef in the Mississippi river last night. Early today the boat was still stranded, half a mile out from shore in three and one-half feet of water.

The passengers were loaded on a big sand barge and hauled to shore by a tugboat. They took cars to Davenport.

The Sydney, which left Dubuque,

Iowa, in the morning, loaded with the mayors of three Iowa cities, four boards of aldermen, hundreds of merchants and professional men and four bands, had fairly easy going, till it began its passage down the harbor channel leading into the Moline lock.

When in sight of the local gates the boat struck the rock bottom and before the captain could get it under control it had swung around and became stranded.

BIG LOTTERY PLANT

Was Seized by the New York Police

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—After following a shifting trail for more than a year Detectives Miceli and Cavanaugh of the Italian Squad, caused a raid yesterday afternoon on an establishment which, they declare, was the headquarters of the biggest lottery system in the United States.

It was at No. 35 Rose street. When Captain Clark and a squad from the Oak street station arrived in support of the detectives they arrested three men and seized an elaborate printing equipment. They found copies of a periodical called La Speranza ("The Hope").

A NEW MEDICAL COMPOUND
The compounding of Cadum was not the result of mere chance or accident, but the outcome of patient investigations and experiments by a "studious chemist, who was convinced that the old method of taking internal medicines to cure external diseases was wrong. He found that an extract from Juniperus Oxycedrus tree possessed wonderful curative properties on the skin tissues. This extract he combined with other antiseptic healing compounds, which resulted in the product Cadum. Sufferers from eczema and other skin troubles find almost instant relief after the first application of Cadum. It stops the terrible itching of eczema at once, and is to be used when the skin is irritated, inflamed or diseased. Cadum is different from anything else, and has proved a blessing to many who have suffered for years from distressing, stubborn and disfiguring skin diseases. Many letters have been received from people saying they have been cured of cases that had been called incurable. These letters prove what a great remedy Cadum is. It is good for eczema, sores, eruptions, pimples, rashes, chafing, scaly skin and itching piles. 10c and 25c, all druggists.

THE MACHINE GUNS

Decided the Outcome of Battle

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 8.—Supplementary reports received today by an official news agency from Tcheran, Persia, establish that the outcome of the battle at Imanzadeh-Jafar on Sept. 5, when the forces of ex-Shah Mohammad Ali Mirza suffered a crushing defeat, was decided by the government machine guns operated under the direction of the German instructor of the Persian army, Major Haas.

THE LATEST OUT OF DOOR SPORT, GOLFPSTACLE

The latest out of door sport is the game of golfstake, played with croquet wickets. It is, in fact, a sort of combination of the two games and originated in England.

THE FIRST WOMAN

To Go Over the Niagara Falls in a Barrel

The feat of going over Horseshoe falls at Niagara, recently performed by Dobby Leach in a barrel, recalls the fact that Mrs. Annie Edson Taylor went over the falls in an caken barrel in 1901. She was not even bruised in the trip and was the first one to make it. Leach used a steel barrel.

Miss Carrie Kilbourne, sixteen years old, daughter of a wealthy civil engineer of New Brunswick, N. J., volunteered to appear in a baseball game—a charity affair—for the benefit of the Ridgewood Day nursery, in which she is interested. She played on the German hospital team in Brooklyn, and her brilliant playing was a sensation from the start.

The little girl's speed and curves proved too much for the batsmen, and they never touched the ball. The girl, pitcher has had many offers from professional women's teams, but she plays only for fun and wants to remain an amateur. She wears a short blue skirt, a white middie blouse and is equipped with the regulation glove and spiked shoes.

The most important woman's race of the season in France, the 120 meter international handicap, provided a very close struggle between the winner, Mlle. Jeanninaud, and her English rival, Miss Emma Clist. There was great excitement, as after leading the entire distance, threatened by none save Miss Clist, the French girl was seen to be losing her advantage slightly as Miss Clist finished at increased speed. Mlle. Jeanninaud, however, just managed to touch the rope barely two inches ahead and was declared winner. The 100 meter scratch international race was won by Miss Mary Footman, the fourteen-year-old champion of the south of England and winner of the White Challenge shield. Miss Footman is Scotland's fastest swimmer, and she had no difficulty in outdistancing all competitors. Touching the rope at halfway two meters ahead of her nearest competitor, Miss Footman won easily, five meters separating her from the second, Miss Emma Clist.

The New York Woman's League For Animals is making a great effort just now to teach owners of horses how to take care of them. Summer bridle and fly nets have been distributed to the drivers of work horses, and the league has a farm where tired horses may be sent for a few weeks' rest, which can restore them to health. Mrs. James Spreyer is the president of the league, and Mrs. Russell Sage is one of the women deeply interested in it.

NORWEGIAN PUDDING

Two tablespoonsful of corn flour, one egg, one cupful of sugar, the rind and juice of a lemon. Mix the corn flour to a smooth paste with a little cold water and add enough boiling water to make it like starch. In another basin mix the yolk of the egg, the sugar and the rind and juice of the lemon and quickly add these to the corn flour. Mix well and bake in a buttered pie dish for twenty minutes. Set in a cool place and when cold turn out and put the stiffly beaten white of the egg mixed with a little sugar or some whipped cream on top and serve. A nice supper dish.

THE OLD FASHIONED WAY

A SIMPLE AND TASTY GELATIN

Put a pound of rump steak and three-quarters of a pound of streaky bacon through a mincing machine, mix with half a pound of breadcrumbs, two well beaten eggs, a teaspoonful of pepper, two teaspoonfuls of salt and grated nutmeg. Form into the shape of a sausage, tie very tightly in a cloth and boil slowly for two hours and a half. Turn out while hot, and when cold brush over with glaze and ornament with aspic jelly. Keep in a cold place till served.

TESTS FOR OVEN HEAT

To judge an oven's heat try it every ten minutes with a piece of white paper. If too hot the paper will blanch or blacken. When the paper becomes dark brown the oven is fit for small pastries. When the paper becomes light brown the oven is fit for tart. When the paper turns dark yellow you can bake bread, large meat pies or pound cakes, while if it is just tinged the oven is fit for sponge cakes and meringues.

THE LOOSE GOWN

Is Said to Conceal the Tight Corset

In general it may be observed that long lines are still a feature of the new styles. Everything is done to make the waist line less of a feature and the hips invisible. Gowns are fitted with an appearance of looseness, which means merely that the outside material hangs loosely on a tightly corseted woman.

The slender woman has it all her own way nowadays. She may go corsetless or merely wear one of the scantily boned corsets of jersey material so comfortable and cool for summer days.

The short waist line, still lingers in popular favor, for it lends the illusion of hiplessness.

Borders which are being used surplusage fashion are quite the thing for smart afternoon functions.

Tunic effects are being modernized by being skirted at the bottom to give a hobble effect.

Shirt waists are being sewed to colored linen skirts. The high waist line is concealed by a cord of the same shade as the skirt.

Striped effects of all sorts are made by means of velvet ribbons of a slightly contrasting shade sewed to silk or satin.

Velvet is much to the fore this summer. Velvet tam-o'-shanters are the latest in summer headgear. Such are the vagaries of fashion. They are usually black, decorated with a face of yellowish lace and a single rose. Worn with sheer gowns they look inappropriately on hot days, but Paris decries them, and that is enough.

Hats continue to be trimmed in the back principally as regards feather effects.

Evening gowns allow a great liberty of choice. Unusual and historical effects are being sought for, and almost anything skimpy and outré in color is voted tasteful.

RHUBARB JELLY
One pound and a half of rhubarb, a quarter of a pound of sugar, the juice and rind of a lemon, three-quarters of an ounce of gelatin powder. Stew the rhubarb thoroughly, with the lemon and sugar, pass it through a sieve and add more water if necessary to bring it to one pint, and a half. Heat over the fire and then stir in the gelatin powder. When quite dissolved remove from the fire and when nearly cold pour into a mold.

SWANSON AND MARTIN WON
RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 8.—At the democratic primaries yesterday Senators Swanson and Martin won by 29,000 plurality over Congressman William O. Jones and Carter Glass, who applied to seats in the upper branch of congress.

The campaign for the selection of a senator to succeed Walter Martin for a full term and to succeed Senator Swanson for the unexpired term of the late Senator Daniel has been bitter.

It was charged that Senator Swanson gambled in American Tobacco stock while a member of the house and means committed of the house and that Senator Martin solicited money from the railroad companies to aid in his election.

BIG CUSTOMS FRAUDS

The Government Expects to Unearth an International Scandal

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The indictment of Nathan Allen and John R. Collins for smuggling the Jenkins jewels. It was learned today, is only one step in the government's prosecution of customs frauds. A banker even more prominent and wealthy than these millionaires of Kenosha, Wis., and Memphis, Tenn., is said to be under investigation, and if the federal authorities can accomplish his arrest, it is said, they hope to reach the bottom of an international scandal involving many others, including the gem dealers and minor custom employees.

The alleged frauds cover a period of several years and it is reported that the banker under suspicion enabled his friends also to benefit by his carefully laid scheme. This financier, it is said, has offices in several foreign countries and if arrested he is expected to plead non-residence, with the accompanying right to bring jewels for his own use into the United States duty free.

MONEY WAS STOLEN RAILROAD EMPLOYEES

Thief Visited House on Chelmsford Street Charged With Violating Customs Seal Law

The police have been informed that the residence of Mrs. John S. Daniels at 558 Chelmsford street was entered Sunday night and $14 in money taken. Although the police have been working on the case they have been unable to secure any information which would lead to the arrest of the thief.

Mrs. Daniels went to church during the early part of the evening and when she returned she found that the house was in a state of disorder and an investigation showed that $14 in money had been stolen. The thief, who gained an entrance through a window, was evidently acquainted with the premises.

THE WOMAN MAYOR

Has Plan to Settle City's Trouble

HUNNEWELL, Kan., Sept. 8.—"My present duty is to keep a secret, and though being a woman, I shall keep it."

This was the reply that Mayor Wilson made on her arrival here today to all questions concerning the result of her conference in Kansas City with C. W. Trickett, special attorney appointed by Gov. Stubbbs to restore peace between the woman mayor and her obstinate council of men.

So Hunnewell, for months without an effective government, now awaits the meeting of the council next Monday, when the secret is expected to come out. From Mayor Wilson's confident manner it is believed the question of dealing with the rebellious council will be solved at this meeting.

COLONEL ASTOR

PREPARING FOR A WEEK END CRUISE

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Preparations aboard Col. John Jacob Astor's steam yacht Noma today indicated that the owner was getting ready for a week-end cruise, but whether at the end of the cruise stood a clergyman and a wedding was a question neither Colonel Astor nor any of his family would answer. Even the destination of the Noma was a secret.

Orders to get the yacht ready for a run up the Hudson to the Astor place at Rhinebeck were, it was reported, cancelled today. It was believed that Col. Astor and Miss Force and members of her family were going for a cruise in Long Island sound. The Noma's bidders have been choked with coal, as if for a long run.

Second only to the bustle on the Noma was the stir at Miss Force's residence, where rush orders are being delivered to dressmakers and milliners.

NATIONAL CONSERVATION CONGRESS, GREATEST AGRARIAN MEETING IN HISTORY, WILL PAY SPECIAL HONOR TO THE FARMER'S WIFE

By GEORGE WAUGH ARNOLD.
WOMAN will be recognized and honored to please the heart of even the most ardent suffragist at the third national conservation congress, which is to meet in Kansas City on the 25th, 26th and 27th of this month. She will have equal rights with the men in voting on all questions of national agricultural interest, and President Taft will devote a large portion of his speech to "The Farmer's Wife." And women will speak also to the 40,000 delegates on "The Country School," "The Country Church," "The Community Library," "The Community Club" and "Social Life on the Farm." Greatest Meeting of Its Kind.

Thomas R. Shipp, executive secretary, has been active in the conservation movement since its inception, when he was secretary to Senator Beveridge of Indiana, and he predicts that this assemblage of farmers will be the greatest and produce the farthest reaching effects of any agrarian meeting in history.

The National Conservation association, which is the body that has the management of the national conservation congress, is a permanent organization with about 50,000 members all over the United States. Gifford Pin-chot, formerly of the government forestry bureau, is president of the association, while Henry Wallace of Des Moines, Ia., is president of the conservation congress.

Conservation of the soil will be the general broad subject of the Kansas City congress this year. At last year's congress in St. Paul "Public Lands" was the main topic, and in Seattle the year before, at the first congress, "Forests and Forestry" were discussed.

Railways Show Much Interest. The railways through their colonization departments have taken cognizance of the importance given the farmer in this congress and have not only made a special rate for the convention, but are also sending their immigration officers with exhibits of model farms and of farm and orchard products. Several of the agricultural experiment stations and agricultural colleges in the middle west are to make similar displays, and each agricultural college and station is sending two delegates.

A statement sent out by Gifford Pinchot in 1909 showed conclusively that America is far behind other nations in the proper use of its soil. While the United States plants nearly 50,000,000 acres of wheat annually, the yield is less than fourteen bushels to the acre.

At the same time Germany, with soil that has been used a thousand years, grows twenty-eight bushels to the acre, and the English farmer grows thirty-two bushels.

"Our soil is fertile," says the report of the national conservation commission as sent to President Taft, "but our method of farming neither conserves the soil nor secures full crop returns. Soil fertility need not be diminished, but may be increased. Proper management will double our average per acre. With the right methods the United States can grow the farm products needed by a country with a population three times as great as we now have."

Our Crops Can Be Doubled.

It is not the intention of the congress to discuss intensive farming as it is practiced in the more thickly populated sections of Europe, but it is the purpose to show how crops may be doubled in many cases through crop rotation, treatment of the soil and similar methods. As bearing directly on the good of the farmer, there will be discussions on such subjects as "The Country Child vs. the City Child," "The Rural Home" and "Transportation for the Farmer."

Under this latter head the secretary of war, Henry L. Stimson, will talk on

"The Farmer and Navigable Rivers." Other subjects of close relation will be "The Farmer and the Postal Service" and "The Farmer and the Railroads," and, of course, "Good Roads." Ex-Governor W. D. Hoard of Wisconsin will talk on "Dairying and Soil Fertility," and Dr. Frederick B. Mumford of the University of Missouri will read a paper on "The Live Stock Farm and Soil Fertility." Professor Cyril G. Hopkins, University of Illinois, will discuss "Wornout Soil."

Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture has notified the officers of the congress that he will send from Washington the best men of his department to attend or take part in the convention.

In a recent letter James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, made the following statement in regard to the waste of soil: "The remedies for the soil waste are as well known as is the evil itself. Rotation of crops and the use of fertilizers act as tonics for the soil. We could expand our resources and add billions of dollars to our national wealth by conserving the soil instead of exhausting it as we have been exhausting our forests and mines. Every farmer would make as much of the same area of ground in four years' grain crops as he now does in seven years."

In the official call sent out for the congress the objects are set forth as follows: First, to provide for the discussion of the resources of the United States as the foundation for the prosperity of its people; second, to furnish definite information concerning the resources and their development, use and preservation; third, to afford an agency to which the people of the country may frame policies in principles effecting the conservation and utilization of their resources in state and federal governments.

The building in which the congress is to meet has seats for 15,000 and was used for the national Democratic convention in 1900. It is owned by the people of Kansas City and was built by popular subscription at a cost of $550,000.

The executive committee consists of J. B. White, Kansas City, Mo., chairman; L. H. Bailey, Ithaca, N. Y.; B. N. Baker, Baltimore; James R. Garfield, Cleveland, O.; Frank C. Goudy, Denver; W. A. Fleming Jones, Las Cruces, N. M.; Mrs. Philip N. Moore, St. Louis; Walter H. Page, New York; George C. Pardee, Oakland, Cal.; Gifford Pinchot, Washington; J. N. Teal, Portland, Ore., and E. L. Worsham, Atlanta, Ga.

Professor Bailey is not down for a speech, but he can make one as is evidenced by this extract from a report made while he was chairman of the country life commission:

"It is proposed to send to the country the poor to die and also the dissatisfied and the unemployed. This is very doubtful policy. In the first place, persons who do not do well in the town would not do well in the country, and in the second place the country does not need them."

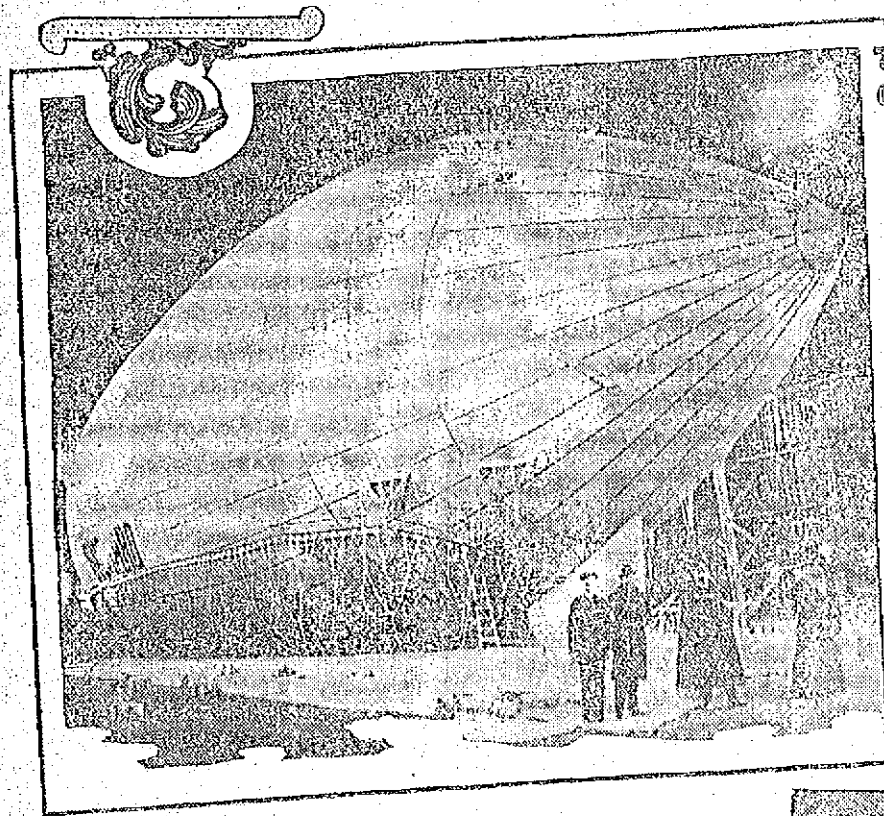

Mrs. Moore, the only woman member, is president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs and is noted for her pluck as well as her ability. During the campaign at Cincinnati for her election she fell and broke her leg, but while this of course kept her from the scene, she kept on supervising every detail of her campaign and never let the pain and shock divert her attention from the fight she won.

Mr. Wallace, editor of a farm magazine, prefers writing to speaking, and he has a national reputation among farmers for his accurate judgment in agricultural matters.

Walter H. Page, editor of the World's Work, is a phrasemaker of renown. He said not long ago, "The whole business of producing contemporaneous literature has for the moment a decidedly commercial taint."

James R. Garfield has long outlived the "merely the son of his father" idea and in public and private life has shown himself worthy of his famous father. He goes in for speechmaking, but he is primarily a "digger after facts," and he knows a lot about agriculture, as the congress will learn if he has to "make a few remarks."

AIRSHIP RACE ACROSS ATLANTIC WILL ECLIPSE ALL OTHER TESTS OF BRAIN AND BRAWN

Brucker's dirigible balloon nearing completion. At side of it photograph of Brucker. Photograph beneath is of Melvin Vaniman.

ARACE of all races, one that will excel in interest every trial of brain, skill and muscle since finite things began, will be the aerial contest across the Atlantic ocean to be fought out by Melvin Vaniman, starting from America, and Joseph Brucker, starting from Europe.

It will not be a race for money, nor will the contestants start at the same time. Vaniman plans to leave Atlantic City about Sept. 20, and Brucker proposes to start from Kiel, Germany, about Oct. 1. The elapsed time of the voyages will be the deciding factor.

Vaniman's machine was made at Akron, O., and is named in honor of its birthplace. The man who made it is building possible is Francis A. Stribling, president of the chamber of commerce of that city, who has spent $150,000 on the project so far and is willing to spend more.

Some idea of the size of the transatlantic airship may be had from the fact that the air bag alone weighs two tons and that special flat cars had to be made to get it and the underlying car for the operator across country to the coast.

It was christened with the traditional bottle of champagne on Aug. 18.

The Brucker airship is called the Su-chard and was christened by Princess Henry of Prussia. This eminent lady has ideas of her own and smashed across the bow of the machine a bottle of liquid air. This has made the humorists on the German newspapers grieve, for, as they point out, liquid air is of a coldness unspeakable, while what a balloon needs is hot air.

Vaniman's route is "straight across." He will simply follow his compass to Southampton unless some exceptionally stiff head wind forces him to tack.

Brucker plans an easier way. He will try to get across by the southern route that Columbus used and aims to reach the Barbados.

Vaniman has had a remarkable career. He has been music teacher, opera singer, actor, photographer, engineer, author, stockbroker, aeroplane builder and balloonist. He has traveled over half the globe and speaks several languages besides English, French especially well. He has been on north pole expeditions and treasure hunts in Central America. He has built airship sheds in Russia and photographed studios in New Zealand, and, more than all, he is, in sporting parlance, always ready "to take a chance."

Brucker was for ten years a newspaper reporter and editor in America and up to the time he left for Berlin to launch his airship plan was in charge of the Staats-Zeitung of Chicago. GEORGE ZIEGLER.

IN FACE OF SENATE INQUIRY ISAAC STEPHENSON IS CALM AS FAMOUS COW HE GAVE TO THE PRESIDENT

ALTHOUGH the senate at Washington has appointed a committee, headed by Senator Heyburn, to investigate the election to its honorable body of Isaac Stephenson, Wisconsin's richest man, the aforesaid Stephenson is as calm and as consistently "on the job" as in the famous cow Pauline Wayne, his gift to President Taft, which is the latest fluid purveyor to the White House.

Pauline, by the way, has been loaned election to be the result of corruption, and claimed that $107,000 was spent to secure it. The senator replies only that whatever expenses were incurred in his campaign were legitimate.

Senator Stephenson is a native of the province of New Brunswick, Canada, and is eighty-two years old. In 1945 he removed to Wisconsin and for many years was engaged in the lumber trade, in which he acquired a large fortune. He is a Republican in politics, and before becoming a senator he in an American legislative body while still a subject of Queen Victoria.

The story of Stephenson's life, according to data furnished by himself to a Wisconsin historian, shows he was born on a farm near Fredericton, New Brunswick, Canada, June 18, 1829. His parents never came to the United States. His father was a Scotch-Irish man and his mother an English woman. At the age of fourteen he went to Bangor, Me., but about a year and a half later, accompanied by a man to the International Dairy show at Milwaukee, and the sixty-four quarts of milk she cheerfully produces daily will be sold in half pint souvenir bottles at 50 cents apiece. This will bring in $128 per day, which certainly establishes a record for profitable industry in the animal kingdom. Incidentally it may be remarked that the number of humans who can make $128 a day is painfully small.

Senator Isaac Stephenson and the record breaking cow he gave to President Taft for White House use.

The Heyburn committee will begin hearings at Milwaukee on Oct. 2, and they promise to rival in interest those in the Lorimer case.

A special committee of Wisconsin's state senate declared Mr. Stephenson's served three terms in the house of representatives. He was elected to the United States senate in 1907 to fill out the unexpired term of John C. Spooner and was re-elected for the full term in 1909. His term will expire in 1915.

His birth in Canada is responsible for another attack upon him. It is charged that he served two terms in the Wisconsin legislature before becoming a citizen of the United States. It is admitted that he took out his first papers on Sept. 15, 1851, when he was twenty-two years old, but it is claimed that he did not take out the second set until 1870 and that in the intervening nineteen years he had no right to sit named Jefferson Sinclair, he went to Milwaukee.

The following year he went to Janesville, Wis., where he broke land and raised crops during two seasons. He then became interested with Daniel Wells, Jr., in lands in northern Michigan, around Escanaba.

He made a small fortune in lumbering, and then the enormous iron ore deposits found on his land made him a multimillionaire. GRAHAM ADAMSON.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

THE SAME OLD GAME

SEPTEMBER 5.—Amy Robson is one of the pathetic figures in English history. Daughter of Sir John Robson, she was married at 19 to Robert Bradshaw, youngest son of the Earl of Warwick. The first few years of their married life was as happy as youth and position could make it, and then Dudley grew cold and cruel. Looking for a reason, the young wife found that her husband had become a great favorite of Elizabeth. Scandal followed the favors of Elizabeth to the young man and woman, and that a royal marriage might happen were Amy and the king. The young wife was sent to a lonesome castle where she saw little of her husband. On September 8, in the year 1560, when the servants were away her dead body was found at the foot of a long stairway. Some said murder, some suicide. In any event Dudley did not profit by her death as Elizabeth did not marry him, knowing that it's a good idea to hang on to your first partner.

Commissioners' Sale at Public Auction of the W. E. Somes' Estate

CONSISTING OF THREE-STORY BLOCK OF TWO TENEMENTS AND BAKERY AT NOS. 163-165 EAST MERRIMACK STREET AND 108 FAYETTE STREET, THREE-TENEMENT BLOCK AND TWO STORES AT 173-175 EAST MERRIMACK STREET. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE IN REAR OF 175 EAST MERRIMACK ST. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AT 110 AND 112 FAYETTE STREET. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AT 120-122 FAYETTE STREET. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AT 120-122 FAYETTE STREET, STABLE AND ABOUT 12,732 SQUARE FEET OF LAND.

ON SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1911, AT 3 O'CLOCK P. M.

I will sell by order of the superior court at the advertised time, to whomsoever will bid the most at absolute auction sale, this extraordinary and extremely well situated estate. The property comprises 12 tenements, three stores and a large stable. On the corner of East Merrimack street and Fayette street is a block of three stories, containing two tenements, one of eight rooms, bath, pantry, gas, city water, etc., and another of five rooms with toilet, gas, etc.; a bakery with large work room in rear, two ovens built in the whole yielding an income of $62 per month. Adjoining at 173 and 175, on East Merrimack street, is a two and a half story block of three tenements, two of four rooms each and one five rooms, also two stores, paying a rental of $35.17 per month. In the rear of the above is a two-tenement house one of three rooms and one of four rooms, with separate toilets recently put in, renting for $15.00 per week each. At Nos. 110 and 112 Fayette street is a two and a half story, two-tenement house of seven rooms each, separate water closets, renting for $25.00 per week each. Adjoining, at 120 and 122, another two-tenement house of five rooms each, toilet, etc., renting for $25.00 and $25.00 respectively, per week. At 125 and 128, a two-tenement house of five rooms each, renting for $25.00 and $25.00 per week, respectively. Also stable with two stalls and carriage room, rented at $5 per month.

Now, for the investor or speculator, this sale presents a most unusual opportunity. First, it is to be sold for the highest bona fide bid; secondly its condition is exceptionally good, only recently a considerable amount of money was expended upon it. Again, its location, within five minutes' walk of Merrimack square, also in the very center of the very largest of Lowell's manufacturing industries, assures one of a steady income, as the tenements will always be in demand. The property, as situated all in one lot, thereby making it a pleasant and profitable investment, as one is wasting no time in looking after his interests. The entire property rents for $175 per month, making a total of $2136 per year. There are 12,732 square feet of land, with a frontage of 68 feet on East Merrimack street and 162 feet on Fayette street.

Attend this sale, as down-town property with the income yielding quality that will pay the revenue on the money invested that this property shows, is very seldom offered at public auction.

Terms: $500 must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms made known at sale.

STANLEY E. QUAA, Commissioner.

MEN ARE RELEASED

They Were Charged With Manslaughter

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—The three men charged with manslaughter in connection with the mysterious death of Lieut. William Whitford of the revenue cutter Androscoggin in the North End recently, were discharged by Judge Murray today. They were John Garribotti, Giuseppe Balsaretti and Francesco Cassassa. The first two men, however, were found guilty of assaulting Lieut. Whitford and George Farwell, a member of Whitford's party, and were fined $100 on both charges. Cassassa was found guilty of assaulting Farwell and was fined $50. All of the fines were paid and the men discharged. Judge Murray, in discharging the men, said that, although the police and other authorities had done their best to bring the guilty men to justice, he did not find the evidence presented strong enough to hold the men on the manslaughter charges. Three other men who were arrested on manslaughter charges were released the first of the week.

GOV. JUDSON HARMON

To Speak at the Big Barbecue in Boston Tomorrow

The democratic city committee of Boston is to hold a barbecue at Caladonian grove, West Roxbury, on Saturday, September 9, and Mayor McEwen has been invited and has also been asked to be one of the speakers on that occasion. The speakers will include Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio, candidate for presidential honors on the democratic ticket.

When asked, if he would come to Massachusetts to speak at the meeting, which is really one of democratic clubs, the Buckeye governor said that he sure would. "I take it," he said, "that the true platform of the democracy is the preservation to the utmost of the rights of the common man—the man who has not might or wealth to twist the current of events to suit himself; to observe to the strictest possible degree the limits of authority imposed by the constitution; to administer the government economically, and in doing that to levy only the amount of taxes, direct or through a tariff, which will meet the expenses of government."

The record of his administration discloses he has put into effect in Ohio every plank in that platform. While Governor Harmon has many other accomplishments on different subjects of his credit standing forth above all other of his official acts in obtaining beneficial results are: First, his revision of tax laws, so as to lighten the tax burden of the person of moderate means; second, his economies amounting to $23,000,000 a year; and, third, his curbing of expenditure of public money, so as to give sufficient funds for an economical administration only. Throughout his work he has maintained the equilibrium of the different branches of the government which is prescribed by the federal constitution.

Another Invitation
Mayor John F. McEwen has received an invitation from the American Manufacturing Export association to attend its second annual convention to be held at Hotel Astor, New York city, September 25 and 26, and he is also requested to appoint two delegates representing the largest export business in the city. The watch word of the convention will be "How to Foster Foreign Trade."

HELD ROUSING RALLY

Local Democrats Opened State Campaign Last Night

The democratic state campaign was formally and most enthusiastically opened in Lowell last evening with a rousing meeting in Mathew hall. It was the original intention of the democratic city committee to have an informal opening of headquarters last evening with addresses by prominent speakers to the members and party workers on the benefits of party organization, but when the identity of the speakers became known so great was the demand by the rank and file for an opportunity to hear them that the meeting was transferred to Mathew hall where a large gathering assembled.

The meeting was in the interest of no particular candidates and both candidates for secretary of state, Frank J. Donahue and Edward O. Skelton, were present and spoke. Addresses were also made by the Hon. David I. Walsh, of Fitchburg, democratic candidate for lieutenant-governor, who, while in Lowell, was the guest of James E. O'Donnell, chairman John McDonald of the democratic state committee and Charles Barton, candidate for county commissioner.

The meeting was called to order by Cornelius Cronin, chairman of the city committee, who in brief remarks introduced as the presiding officer Humphrey O'Sullivan. Mr. O'Sullivan who has just returned from a trip to Ireland received an ovation as he arose to speak, and his fine appearance after his sojourn was the subject of much congratulatory comment.

Mr. O'Sullivan explained that the meeting was held primarily to entice the members of the city committee and the party workers with some of the energy that pervades in the party throughout the state. He then introduced as the first speaker John F. McDonald, chairman of the democratic state committee.

John F. McDonald addressed the gathering briefly, speaking in part as follows:

In this state there are thousands of assessed voters who are not on the voting list of either party. In Lowell there are many that are not on the list, a condition which is deplorable, for it is certain if they were voters they would vote the democratic ticket. The work here then is to organize and get these eligible men and get them voting.

The Evening American vote in Lowell, in fact all over the state, must be reckoned with. It has been neglected by the republican party for years, and the French vote must be given some consideration. Never until this year have they received any state office, when the governor appointed one of them to a position of trust. They are a factor and a big factor and should be carefully given consideration.

It is up to the city committees to get out this vote and to get the names on the voting list that are eligible. If this done, then Lowell and Massachusetts will give the whole democratic state the largest plurality known for years. The eyes of the nation are on this state and we are a most important factor in the coming national election. Maine and Connecticut have gone democratic, New Hampshire and Rhode Island are on the verge.

M. A. O'Leary

Michael A. O'Leary, secretary of the state committee, was introduced and he spoke interestingly on organization. He called attention to the fact that the entire democratic ticket must be voted upon. He explained one of the great factors of republican success to be their control of "county flags" for which they never fail to vote.

Edward O. Skelton

Edward O. Skelton, one of the two democratic candidates for secretary of state, was next called upon and he urged all to vote the entire ticket. In regard to his own candidacy he stated that he considered himself the logical candidate because he was a Grand Army man.

Secretary Olin was a Grand Army man, he said, and the veterans felt that the office was almost a hereditary one for a veteran, and would vote accordingly without reference to party lines. Mr. Skelton spoke of his early years which he spent in Lowell, where his grandfather was a practicing physician.

Ex-Mayor Barton

Hon. Charles Barton, ex-mayor of Melrose, was next introduced as the candidate for county commissioner. Like the previous speakers Mr. Barton dwelt strongly on the fact that in the past the democrats have neglected the ticket outside of the head.

Frank J. Donahue

Frank J. Donahue, candidate for secretary of state, in his remarks took

Quick Relief From Stomach Troubles

Mr. R. O. Hatfield, 73 years old and a sufferer for years, in an enthusiastic friend of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey because of what it has done for him.

He writes: "I have taken Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a medicine for over two years, and it has been a great help to me. I was a sufferer from stomach trouble for years, and Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done me more good than any medicine I ever used. I am never without it in the house and I cannot speak too highly of it and what it has done for me. I am now in my seventy-third year." R. O. Hatfield, 302 S. Stricker St., Baltimore, Md.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

has to its credit more than fifty years of success without a question as to its merits as a curative agent. During this time it has brought the blessings of health to overworked men, delicate women and sickly children, who find in it the strength-giving properties that are so necessary to them. It quickens and strengthens the heart action, aids digestion, restores health and vigor, makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous. It is prescribed by doctors and is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, be sure you get the genuine. It is an absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in sealed bottles only—never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist" on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price $1.00 a large bottle. Write Medical Department, The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., for an illustrated booklet containing testimonials and rules for health, and doctor's advice, both sent free.

issue with Mr. Skelton. He spoke as follows:

We are entering upon the most unique campaign ever waged in the history of this commonwealth—unique, strange, as the statement may seem in this state where American liberty had its birth, because the people for whom the laws are ostensibly made and administered are to be permitted to name the men who make and administer the laws.

At last real life and meaning is to be injected into that moth-eaten and almost forgotten medieval booklet written into the immortal bill of rights by the fathers of our government, that:

All power residing originally in the people, and being derived from them, the several magistrates and officers of government, vested with authority, whether legislative, executive or judicial, are their substitutes and agents, and are at all times accountable to them.

To illustrate what a hollow mockery that declaration has become, I need only to recall to you that this year a republican majority in the senate of Massachusetts defeated resolutions for an amendment to the federal constitution which would give the voters the right to vote directly for United States senators, and then defeated a bill which said that the people in any senatorial or representative district might have the right to instruct their representatives on not more than two questions of public policy on the ballot at the state election.

Now, thanks to the democratic party, the people are to name their own candidates for office and thus public officials will become directly responsible to the people. No longer will the choice of the people be restricted to candidates picked out for them in advance by the corporate influences which have controlled the credentials of state, senatorial and representative conventions. You people in Lowell have had, in the main, excellent representatives, because you have nominated them by direct vote. But they have been in striking contrast to most of your senators, nominated by delegate conventions.

No longer will it be possible for any small clique of self-constituted bosses, in either party, to frame slates of candidates. There has been considerable talk to the effect that the men entrusted with the machinery of the democratic party have been using the machinery to jam through a slate of candidates of their own selection for the state ticket. Whatever truth there may be in that charge, I know that such an effort cannot succeed except through the indifference of the voters. In the direct nominations act the people have been furnished the remedy for machine election and political bossism but the remedy will avail nothing unless it is used.

In my own case I have the utmost confidence that the voters will decide for themselves whether I am a fit candidate to carry the democratic colors in the contest for secretary of the commonwealth. I feel confident that they will ratify the verdict of those 136 democratic senators and representatives who picked me from a field of four aspirants for the party's nomination when the legislature was called upon to elect a successor to the late Secretary Olin, giving me more votes than the three other candidates combined and then casting the solid democratic vote for me in the joint convention of the two branches of the legislature. I think that I rightfully may lay claim to having established my standing as a candidate when I polled the full party strength, which neither Sherman L. Whipple, as a candidate for United States senator, nor Martin M. Lomasney, as a candidate for speaker, strong candidates though they were, was able to do. The republican leaders admitted the strength of my candidacy when, although they had a majority of 27 votes on a joint ballot, they forced the members of their party to stand up like marionettes and announce their choice as Albert P. Langtry, although the constitution called for a secret ballot in such an election.

I could not help feel flattered at this striking testimonial to my vote getting.

Anty Drudge Goes Shopping on Washday.

Anty Drudge—"Is there anything I can get you downtown, Mrs. Weary? I am going shopping this afternoon."

Mrs. Weary—"What! Shopping on washday! Why, I've just got my clothes ready for the line."

Anty Drudge—"And mine are all ironed. I'm not a bit tired, either, so I'll spend the afternoon at the bargain counters. If you had washed the Fels-Naptha way, you could join me."

Fels-Naptha soap will make kitchen work easier, just as it does the washing of clothes. Fels-Naptha will clean anything that is cleanable, and do it far better and quicker than any other soap.

Try it on your pots, pans, dishes and other kitchen utensils. It will "cut" the grease quick as a wink and leave them bright and shiny. It will clean glassware and china, and polish them at the same time.

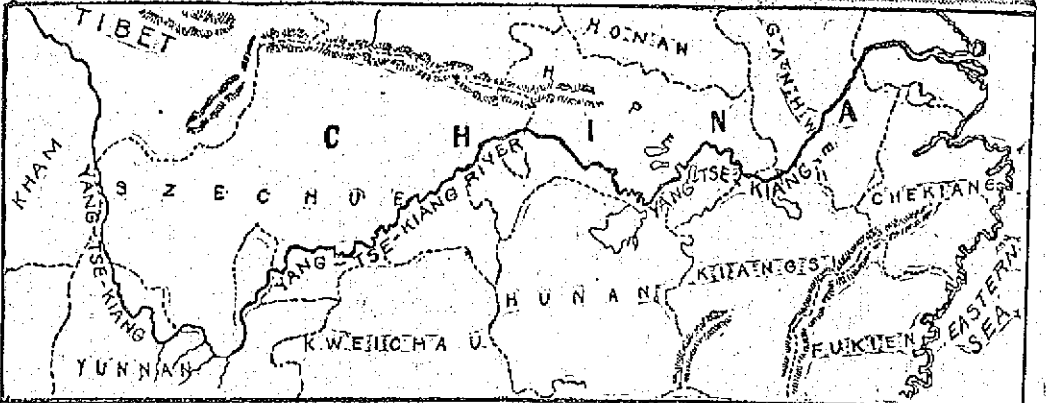

And because it will do this far better in cold or lukewarm water, there is no danger of breaking fragile glass and china by putting them in scalding water.

Kitchen sinks, shelves, cupboard and floor should all be scrubbed with Fels-Naptha. It whitens woodwork as well as cleans it, and neither roaches nor ants will infest a kitchen where the cleaning is regularly done with Fels-Naptha, and chips of the soap placed where they congregate.

Follow the easy directions on the red and green wrapper.

FATALLY INJURED

Man Hurlled From Wagon to Sidewalk

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Chemical 7 of East Boston, while responding to an alarm for a trifling blaze in the first section district of East Boston yesterday afternoon, crashed into a demoral wagon at the corner of Orleans and Maverick streets.

One of the occupants of the wagon, Giuseppe De Sisto, aged 33, married, of 113 Orleans street, East Boston, was thrown out. His skull was fractured. He died at 7 last night.

The chemical engine was being driven by Julius Brandt, one of the best fire reinmen in East Boston. The demoral wagon, which is owned by Antonio De Stefano, an ash contractor of East Boston, was in charge of his 12-year-old son, Antonio De Stefano, who more than a year ago suffered the loss of a portion of his left hand as the result of a bomb exploding on the Maverick street flats. That young De Stefano did not meet with serious injury is considered remarkable, as the chemical engine struck the wagon with terrific force.

De Sisto was thrown at least 13 feet. He landed on his head on the pavement. The De Stefano boy saw that the collision could not be averted and jumped from the seat just before the collision. He landed on the back of the horse and then jumped to the street. Beyond a shaking up he escaped injury.

Brandt was thrown from the seat of the engine but held the reins of the horses and with the aid of Hoseman Crowley, who ran to the horses' heads, prevented a runaway. The two hand-some bay horses of the chemical were scratched about the back and legs. The wagon in which De Stefano and De Sisto were riding was smashed to pieces. The horse attached to it just escaped being killed.

ENGINEER BLAISDELL

DROWNED WHILE TRYING TO BOARD HIS STEAMER

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Abel S. Blaisdell, aged 55, chief engineer of the steamer Gen. Lincoln of the Boston & Nahant company, was drowned yesterday afternoon at the wharf of Cunningham & Banks, Border street, East Boston, where the vessel is tied up.

He had been ashore during the forenoon and returned to the boat about 2:15 p. m. He was not seen by any member of the crew or anybody on the wharf. It is supposed he fell in while trying to get aboard the vessel.

How long Mr. Blaisdell had been in the water is not known, but it is thought he had been struggling to reach one of the wharf logs and shouting for assistance for some time.

George A. Fossett of Round Pond, Me., and Irving Cunningham of 13 Walnut street, Roxbury, members of the crew of the Gen. Lincoln, who were in a stateroom, finally heard his cries for help.

They ran to the upper deck and then jumped to the wharf. Mr. Blaisdell was some distance from the wharf. They got a rope, which was quickly fastened about his body and he was pulled in to the side of the wharf and lifted up aboard the Gen. Lincoln. The steamer's whistle was blown for the police boat.

The policemen on arriving found Blaisdell was still alive and they made every effort with artificial respiration, but he was too far gone. He was taken to the East Boston relief station in an ambulance. There Dr. Penhallow found he was dead.

A son of Mr. Blaisdell, Rex Blaisdell, was working on another boat of the company nearby and when he discovered that it was his father who was drowned he was almost prostrated.

and the reports of various committees were read and approved. Action was also taken on several amendments to the by-laws which were submitted by a special committee appointed by President Bowers several weeks ago. After considerable debate the amendments were passed and several recommendations of the committee were adopted.

An active campaign for new members is to be inaugurated at once, and the president appointed committees in each ward in the city.

These committees will be known as scouting or rallying committees. Each member is to secure one candidate for membership for the big class initiation which will be held in November. The age limit in the order of Owls is 18 and 50 years and every candidate admitted must pass a rigid physical examination. The four nest physicians will attend to the examination.

The supreme president and perhaps other members of the supreme nest will be present at the class initiation and the second degree will probably be conferred on the two Lowell members who have been honored recently.

Vice President Grover, of the Taunton nest, who is visiting Lowell was present at the meeting and spoke interestingly of the work that is being done by the Taunton nest.

Southern Massachusetts is a fertile field for the Owls and strong aggressive nests have been instituted in New Bedford, Fall River, Taunton, Waltham, Marlborough, Brockton and in still other Plymouth county, as well. The acting committee, J. J. McManus, chairman, announces everything ready for the event. The place, price of tickets, etc., will be announced later by advertisement through the press. Many tickets have already been disposed of and the affair is now an assured success.

ROBERT MAXWELL
HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Robert F. Maxwell, fish dealer with a place of business at 570 Gorham street, had a narrow escape from being badly hurt yesterday when the horse which he was driving ran away and he was thrown over a stone wall. Mr. Maxwell was driving through Gorham street near the East Chalmers ford street line when the horse took the bit in his teeth and started to run. The animal headed towards a stone wall and when the wagon banged up against the obstruction Mr. Maxwell was thrown into the field on the other side.

The ambulance was summoned by some person but when it arrived Mr. Maxwell refused to be taken away, claiming that he was not badly hurt.

HOUSES GUTTED BY FIRE

Several Boston Families Barely Escaped From Homes

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Fifteen persons were driven to the street in their nightclothes early today by a fire which practically gutted two tenement houses in East Boston. The blaze was in a dangerous locality and the firemen had difficulty in preventing it from spreading. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Peters barely escaped with their children through the smoke, Mr. Peters being slightly burned while taking his youngest child to safety. The family of John Silva were rescued by policemen.

WOMAN WAS SLAIN

She Was Shot Down by a Jealous Employee

WATERVILLE, Me., Sept. 8.—Mrs. Maud A. Burrill, aged 35, one of the proprietors of the Winona beach camps at Belgrade, was shot yesterday by William J. Brooks, aged 25, one of the employees of the camps. Mrs. Burrill died 25 minutes later. Brooks turned the revolver upon himself and sent a bullet through his forehead.

He will not live.

Brooks was sent to Oakland yesterday morning by Mrs. Burrill to purchase some supplies. He went by train and returned by power boat. When he appeared at the camps he was intoxicated, it is alleged, and an altercation ensued, which ended with Mrs. Burrill's declaration that Brooks must go at once.

She accompanied him to his lodgings where he secured his effects and packed them in a suit case and the two went down the path together toward the landing. What passed between them will never be known. There was no eyewitness.

Suddenly two shots were heard. Albert Jack, Mrs. Burrill's partner, a Portland chauffeur, was in the kitchen of the dining pavilion. He was the first to reach the scene.

Mrs. Burrill lay on the ground beneath a pine tree with a wound in her left temple. On the other side of the path lay Brooks, the fatal revolver at his side, while two bullet holes in his forehead showed where the bullet had entered and left his head. He had evidently aimed for the temple. Jack ran a quarter of a mile to the nearest telephone to summon a doctor and when he returned 20 minutes later Mrs. Burrill was dead.

In the meantime there was a panic among the dozen guests remaining at the camps and they began to pack up in a hurry. They hastened to Belgrade station to take the New York express but were stopped by Coroner J. H. Thayer of Belgrade.

Brooks was taken into a camp and laid on a bed. His mind was evidently wandering, for when he was asked by Coroner Thayer: "Why did you shoot this woman?" he replied: "Because she swore to tell about me every day in court."

Neither Brooks nor Mrs. Burrill has appeared in any litigation so far as known.

The formality of arresting Brooks was performed by Constable Guy E. Yeaton of Belgrade. Shortly after the arrest Deputy Sheriff Joseph P. McCarthy and Harry Belliveau of Waterville arrived and went to work on the case under the direction of the coroner.

Mrs. Burrill has been separated from her husband, Merton Burrill of Pittsfield, Me., for some time.

Up to four years ago there was only one camp at Winona. In company with Alfred Jack, Mrs. Burrill had added to the buildings until there are seven camps, and a prosperous business had been built up.

Brooks is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Brooks of Oakland. His aged father was bending over his bed when the arrest was made.

"There ain't much use of arresting him," was his remark.

the officers arrived. In the meantime

Alfred Jack stood guard over the premises.

The confession of Brooks, although inaccurate, implicates no one else in the murder. It is believed he was jealous of other men's attentions to Mrs. Burrill.

Several weeks ago he bought a revolver and made threats against Mrs. Burrill upon their return from a dance at Oakland, where she danced most of the time with others. She is alleged to have forced Brooks to throw the revolver into the lake.

The revolver picked up from beside Brooks yesterday was a new .32-caliber weapon.

LOWELL IS VICTORIOUS

Lawrence Neatly Trimmed Yesterday in One-Sided Game

Up the river came the Lawrence bunch yesterday headed by Daddy-Long-Legs Pieper, the man who says that Barrows shouldn't be allowed to play ball with Lowell. The down river fellows had even as much confidence as did the Worcester outfit Wednesday after beating Lowell with the aid of Luyster and Bannan a few days ago. This time, however, they had a real live umpire to deal with in the person of Little Jack Stafford and they got what was coming to them and no more.

Down the river in two special cars came the leather lunged boy-farmers from the Middlesex Training school with their celebrated band, their acting superintendent Mr. Mason and all the teachers. Some of the boys were nattily attired in khaki uniforms while others carried blue pennants bearing the name "Lowell" on them. It was one gala day for the kiddos and they made the welkin ring, whatever that is, with their cheers for Jimmie Gray, the Lowell team, Supt. Mason, Jim Larkin, their band instructor, Phil Murphy, the cop who saluted them at Mc-

Kennedy was safe on Moulton's error, and Catterson was retired by Boules. In Lowell's half, Moulton was retired at first. Barrows singled and was caught stealing second. Cooney struck out.

Second Inning
Briggs singled, Phoenix hit to Boules and was thrown out. Carlstrom foul flied to Huston. Ulrich struck out.

Lowell scored two runs. Magee hit to Carlstrom who made a bad error and the Lowell fielder went to third. Fluharty flied to Howard. Wright got a base on balls and stole second. Boules singled, scoring Magee and Wright. Huston struck out. Maybohm hit to Hagan who tagged Boules.

Third Inning
For Lawrence Ulrich hit to Moulton and was out at first. Howard flied to Magee and Hagan got a pass and Crisham was retired on an easy grounder. Lowell made five runs in this inning. Moulton got a base on balls. Barrows bunted to Howard, who tried to get Moulton at second. Cooney sent one to Crisham, who made a misplay. Magee singled, scoring Moulton. Fluharty was hit by a pitched ball. Wright hit to Phoenix who threw Cooney out at the plate. A passed ball scored Magee and Fluharty. Boules singled and Wright scored. Huston singled and with Boules worked a double steal. Maybohm got a free pass and Barrows flied out.

Fourth Inning
Kennedy lined out a home run for the visitors. Catterson flied out to Fluharty. Briggs flied to Barrows. Phoenix singled and Carlstrom flied out to Magee.

Lowell also scored. Cooney sent the ball over the fence for a homer. Magee flied to Briggs and Fluharty sent a fly to Phoenix. Wright singled and Boules sent a grounder to Crisham and was out.

Fifth Inning
Ulrich hit to Cooney and was out at first. Lawrence was retired by Maybohm at first. Hagan sent a grounder to Boules and was thrown out. Huston flied to Phoenix. Maybohm struck out and Moulton got a life on Carlstrom's error. Barrows flied out to Kennedy.

Sixth Inning
Crisham singled and took second on a wild pitch. Kennedy struck out. Catterson hit to Boules and was thrown out. Briggs sent one to Cooney who made an error and Crisham scored. Phoenix struck out.

For Lowell Cooney flied to Kennedy. Magee sent a fly to Briggs that was taken care of. Fluharty sent a grounder to Wright and was retired. Maybohm covering the bag.

Seventh Inning
Carlstrom flied out to Magee. Ulrich lined out a pretty single. Then Hagan drove out a fly that Magee gathered in, and Hagan was retired by Moulton.

Lowell scored one more. Wright singled and Boules followed with a two-bagger. Huston bunted to Crisham who fumbled and Wright scored. Maybohm struck out. Moulton hit to Carlstrom who got Boules. Barrows was out. Phoenix to Crisham.

Eighth Inning
Hagan flied out to Maybohm. Crisham hit Cooney and was out at first. Kennedy flied to Huston.

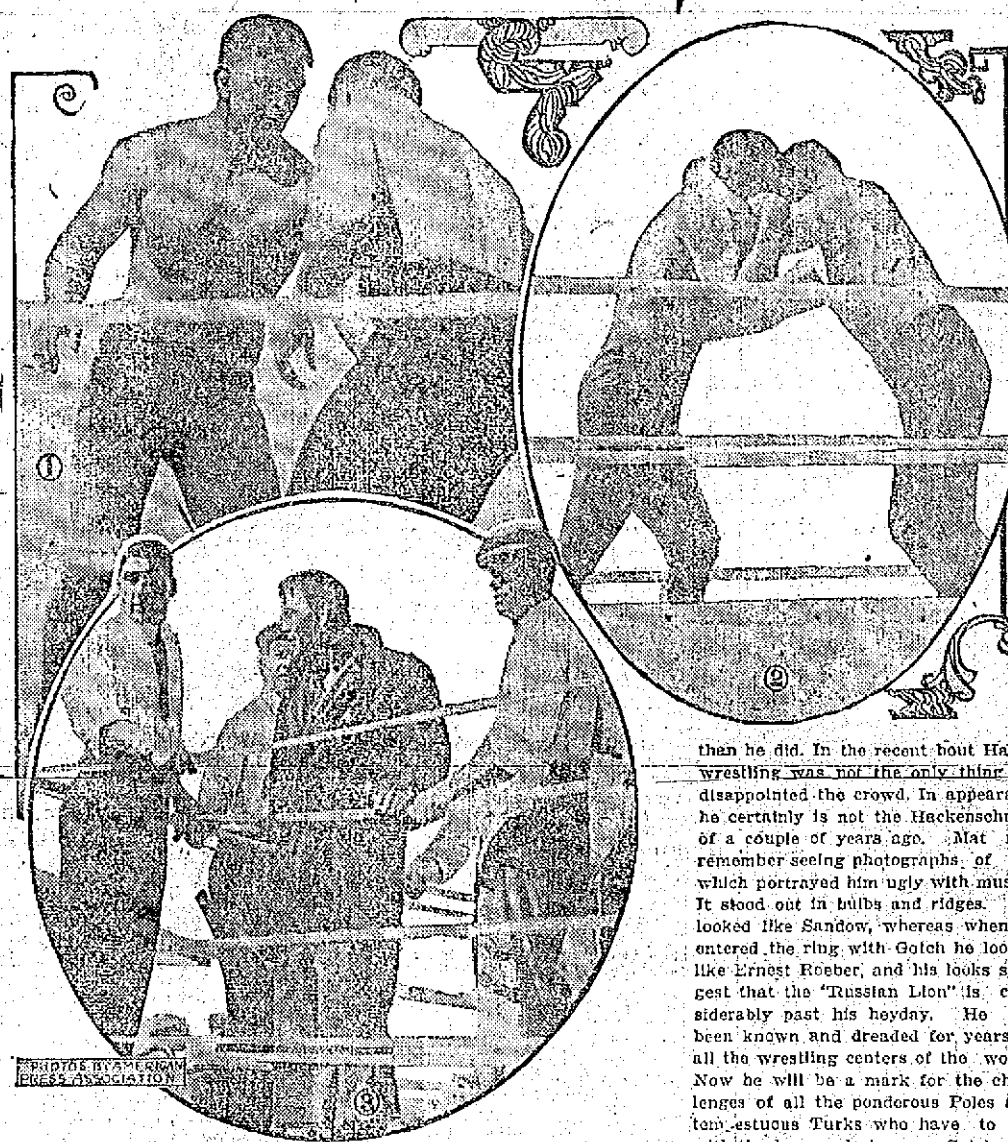

For Lowell Cooney hit to Hagan and was out at first. Magee's grounder was taken care of by Phoenix and Fluharty struck out.

Ninth Inning

SCENES IN THE RING WHERE GOTCH SUCCESSFULLY DEFENDED HIS WRESTLING TITLE

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Wrestling fans here still continue to talk of the poor showing of Geo. Hackenschmidt in his bout with Frank Gotch on Labor day. In fact, there are a few whispers around—a very few—to the effect that the whole thing was a frame. To any one who had good eyesight it was nothing of the kind. If Hackenschmidt had gone into the ring bent upon cheating he could not have performed much more poorly than he did. In the recent bout Hack's wrestling was not the only thing that disappointed the crowd. In appearance he certainly is not the Hackenschmidt of a couple of years ago. Mat fans remember seeing photographs of him which portrayed him ugly with muscles. It stood out in bulks and ridges. He looked like Sandow, whereas when he entered the ring with Gotch he looked like Ernest Reber, and his looks suggest that the "Russian Lion" is considerably past his heyday. He has been known and dreaded for years in all the wrestling centers of the world. Now he will be a mark for the challenges of all the ponderous Foles and tenacious Turks who have to do with the hammerlock game. Gotch was a much better wrestler on Labor day than he ever had been before in his life and a better athlete in the truest sense of the word. Picture No. 1 shows Gotch trying for waist lock; No. 2, Hack and Gotch locked; No. 3, Gotch after he won first fall.

which means victory despite the fact that Luyster will oppose him.

Jack Stafford did a good job at umpiring. Maybohm was right there with the goods.

It was a toss-up between the band and Jack Thurston's dog as to which produced the greatest volume of sound.

There are some mutts in this world who if Lowell would call them a bunch of quitters, but because they whine and cry—"They're laying down to them." The silliest report of all was that Worcester laid down Wednesday, based on the fact that Burkett wasn't in uniform.

CHARTER OAK RACES

Dudie Archdale, Sir R and June Won Their Events

HARTFORD, Sept. 8.—The grand circuit horses furnished a rather unsatisfactory exhibition for President Taft who honored the Connecticut fair with his presence at Charter Oak park yesterday afternoon.

The program looked up to providing much better sport. The handicap was a gift for Dudie Archdale after two uninteresting trial heats. Sir R. won from Brannan Bannan without an effort and first money in the third event was taken by June without the semblance of a contest.

Taken as a whole it was about as poor a day's racing as the present season has had and it was well that the fair management had the nation's chief executive to please the largest crowd ever seen at Charter Oak outside of a holiday.

The trial heats in the handicap were useless, as Chester Lasell and John Dodge were the only drivers who forced their horses. In the round for first record horses Joan won as she liked. Dudie Archdale getting away poorly and Billy Burke making a break.

Creighton and Joe Bowers had a race for first place in the trial for the slower horses, the stallion from the half-mile track being the stronger at the finish.

The main race went to Dudie Archdale, who trotted her 610 feet at the rate of 2:06 1-4, a sterling performance. Geers got the high-bodied black mare away fast and she was soon lapped on Charlie Mitchell. Murphy kept his pupil marching, but in the stretch the Memphis trotter stepped away from him, winning in 2:25 1-4, with something to spare.

Sir R., the pacer from the Murphy "fall-winning" stable who forced Vernon McKinley to go in 2:02 at Cleveland, was not headed in the event for slowworkers. Cox tried several ways to get to the wire first with Brannan Bannan, but none of them was of avail.

The first heat he left it to a brush, but a quarter in 2:14 1-4 seconds was easy for Sir R. The next trip Brannan was moved along at the half-mile post, but a half in 1:01 1-2 did not bother the Ponchkeeps gelding.

From the wire Cox tried the next time, with a quarter in 2:14 1-4, the half in 1:01 1-2, and a mile in 2:05 1-4 was the result; but Sir R. was always in front.

Murphy was apparently the only driver who desired to finish first in the 2:13 trot, as three better-than-2:13 horses were going easy behind him in 2:17, 2:18 and 2:19.

The two neither Haden nor Anne Kohl was under a drive, while Murphy was busy with June, a daughter of Ballin.

The mile-track horses will close their brief campaign in New England tomorrow with the pacing handicap the only scheduled event. The summary:

timack Square, and every one they happened to think of while on route. At the park they gave a first class concert including the immortal "Fessie" which will cling to Manager Gray even as "Sweet Adeline" refuses to be divorced from Johnnie Fliz, the little Napoleon of the Hub.

The hold-over excitement after Wednesday's victory coupled with the fact that yesterday was a half holiday in the stores brought out a large crowd. There were a few hundred up from Lawrence and they made themselves heard for the Lawrence bunch wants Worcester to win the pennant.

It was announced at the grounds that Manager Gray has secured the services of Willard Jackson, the star pitcher of the Brattleboro, Vt. team which has just won the championship of the Inter-State league; Murray, the first baseman and captain of the Brattleboro team and Arthur Cobb, the crack pitcher of last season's Waltham High school team. Present at the game was Joseph Page of St. John, N. B., a well known newspaper man who is arranging the Canadian trip of the Lowell team for next week. The team will play at St. Stevens on Sept. 11 and 12 and at St. John Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

There were 2200 people present when Umpire Stafford called play.

First Inning
For Lawrence: Hagan started off with a strike out. Crisham hit to Boules and was thrown out at first.

Second Inning
Lowell scored one more. Wright singled and Boules followed with a two-bagger. Huston bunted to Crisham who fumbled and Wright scored. Maybohm struck out. Moulton hit to Carlstrom who got Boules. Barrows was out. Phoenix to Crisham.

Third Inning
Hagan flied out to Maybohm. Crisham hit Cooney and was out at first. Kennedy flied to Huston.

For Lowell Cooney hit to Hagan and was out at first. Magee's grounder was taken care of by Phoenix and Fluharty struck out.

Fourth Inning

PRESIDENT WM. H. TAFT

Made a Strong Plea for the Arbitration Treaty

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 8.—To a Connecticut audience 50,000 strong, massed upon the home stretch of Charter Oak race track yesterday afternoon, President Taft spoke on arbitration between nations.

It was such an audience as is seldom seen in this state, for most of it had been drawn from the hill and valley towns where agricultural pursuits are followed, and to most of the people the president was an unfamiliar figure despite his many and frequent visits to the state.

President Taft was both the guest of the state and of the Connecticut fair association, and his address followed a state luncheon given in the new Memorial hall on Capitol hill.

Short as was his visit here it was one of action. He was whirled from the luncheon, a little late by the program to the fair grounds, three miles away, finding the crowd anxious for him to appear. He was placed upon a platform within the track inclosure, where Gov. Baldwin introduced him.

A rope held back the people, but the president asked that the barrier be taken down and the people rushed forward to within sound of his voice.

Thousands Hear Speech

The address was intently listened to, and even if many thousands could scarcely make out what he said, yet the president was in excellent voice. Quiet was maintained over a large area.

Time and again the president's plea for an arbitral court between the great nations of the world was enthusiastically applauded. At the close, owing to the short time remaining before his departure, the president was unable to receive more than a few who were in his immediate neighborhood.

Then he returned to his motor car and was whirled into the city, leaving for Boston at 5 o'clock.

President Taft is such a familiar figure in Connecticut that he spoke like one renewing old acquaintances rather than to a crowd of strangers. And this bond was sufficient to hold a large audience to a speech that dealt almost exclusively with the legal technicalities of arbitration treaties with England and France which now await the approval of the American senate.

After paying tribute to the persistent energy of the Connecticut farmer in tilling a somewhat unwilling soil, the president plunged at once into a discussion of the three principal causes of the arbitration treaties. He quoted liberally from his recent speeches on the same subject. He endeavored to show the benefits accruing to the high contracting parties and the support which his movement was receiving from peace societies and commercial organizations.

Perhaps the most significant part of his address was as follows:

"The majority of the senate committee on foreign relations say that they cannot consent that somebody else shall decide for them whether a question arising in the future is within the provisions of the first article of this treaty, that for them to do so is to delegate their power to another tribunal and is to bind themselves by an obligation which they have no power to assume."

"It is the view of the minority however, and with that view I am earnestly in accord, that the issue where a future difference shall be settled, in terms of a description of article 1 of the treaty is an international question arising out of a construction of the treaty under a claim of right by one of the parties to an arbitration and is a question, therefore, that the president and the senate, acting as the treaty-making power, have the right to agree by the treaty to submit to a tribunal for a final judgment, in what different way is the treaty-making power invoked when we ask the senate to concur in a treaty which agrees to submit all justiciable differences to arbitration and when it is asked to agree to submit to arbitration the question whether a difference arising is justiciable or not under a treaty I confess that I cannot see the distinction. It is a well known fact that Norway and Sweden have made an agreement to settle all differences except those of vital interest and national honor by submission to the Hague tribunal and they have further agreed that when they differ as to whether the controversy arising is arbitral under the treaty to submit that question to the board of arbitration for its final decision. Now if I understand the attitude of the majority of the senate committee, it is that they have no power, and therefore, the government has no power, to enter into a treaty by which we shall agree to submit to a third person constituting a tribunal the question on whether we are bound under a treaty to abide the judgment of the tribunal as to a particular issue. The treaty-making power under the constitution, it has been decided by the supreme court, hardly knows definition or limit. It is one of the broadest powers conferred by the constitution and it is conferred on the executive and the senate. Certainly it is not in the interest of the cause of peace that that power should be limited in such a way that other governments may make treaties of the kind and we may not."

"I cannot exaggerate the importance of escaping from the limited and narrow view the majority of the senate committee takes of the powers of the senate in this regard and of securing action by the senate sustaining the minority view. The ideal toward which we are all working with these treaties is the ultimate establishment of an arbitral court to which we shall submit our international controversies with the same freedom and the same dependence on the judgment as in case of domestic courts. If the senate cannot bind itself to submit questions of jurisdiction arising under the treaty, as Norway and Sweden have done for instance, then the prospect of real and substantial progress is most discouraging."

"I call your attention to the unfortunate consequences not only to ourselves but to the whole civilized world, not only for today but for ages to come if the final adoption of this reasoning by the senate committee is to prevail. Steadily throughout the world the burden of the creation of armies and fleets has grown heavier and heavier; steadily the competition has grown more fierce and is crushing the life and the hopes of the people. But steadily too, and of late even more rapidly has grown the hope that an escape from these burdens may be found, that in some measure at least the peaceful methods of settling disputes among individual men may obtain between the nations in some measure, I say; let us not be too extravagant in our dreams and our prophecies, and yet who can say what the end of such a movement, of such aspirations may be? Now wherever good men and women the world over are longing and praying for the dawn of this great day of peace their eyes are turned to the United States and to the great republic of the west, to the land which more than any other has used the peaceful method of arbitration for the settlement of its differences with other nations. In this great movement we are the hope of the world. This hope, by the proposed construction of the senate powers to make a treaty, we are now to strike down. The men and women who are struggling long and we say to 'I am not to us for leadership. We cannot even follow.' Let other nations arbitrate, let others even set up a high court of nations and pledge their fate that they will resort no more to the dead arbitrament of war but still abide by the verdict of their chosen judges. The great American nation is unable by its legislators to help forward the great movement, is unable to bind itself to any future broad submission of its case to an arbitral court, though the whole world follows this light of civilization and peace. For, remember, if the senate cannot now bind us to abide, the judgment of an arbitral court as to where a question of justiciable it can never bind us and if the senate cannot bind us the nation cannot bind us and this peace-loving people is forever incapable of taking a step along the great path which all the world wishes to tread and along which all the world thinks America best fitted to lead."

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 8.—When the first check of the names on the supplemental list to call a recall election for Mayor George W. Dilling was completed last night it was apparent that the recall movement had failed. Although sufficient names were found valid to force the calling of the recall election there have been filed more than 500 applications for withdrawal of names, enough to make the petition ineffective. Friends of the recall are contemplating an effort to enjoin the withdrawal of these names.

DELEGATES CHOSEN

To the Federation of Labor Convention

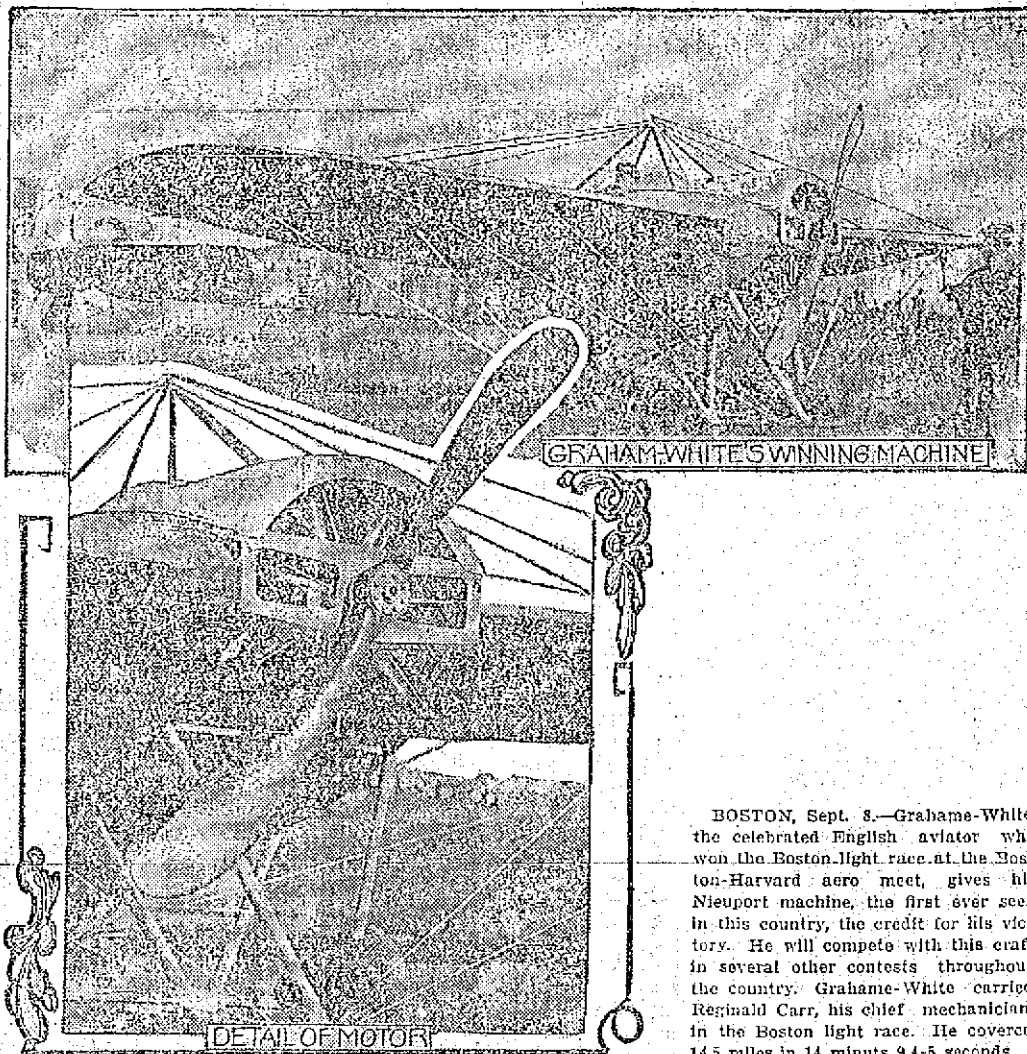

A well attended meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held at 32 Middle street last night. There were 65 delegates present, representing 21 unions. Rev. N. T. Whitaker, D. D., of the Federation of Churches was also in attendance.

President John J. Mahoney occupied the chair and he and Vice-President Timothy F. Rourke were unanimously elected delegates to the annual convention of the state branch of the American Federation of Labor, which is to be held in Haverhill commencing Monday, Sept. 18.

It was voted to extend a rising vote of thanks to the newspapers for all who assisted in making the Labor Day celebration the success which it was.

It was reported that Henry Stallings of the Boston Typographical union, would deliver an address on trade unionism in the Grace Universalist church in the near future, and the delegates were invited to attend. The not fun. It deals with the doings of Wall street presenting the lights and shades of stock manipulation and is a play of smiles and tears. "The Henrietta" is the name of a mine, around the fortunes of which the plot is evolved and much rich comedy is derived through the mistaken idea in some cases that Henrietta is a fast woman. The play will be elaborately staged and costumed and the first performance will be given on Monday afternoon. KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

"I guess everybody in Lowell must have come around today," remarked Treasurer Pickett of Keith's New Theatre as he closed the box office after as busy a day as he ever put in behind the window of a box office. The crowd of ticket seekers that started early in the morning continued all day and well into the evening while the telephone was surprisingly large. But with 12 performances per week there is opportunity for all to secure good seats and none should remain away under the false impression that they cannot secure good seats. The theatre has a large seating capacity and it can be said without exaggeration that every seat is a good one owing to the peculiar construction of the interior. The bill for opening week would draw a crowd to any theatre for it is one of the strongest vaudeville programs ever offered in Lowell. Heading the list is Sig. Mollness, and his company of 15 comedians and dancers in a grand scenic production known as "Paris by Night," a sensational pantomime act dealing with the diversions of Gay Paree after dark. The scene is laid in front of the entrance of the celebrated Moulin Rouge and among its features is a series of sensational dances. J. K. Murray and Clara Lane, the opera stars, late of English opera but now doing a limited engagement on the Keith circuit, present one of the highest class acts in vaudeville, giving selections from the leading operas. The Cyelling Brunettes are Lowell boys who have come to the front in vaudeville with a fine comedy bicycling act and all their Lowell friends will be interested to see them perform. Flanagan and Edwards present a laughable satire on stage life entitled "On and Off" which is a gem of merriment. Gordon and Keys, a couple of merry comedians and great laugh-provokers, will make a hit. Colonel Sam Holdsworth, America's oldest professional singer, aged 82 years, is here after a tour of the Orient, with his voice still unimpaired and the bill contains a special added attraction in the Frey Twins, wrestlers and physical culturists, in the pastimes of Ancient Greece. The first performance will take place on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Matinees daily at 2; evenings at 8.—Adv.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Those who have witnessed the presentation of "A Forgotten Melody," at the Merrimack Square theatre pronounce it one of the best offerings of its kind that local theatregoers have had an opportunity to enjoy in some seasons. Our stock company, headed by that well known entertainer, Ken- del Weston, and assisted by Miss Florence Phelps and James Byrne, Jr., is especially pleasing in the principal characters through which the lines of the piece are interpreted. Mr. Weston as the old music master who finds it difficult to get his compositions before the public, is seen at his best. He handles the character in a most artistic and delicate way and cannot help but please all patrons. Miss Phelps and Mr. Byrne, Jr., are capable assistants. Next week's attraction for this company will be "The Suffragette," a most amusing comedy.

The other numbers on this week's bill include the Original Cowboy Four singers par excellence; Edward Grayne, "The Tall Tale Teller," and Miss Eva Weston, soloist. The photo-play for the last three days of the week are up to the usual high standard of the past. Patrons who are anxious to have their names placed on the subscription list should apply at the box office. Telephone 2055. Something always going on at the Merrimack Square theatre from 1.20 to 10.30 o'clock daily.—Adv.

EVERETT, Sept. 8.—President Taft, acting as chairman of the Lincoln Memorial committee, today directed Colonel Spencer S. Crosby, superintendent of public buildings at Washington and disbursing officer of the commission, to employ John R. Pope, an architect of New York, to prepare and submit a design for the Lincoln memorial suitable for a site on the Soldiers home property in Washington and a design suitable for a site on the Soldiers home property in Washington. Henry Bacon, another architect, already has been employed to submit designs for a third site in Potomac park. The designs are to be ready next winter. The Lincoln Memorial committee has $2,000,000 to spend on the monument.

"THE GIRL IN THE TAXI"

With a record of two seasons in three cities, New York, Chicago and Boston, "The Girl in the Taxi," the most remarkable of all laughing entertainments, comes to the Opera House soon for an engagement of two nights. It can safely be said that "The Girl in the Taxi" stands at the top of all plays of its kind whose chief purpose is to amuse the theatre-going public. If you would cry, stay away, but if you would experience the heartiest laugh of your life, don't fail to see this place which has created a sensation on both sides of the Atlantic.—Adv.

"THE CLIMAX"

Joseph Carl Brell was practically unknown in the musical firmament until recently. He had been and still is organist in the fashionable Fifth Avenue church. Here, his few efforts as a composer took the form of hymns. Edward Locke, the author of "The Climax" knew Brell well and being of the opinion that the young organist had a great future before him, insisted that Mr. Joseph Weber, who stands sponsor for "The Climax," secure him to do the music, which is so important to the success of the piece. So well was this commission carried into effect, that Mr. Brell has been approached by several prominent managers with flattering offers for his works. The only one of these which so far has been considered is from Mr. Joseph Weber. This will take the form of a standard opera founded upon "The Song of a Soul," which brought him into fame. The Climax comes to the Opera House soon.—Adv.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

But four more performances of William Collier's celebrated comedy, "Caught in the Rain" remain to be played and those who have not witnessed this care-free dramatic offering should avail themselves of the opportunity. The play is a continuous run of smiles and laughs from start to finish, the audiences providing the smiles and laughs. In the leading role, Mr. Donald Meek appears to excellent advantage, having a fine opportunity to bring forth his natural-born, fun-making proclivities. He is supported by a strong and well balanced company, being ably assisted in comedy roles by Mr. Rockcliffe Fellows and Miss Elizabeth Hunt. Next week the company will present one of the most famous of American plays, Bronson Howard's great comedy drama, "The Henrietta," in which Robinson and Crane, two of America's foremost actors, delighted the theatre-going public from Maine to California. In this play also Mr. Donald Meek is particularly well cast, presenting the part played by the late Mr. Robinson, that of "Bertha the Lamb," an apparently simple far but with a heart and brain concealed under the effeminate exterior. The play is not essentially a comedy as its primary object is ting ability among republicans, especially, when a few weeks later, when the legislature was called upon to elect a state auditor, the republican leaders permitted the election to be held by secret ballot as provided in the constitution. If Mr. Langtry desired an election under such circumstances, he was welcome to it. As for me, I voted then and want now only those votes that come to me of the free will of the voters. All that I ask is that no man be permitted to exercise a free choice.

My opponent for the nomination, Mr. Skelton, lays great stress upon the fact that he is a Grand Army man and that, as Mr. Olin was a Grand Army man, he should have the nomination. That argument presupposes that a hereditary right to office exists in a patriotic organization. I do not assent to this proposition and I believe that the veteran soldiers who gave such splendid proof of their devotion to the ideals of the nation will be the first to resent it. There have been and are men called "professional Grand Army men"—who would use that organization to further their own ambitions. But Mr. Olin was not one of those men. He was picked for office originally, as men generally are picked, because of loyal party service.

This commonwealth never has stood for the idea that any organization had the right to dictate candidates for office, although there are undoubtedly men in all organizations who try and use those organizations for their own personal and political advancement. Massachusetts had one unfortunate experience with attempted domination of public offices by a secret organization. That organization was based on religious bigotry and it was an honored citizen of Lowell—Frederic T. Greenhalge—who did as much as any one man in removing that cancer from the body politic.

Mr. Skelton tells us that, being a Grand Army man, he would poll the solid Grand Army vote but the lack of logic in that statement is shown when it is contrasted with statements which he has felt compelled to make to prove that he isn't a convert to the cause of democracy for the sake of what he can get out of the democratic party. He has had to face the fact that he changed his party enrollment from republican to democratic only five minutes before he announced his candidacy for secretary of the commonwealth, on July 14th, last.

Mr. Skelton explains that he became enrolled as a republican because he desired to vote for one Thomas M.
Vinson of Ward 20, Boston, as a candidate for the legislature in the public primaries. Mr. Vinson was well-known as a member of the house of representatives, as the recognized mouthpiece of the Employers' association in its opposition to every piece of legislation sought for the betterment of the condition of the working class.
But Mr. Skelton says that, except for this one fall from grace, he has been a consistent democrat. He has told us the stump that he voted for Horace Greasley, thrice for Grover Cleveland, thrice for William Jennings Bryan, and for Gaston, Vahey and Ross.

If Mr. Skelton, as a Grand Army man, could vote for Horace Greasley against his old commander, General Grant, for Grover Cleveland twice against General Benjamin F. Harrison, and for William J. Bryan, who was twice opposed by Mr. Skelton's old comrade in arms, Major McKinley, how does he expect to convince anybody that the Grand Army will rise on mass, irrespective of party affiliations, and vote for Edward O. Skelton simply because he is a member of the Grand Army?

I, fellow democrats, am the son of a Civil war veteran, but that is an accident of birth for which I claim no special credit. My candidacy is based upon my fitness for the office and upon ten years of active party service as chairman of my local democratic committee and as an advocate of democratic principles before the Massachusetts legislature. The democratic members of the legislature attested their belief in the value of my services to the party when they nominated me over members from their own ranks who sought the nomination. Those men who fight the battles of democracy daily for six months in the year affirmed their faith in the value of my services and their belief that my victory would mean a victory for the democracy and not a personal victory.
It is for you to say whether you believe likewise. My case is in your hands.

Hon. David I. Walsh

Hon. David I. Walsh, candidate for lieutenant-governor, received a ovation as he arose. He spoke in part as follows:

Fellow democrats: You have heard the previous speakers tell you a few of the things that can be done through organization and I will not touch upon that matter, except to express my surprise and admiration of the work that has been done throughout this state along those lines. In Somerville, a strong republican city, there have been democratic rallying clubs formed in every ward, and the work they are doing assures a complete reversal of Somerville's standing. They have reached the eligible men who have not cast a ballot and have also reached hundreds of republican voters who state that they will be with us on election day. In this city of Lowell, the field must be large for such work as that. To get the working man interested in the party that stands for him and his best interests. Not only in the state and national elections but in every election, they should choose men who really represent them.

They are picked and chosen by republicans, who while professing to represent the people represent the moneyed interests, and stand squarely for the protection of private capital. The democratic party now for the first time in many years goes before the voters with a record and asks for approval. Last year, hampered by a hostile legislature this party went on record for many of the things that must come. We secured the passage of the 5-hour law, the 54-hour law, Homestead act, Compensation act, and many others that vitality affect the happiness of the great mass, the working man, a real record of accomplishments that must bring approval from the people.

In this great city the issues must be sharply drawn from the makeup of the population. On one side we find the moneyed interests crying for protection, and on the other we find the people calling for the laws that will bring them shorter hours, more compensation and restoration of the cost of living.
that can only be secured by tariff regulation, which in turn can only be secured by the election of the democratic ticket. These great corporations pay enormous dividends but hand out a very meagre wage. How do they do it? By this great method of protection given by the republican party, who are subservient to the interests. Another difference that should appeal to the voter is that the democratic party is nearer to them, is made up from them, is a true representation of every element that goes to make up this population of this state and the industries in it. We have on our ticket, manufacturers, small business men, toilers, representatives of the professions. Does not a ticket made up like that represent in a more ideal way the whole population? The time has passed when all that is necessary to secure votes is brains and education. What is needed now is heart, feeling, a closeness to the lives of the vast majority in addition to the ability. In the opposition to the re-election of Senator Lodge last year the main cry was that he was too cold, hard, had grown too far away to be truly representative of the vast majority.

On the democratic ticket you will find the real representatives, who stand for the best interests of the people and who are closest in touch with the people.

FINAL ARGUMENTS

Were Made in the Beattie Murder Trial Today

CHESTERFIELD COURTHOUSE, Va., Sept. 8.—It was within the range of probability that before midnight tonight Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., indicted for the murder of his wife, will know his fate. Before sunset Harry M. Smith, Jr., counsel for the defense, and I. C. Wendenburg, for the prosecution, will probably conclude a battle of words before the twelve jurymen who are expected to reach a verdict tonight. The final arguments began earlier than usual and although they were expected to end at sundown this was by no means an assured fact.

"I expect the case to go to the jury tonight," said Judge Watson. "I know the jurymen are anxious to get to their homes and I will urge the lawyers to endeavor to finish tonight."

It was a bitter fight enveloping all the finer details of criminal law that was staged at the historic courthouse today between Attorneys Smith and Wendenburg. Continuing the line of talk begun by his colleague, Hill Carter, against the veracity of Paul Beattie, who gave the most sensational and damaging testimony against his cousin, Mr. Smith battered away at the story of the purchase of the gun, the alleged confession and the chain of circumstantial evidence forged by the prosecution.

Commonwealth Counsel Wendenburg took notes during Mr. Smith's argument preparatory to the delivery of the address which will bring the trial to the point of consideration by the jury, while the prisoner, in a light suit and a white cravat, sat beside his counsel assisting him constantly in finding passages in the voluminous typewritten record of the testimony and followed the argument closely.

Mr. Smith said: "We do not anticipate and do not fear at your hands a conviction. What we are troubled about is those of you who are satisfied that you cannot bring in a verdict of guilty and yet cannot assent to a verdict of not guilty."

"We will endeavor to show you that if that is your frame of mind we are entitled to an acquittal."

Mr. Smith cited the Kestleberg incident as an instance of circumstantial evidence.

"You heard the boys testify," he continued, "of their trip to Bon Air, how they saw a man in front of an automobile and a woman on the porch of the house. How must you have felt when Mr. Kestleberg himself came forward and thrust aside all suspicion that Henry Beattie or his wife were in that machine. This gentleman, illustrates the danger of making up your minds until a case is closed; a pit into which many jurymen and even judges have often fallen."

"He who alleges for the commonwealth, therefore, has a distinct advantage in weaving together theories from facts we have not known. What can have been the purpose of Mr. Snider's testimony that he saw a young man alone on the Middlebury turnpike early on the evening of the tragedy. It must be that they think the accused went to the stump they have talked about and placed the gun there a few hours before the crime. But here is a man of intelligence who on the witness stand must have impressed you, a man of kind disposition, and yet they want you to believe that he prepared in a blundering fashion for the crime a more heinous and brutal than seldom been conceived by the brain of man."

The lawyer dwelt at length on the question of reasonable doubt, reading the instructions to the jury on this point.

"It is inconceivable," he added, "that this young man could for three days live in the same house with his dear father and loving family, could kiss them each night with this terrible crime on his mind. It is inconceivable, gentlemen."

"In taking away a human life you are face to face with God almighty and unless you are convinced to a moral certainty that this young man committed this dastardly crime you must of course bring in a verdict of not guilty."

"You have been shown the dangers of circumstantial evidence but I will show you that the accused must have committed the murder. For he there picked out a much-traveled road where everybody could see him. In full view, he hides a gun. I may as well say that if he thought out or planned this crime, why, can you tell me, should he have used a shotgun when a pistol, easily procured, and easily concealed, without taking anybody into his confidence, could have been used."

"Gentlemen, there is more than one human life at stake, not only the life of this young man but that gray-haired father, the future of the brother and the good name of a sister. They all appeal to you to give them the benefit of the doubt."

"Our mail has been flooded," said Mr. Smith, "with newspaper clippings and letters from people all over the United States telling of the dangers of circumstantial evidence."

"I don't think you should have mentioned that," interjected Prosecution Wendenburg.

"Well, if it was wrong, I hope His Honor will rule it out, for I want to secure your verdict only by fair and rightful means."

Mr. Smith then closely reviewed the evidence with particular stress on the reluctantly given testimony of Kestleberg, as indicating the danger of circumstantial evidence.

Characterizing Paul Beattie as a "moral wreck," the lawyer held up the testimony of the cousin as influenced by stronger-minded detectives.

"We do not believe that Paul Beattie was guilty of this crime. The question has probably occurred to you as to what our theory is. Well, gentlemen, instructions distinctly point out that it is not necessary for us to locate the criminal agent."

TRANSFER OF CLERKS

Important Changes Have Been Made at City Hall

CLARENCE H. RAYMOND, for several years department clerk in the office of the superintendent of streets at city hall, has resigned that position to accept one more lucrative. It is stated, in Boston, and his resignation has brought about a transfer of clerks in the municipal building that is decidedly out of the ordinary. The transfers mean more pay for those who have been promoted, but the advisability of transferring a clerk from a department with the workings of which the clerk is thoroughly familiar, to one with which the clerk is not familiar, is questioned.

Clinton P. Tuttle, clerk in the office of the city auditor for the last nine years, will succeed Mr. Raymond in the office of the superintendent of streets and Miss Eleanor M. Churchill, clerk in the office of the purchasing agent, will succeed Mr. Tuttle in the auditor's office.

As clerk in the auditor's office Mr. Tuttle was receiving $22.50 a week and as clerk in the office of the streets department he will receive $23.02. Miss Churchill, one of the most competent bookkeepers and accountants in the city, received $16.50 a week in the purchasing agent's office. Miss Churchill has been clerk in that department for a dozen years or more and purchasing

"I think Miss Churchill is the most competent clerk that I have ever seen," said Mr. Foye, "and I have felt all along that her salary here was too small. I regret very much that she is going to another office and I would gladly have made her salary equal to that of the position to which she goes in the auditor's office but the appropriations committee refused to give me the necessary money. She was so familiar with the work here that it means almost impossible to fill her place. She was so quick and accurate that she could really do the work of two ordinary clerks."

Mr. Foye said he had not yet chosen a successor to Miss Churchill but that he would do so tomorrow. There remained for Miss Churchill six days of a vacation of two weeks and she started this morning on the six days that will complete her vacation and when she returns she will spend a few days in the purchasing agent's office before taking up her new position in the auditor's office. Miss Churchill will be the first woman to serve as clerk in the auditing department.

MOROCCAN AFFAIR

FRENCH CABINET CONSIDERING GERMANY'S COUNTER PROPOSAL. BERLIN, Sept. 8.—Developments in the Morocco situation are not expected while the French cabinet is digesting Germany's counter proposal relative to the question and while France's answer thereto is in the course of preparation.

The situation is quiet enough to justify the French ambassador, M. Cambon, in leaving Berlin tomorrow to spend several days with Mme. Cambon at Dresden, the capital of Saxony.

The German imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, has returned to his country place at Hohenfelde, Prussia.

Uneasiness persists, however, among the uninformed public. The run on the savings banks at Stettin, province of Pomerania, has ceased but a similar run has been started by depositors on the banks at Koenigsberg, the capital of the province of East Prussia.

A meeting of commercial firms interested in Morocco held today at Hamburg passed resolutions urging the German foreign office to insist on adequate economic guarantees from France, as experience had shown that the formal assurances of that country were worthless.

FRENCH MINISTER SILENT. PARIS, Sept. 8.—The French foreign minister, M. De Seve, declines to give the slightest indication as to the nature of Germany's counter proposals relative to the Moroccan dispute which were handed by the German foreign minister, Herr Von Kiderlen Waechter, to the French ambassador, M. Cambon, in Berlin yesterday for transmission to the French government.

A short summary of the German proposals was received by telegraph at the French foreign office today, but the ministry is awaiting the full text which is due by messenger this afternoon.

From the careful and authoritative Havas agency issues the "impression" that the differences between the French and the German points of view still are considerable.

He Committed Suicide in His Home

FALL RIVER, Sept. 8.—While his wife was doing her housework in an adjoining room, Frank Froelove, 49 years old, committed suicide today by shooting himself through the heart with a revolver. Despondency over ill health is supposed to have caused the act. He was for many years a laundry team driver but had been employed for some time as a coachman. He was prominent in fraternal circles.

JUDGE LACOMBE

The defendants, who are excepted from signing the court papers are residents of Massachusetts, New Jersey and Maryland. The petition in the case charges the defendants with being engaged in a conspiracy to restrain inter-state trade and commerce.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, 114 Agawam street. The house was tastefully decorated with palms, smilax and asters. The happy couple departed on a late train for a trip to the White Mountains and New York, and will be at home to their friends at 185 Congress avenue, Chelsea, after October 1st. No cards.

DONOHUE—GRIFIN

Mr. Cornelius Donohue, a clerk in the dress goods department of The Gilchrist Co., was united in marriage to Miss Catherine Griffin, a popular young lady of Belvidere, Wednesday evening at the parochial residence of the Immaculate Conception church. The marriage ceremony took place at five o'clock, the Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., officiating. After the ceremony the happy couple repaired to the home of the bride at 168 Concord street where a reception was held. There were friends and relatives present from this city and Portland, Me., and a reception was held, after which an entertainment program was carried out. There was an orchestra in attendance and all present had an enjoyable time.

The bride was attended by Miss Nora, her sister, and the best man was James Kilmarin.

The bride was becomingly attired in duchess satin and carried bridal roses, and wore a picture hat. The bridesmaid wore white satin over lace and carried carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Donohue left on a late train for parts unknown and will be at home to their friends after November 1st.

WOMAN FILES PETITION IN SUPREME COURT

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Mrs. Mollie F. Pearce, widow of a Covington, (Ky.) banker, has invoked the aid of the supreme court to recover the $4180 that she entrusted to Eugene Christian, "naturalist and food expert." She charges that he "cheated and defrauded" her by inducing her to invest in stock of his Christian Natural Food company.

Three years ago, when Christian had a place of business in East Forty-first street, where he demonstrated his natural food, there came to him for treatment Miss Lida Fant, of Covington, who told her sister, Mrs. Pearce, about Christian's prediction of the company's golden future.

Mrs. Pearce got in communication with Christian and just got one block—310 shares—in this allotment," she says he told her. "It's all treasury stock and every dollar goes into the treasury."

Mrs. Pearce declares she first bought the 310 shares for $2245 and, later, 30 more shares for $255. In January, 1909, she made another purchase of 100 shares for $950.

Christian was the president of the company. George W. Allee is credited with being vice-president and S. S. Murray the secretary and treasurer. The Christian Natural Food company became a bankrupt.

Christian filed an answer denying all of Mrs. Pearce's charges, but was ordered to appear today of examination.

ANTI-PISTOL LAW

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The grand jury dismissed yesterday the first case submitted of violation of the Sullivan anti-pistol law, and Judge Foster discharged Antonio Carbone, of West Virginia, who was arrested Sunday for carrying a gun in a case near the Cortlandt street ferry.

Adolph Spiegel, a pawnbroker of No. 165 Park row, who was arrested for displaying thirty revolvers in a show window, pleaded guilty. Magistrate O'Connor suggested that he should let the law, but he refused.

He gave $300 bail for trial in special sessions.

STOCK MARKET

WAS WEAK AT THE CLOSE THIS AFTERNOON

Heavy Selling On Publication of Crop Figures—Many of the Active Stocks Went Below Yesterday's Figures—Other Features of the Trading

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The decline in stocks was continued in the early trading today. Several new low records this year were made including Baltimore & Ohio, which receded 1/2 to 94 1/2. Denver & Rio Grande pfd. and Mo. Pac., each of which lost 1/2. Canadian Pacific fell back 1 1/2. Southern Pacific and Great Northern pfd. 1 and most of the other market leaders large fractions.

Prices were bid up by the bullish construction placed on the cotton spinning report, which showed that twice as much cotton had been ginned as in the similar period last year. The active cotton options, however, were steady, indicating that the showing had been well discounted. Fresh sales of stocks met the recovery in prices and the list, which had rebounded in many instances, to above yesterday's closing, was forced back nearly to the low level.

Movements of stocks were unsettled and the tone of the market was feverish during the morning. A renewal of yesterday's selling gave the list a heavy appearance but this influence was at times offset by sharp rallies and prices swayed back and forth irregularly.

Uncertainty as to the character of the government crop report and the copper producers' statement to be issued later in the day was largely responsible for the unwillingness of traders to take a decided stand. After Canadian Pacific had been depressed 2 points below yesterday's close the market took a vigorous turn. U. P. rallied 1 1/2 from the lowest and Canadian Pacific, S. P., Reading, Lehigh Valley, N. Y. and Great Northern pfd., U. S. Steel got back to yesterday's close and the active stocks as a rule more than made up their early losses. Prices, however, were poorly held at the higher levels, the list sagging again before midday. Bonds were easy.

The bears resumed their tactics of concentrating their pressure on different stocks in turn for effect on the general market. St. Paul was hammered after midday and forced down 1 1/2 to 112 1/2. Reading was then driven down to 140 1/2, compared with 142 1/2 the morning, and U. I. touched 165 1/2, against 167 1/2. The drop in these stocks undermined the whole market and prices crumbled to the lowest all around. Canadian Pacific's loss reached 3 points and U. S. Steel broke to 69. Reports that there had been recent curtailment in new business.

Offerings of stocks diminished rapidly and the list became dull. London's sales today were estimated at 15,000 shares. Forecast of the bank statement indicate a loss in cash by the banks of $5,500,000 from sub-treasury operations and the interior movement. The market closed weak. The heaviest selling of the day began on publication of the government crop figures. Most of the active stocks sold to 1 1/2 below yesterday's closing, placing them within a small fraction of the lowest of the year. There was a quick rebound from this evil but the market was feverish and unsettled at the recovery and soon gave way again.

GINNING OF COTTON

Was Carried on More Actively in Cotton Belt Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The ginning of cotton of the growth of 1917 was carried on more actively throughout the cotton belt to Sept. 1 this year than in any similar period in the history of the industry at least as far as accurate ginning records have been kept. This is shown by the first ginning report of the season compiled by the census bureau from reports of its correspondents in the cotton growing states. A total of 771,415 bales had been ginned up to a week ago. This is greater by almost 300,000 bales than the previous record made in 1905.

The continued hot and dry weather in a greater portion of the belt, especially in Texas, was chiefly responsible for the increase. These conditions meant the early maturing of the crop but this alone is considered not the cause of the greater ginning. Farmers have been more active in getting their crop to the ginneries and, it is said, in some counties of Texas, where the bulk of the increased ginning was reported, practically the entire crop has already been ginned.

Little relation appears to exist, according to census bureau experts, between the size of the crop and the quantity of cotton ginned during any period of the season. This is shown in the big crop years of 1904, 1906, and 1908, each of which produced more than 1,000,000 bales. In those years the percentage of the total crop ginned to Sept. 1 was 2.3, 3.1 and 3.1 per cent, respectively, while in 1905, when the crop was 10,850,000 bales, 4.5 per cent was ginned by Sept. 1. Last year 3.1 per cent of the total crop was ginned to Sept. 1.

TO AVERT A STRIKE

Conference Was Held in San Francisco Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—Members of the general committee of the shop craft unions of the Harriman lines, together with four international presidents of labor organizations met here today to begin the task of determining what action shall be taken by the federation of shopmen in the face of refusal by officials of the Harriman lines to recognize the federation. The general committee represented nearly every shop of the Harriman system west of the Mississippi river and they are accredited with full authority to act for the 25,000 Harriman line employees.

James Kline, international president of the blacksmiths' union, said the four international presidents who came here and unsuccessfully urged Vice President Julius Kruttschnitt of the Harriman lines to recognize an open break between the company and the men but they realized there was little chance to prevent a strike. The presidents at the meeting today told the general committee of the negotiations with Kruttschnitt and explained all of the details of the present situation. Since the Kruttschnitt conference the men have taken a vote and the general committee came here with definite instructions from the men who they represent. This vote is the second the men have taken on the subject, the one prior to the Kruttschnitt meeting being practically an unanimous decision to strike unless the federation should gain recognition from the railroad officials.

Most of the shops along the coast have emphasized the desire of the men to take drastic action but some of the delegates from the middle western states are inclined to accept the ultimatum of Kruttschnitt for the present and to make individual union contracts for the coming year.

President Kline said the present conference probably would last until tomorrow and that it might be extended into next week. He said that he did not expect any definite action today.

A MASKED ROBBER

Was Fired Upon by the Cashier of a Bank

LAUREL, Md., Sept. 8.—A masked man entered the Citizens' National bank here shortly after the opening hour this morning and at the point of a pistol demanded that the receiving teller hand over the money that was lying at the desk beside him. The would-be robber was forced to flight before he could secure the money, by Cashier Walters, who fired two shots at the fleeing man. A posse started in pursuit.

As far as known, the cashier's shots did not take effect. When the stranger appeared in the bank only the receiving teller, A. B. Devane, and a customer were in the outer office. Presenting his pistol, he commanded both to throw up their hands, following with a demand upon the teller that he put the money on the desk into a small sack which the holdup man thrust through the window. At this point Cashier Walters, whose attention had been attracted at the sound of loud voices, appeared in the doorway of his office, revolver in hand. He, too, was ordered to throw up his hands and his answer was a couple of quickly fired shots. The marauder did not reply in kind but dashed out into the street, dropping his mask and cap as he ran. He was chased through the streets but outdistanced his pursuers and gained the shelter of the woods. A posse is searching for him.

WOMEN FIGHT THIEF

Battle With Man They Trapped

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The opportunist of Mrs. Conilla O'Brien of No. 117 Ludlow street, Yonkers, and her sister-in-law, Miss O'Brien, to the home of Mrs. Patrick McMahon, mother of Mrs. O'Brien, at No. 43 Fernbrook street, prevented a sneak thief from walking away with about $400 worth of stuff he had stolen.

The two women met him coming down the stairs as they went to call. Knowing he was a stranger they asked him what he had in the bundle. He tried to get past them, and Mrs. O'Brien took hold of him. He struck her, and both women held to him. Trying to free himself, and striking as frequently as he could, he dragged them a half block with their cries arousing the neighborhood. Policeman Young came to their aid and arrested him.

The prisoner said he was Louis Diamond, a tailor of No. 179 East One Hundred and First street. In the bundle, in addition to clothing, was a violin, valued at $100. He will be brought to New York headquarters today to see if he is known to the police.

SECTION MEN

ON THE LACKAWANNA ROAD MAY QUIT WORK

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 8.—Labor leaders here say it is now up to President Treadwell, of the Lackawanna Railroad, to say whether there will be a strike of the 1200 section men in the employ of the road.

Recently the company discharged Matthew J. Foley, a section foreman. Ninety per cent of the section hands made a demand that he be reinstated. The grievance committee carried the demand to Chief Engineer Ray at Hoboken, but that official refused to treat with the committee.

The grievance committee held a conference at Scranton yesterday and decided to submit the matter to President Treadwell before taking further action.

GIRL FAINTED

WAS STARTLED BY BLAST FROM CYCLIST'S HORN

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Miss Georgiana Smith, of One Hundred and Forty-ninth street, started across Williams avenue at One Hundred and Forty-sixth street yesterday afternoon when a motor cycle whizzed up the road. The blast of the horn startled her from her preoccupation, and not until then did she realize her danger. With a scream she sank to the pavement, limp and unconscious from fright.

The young woman lay there until George Hynes, of No. 378 Williams avenue, who happened to have seen the occurrence spring to her assistance and carried her to a drug store, where she was brought back to consciousness and taken to her home.

Were Placed Under Arrest in New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Four alleged firebugs who, it is charged, have been implicated in the burning of seventeen buildings in an area of six blocks in Fairview, Cliffside-on-the-Palmsides, were held in $5,000 bail each by Judge Milton Demarest, in Hackensack yesterday. The prisoners are August Deichman, Charles Deichman, John Illich and John Kapun. All pleaded not guilty. Charles Deichman furnished the $5,000 bail and was released.

Prosecutor Wright says the men have profited largely by insurance money collected on the burned buildings.

"The evidence before me," he said, "indicates that these men are the members of a dangerous gang, who have made arson a business. We have positive evidence connecting these men with five of the seventeen fires in question, and have reason to believe they have been responsible for practically all of them. We have sixty witnesses. One of these witnesses will testify that the Deichman brothers offered him $500 to set fire to a building."

Prosecutor Wright said that one building that cost August Deichman $8,000 was mortgaged for $8,000 and then insured for $15,000. It was set on fire. A plumbing establishment, presumed to be owned by Kapun, was next burned. On this there was $8,000 insurance. A year ago Deichman's plumbing shop was burned and $4,000 insurance collected.

The men were indicted on the charge of having the residence of Mrs. J. H. Brown, of Cliffside. The fire was started to hide the fact that the place was first burglarized.

UNION BANK CASE

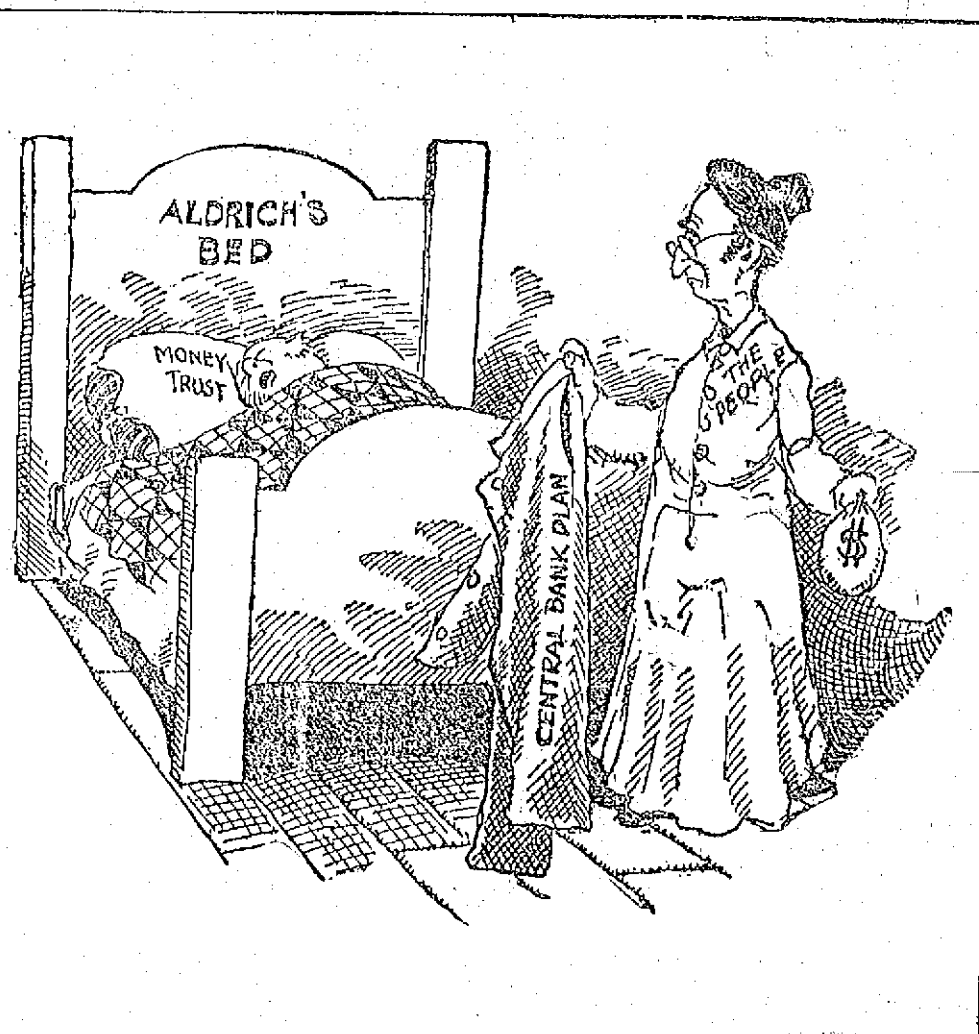

The Grand Jury May Take Action

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Assemblyman Louis J. Goldstein, who has figured as a special investigator for the State Banking Department in the affairs of the Union Bank of Brooklyn, was yesterday appointed by District Attorney Clarke as an Assistant District Attorney, to present the bank matter before the September grand jury. To make room for Goldstein the district attorney arranged with one of his assistants to temporarily resign. Goldstein will remain as assistant only as long as it is necessary to conduct the investigation.

Supreme Court Justice Putnam is expected to render a decision today upon the application of Attorney-General Carmody for an order to compel Edward M. Grout, formerly president of the Union bank, to appear before the bank investigators as a witness. If the decision is against Grout, and he takes an appeal, Assemblyman Goldstein proposes to ask Governor Dix to issue an executive subpoena for Grout, so that one day later in the courts will be obtained.

David A. Sullivan, the indicted president of the defunct Mechanics and Traders' bank, asked Justice Dix yesterday to be allowed to substitute real estate for the cash security demanded as security for his $15,000 bond. Sullivan explained that friends who had put up the $15,000 bond wanted their money back. District Attorney Clarke opposed the substitution, saying he felt Sullivan's friends must be apprehensive. If the court allowed a real estate bond, the district attorney contended, there later might be occasion to regret it. Judge Dix reserved decision.

WOOD RAPS LODGE

Local Republicans Were Busy Last Night

President Taft can't come, but Jim McDowell will be there, likewise Congressmen Harris and Ames, Candidates Frothingham, White and Walker, Frank E. Dunbar and a host of other celebrities, so what more can the republican party want. The affair is an outing at Mountain Rock, Saturday afternoon at 2.30. The tickets are marked 25 cents, but if you happen to meet a candidate just ask him if he is going to the outing. Then he'll suddenly recall the fact that there is to be an outing and that come to think of it, etc., he has an extra ticket which he will promptly produce and present you with his compliments.

Speaker Walker Here

Hon. Joseph Walker, the silent candidate for governor on the republican ticket, that is, silent by way of comparison with the campaign being waged by his opponents, came to Lowell last evening and addressed a gathering of about 50 at the New American house.

On Monday night next Representative George B. Marchand will preside at a gathering at the C. M. A. Club house, corner of Merrimack and Pavement streets, at which Mr. Walker will be the principal speaker.

Among those present last night were: Representatives Erson B. Barlow, Charles T. Killpatrick and Geo. B. Marchand, James McDowell, Geo. H. Taylor, Harry Taylor, Roderick Chisholm, James G. Hill, Otis Butler, William N. Osgood, Burton H. Wiggins, David Dickson, George McQuade and John Durant.

Wood Raps Lodge

Rep. Russell A. Wood, candidate for secretary of state on the republican ticket, addressed the republican city committee last evening and talked right in meeting about the party boss, Senator Lodge, and his own opponent, Mr. Langtry. Among other things he said:

The republican party is facing the greatest crisis of its history of fifty years. The ability of each state to meet the new conditions will determine the fate of our party throughout the union. For any assurance at all of future success the two wings of the republican party cannot afford to diverge and go their respective ways.

The speech of Senator Lodge at Hamilton two weeks ago was most unfortunate in tone. In his ultra-conservatism, in the impatience of the man used to arbitrary power, he served notice practically that all who did not believe as he does should leave the party. He typified those republicans who represent the new progressive wing as hybrids. He sounded the note of what must be most disastrous to the fortunes of our party. With plenty of personal courage, no doubt, he desires to hold to the dead traditions even if he stands alone. There are many, however, who will object to his having his own way in his rule or rule policy.

It was the bitter speech of a man who feels the sceptre slipping from his grasp. I recall that in reply to arguments that Massachusetts should not fall to elect a senator who was not the leader of the senate that I said Senator Lodge would not wield the power in the next six years that he had exercised in the past. Already this prediction seems to be proved true. The progressive faction of the senate holds the balance of power and it is this balance of power with which the republican party must reckon.

The new republicanism calls for a look into the future and not a complacent regard alone for the traditions of the rank and file are represented. The present machine is an oligarchy. The few rule. The few do come before the voters under the new direct primary law with a slate. My opponent, Mr. Langtry is a part of the slate.

Under the new law only one convention remains. Following the primary a convention is called for the purpose of drawing up a platform. The salvation of the party this year will be a progressive platform. And yet already we have again felt the hand of a few. A committee on resolutions has been named which is composed of reactionary agents of the machine. The progressive element finds no hope in the personnel of this committee. It means that the committee report must be fought upon the floor of the convention.

My opponent, Mr. Langtry, I contend cannot add strength to the ticket. He represents the same views of those candidates who already seem assured of places upon the ticket. He has been for the most part simply the office seeker. In two years time he has been a candidate for state treasurer, state auditor and state secretary. His devotion to the office to which he has been elected may be gauged in part by his action two weeks ago.

During the last week for filing of nomination papers Mr. Langtry was at the O. A. R. convention in Rochester, N. Y. He is not a veteran. He went there simply to build up his fences with the Massachusetts contingent which attended. He had been severely attacked on several occasions by Grand Army men. In the meantime all was confusion in the secretary's office. Hundreds rushed up to the state house in the last moments for filing papers and asked to see Mr. Langtry. To desert his office at a time when most needed must force the admission from Mr. Langtry that he was either derelict in his duty or that he is unnecessary in the management of the office he holds.

In conclusion I want to emphasize to the members of the Lowell committee that the time has come when the party should recognize young men. The party needs young men. The time has come furthermore when we should cease giving offices only to wealthy men. I believe our party should accept progressive principles. It must keep pace with the times in order to maintain its integrity and unity, for it is only when we pull together that we can win. I am a candidate for the office of secretary of state because I believe I represent principles the recognition of which will strengthen the ticket.

YELLOW FEVER VICTIMS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The graves of persons buried during the last half century on Flamingo, or Dead Man's island in Panama bay, at the Pacific entrance of the Panama canal, must give way to ramparts to protect the waterway. The remains of 31, some of them victims of yellow fever decades ago, have just been transferred to Ancon cemetery. The island will be strongly fortified and the war department is making preparations to do the work in order that it may be finished at the opening of the big canal.

Officers and sailors of the United States navy who fell victims to yellow fever in 1891 contributed a large percentage of the total number of victims on Flamingo.

SEVERE ITCHING AND BURNING ALL OVER

Scalp, Body, Hands, Limbs Covered with Scales, Could Not Stand Torture, Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

"About three years ago I was attacked with a very severe itching and burning all over my body and finally my skin broke out in a rash. I tried everything I could think of, but nothing helped. I was using the salve and the wash ordered by my physician without relief. When I was advised to go to a skin specialist I went with no better results. My body was covered with scales on my hands, arms and lower limbs. In about one week my scalp was covered with scales which looked like dandruff but became worse each day until at the end of another week the scales were as large as a fish. The itch in my head was unbearable. My hair was coming out in clumps until it looked so bad I was ashamed to go out on the street.

"I used tar soap for a shampoo but it took no effect. At the end of three weeks the back of my head was raw and bald. I was a sight when I decided to try the Cuticura Ointment for the hair, and when I saw the wonderful results I decided to try the Cuticura Soap. I was cured. My hair has grown more than an inch in length.

"Before using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment I lost all of my finger nails and my hands were so sore I could not put them in water. If I had tried them sooner I would have saved a few hundred dollars." (Signed) Mrs. R. Duffell, 651 Knickerbocker Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 10, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, but those who wish to try them without charge may do so by sending to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 104, Boston, for a liberal sample of each, post-free, together with 22-c. book on the skin and scalp.

CHILD WAS KILLED

Little Boy Was Seeking an Airship

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Joseph Naimo, the 5-year-old son of Michael and Grace Naimo, who live on the second floor at 16 Cleveland place, North End, went upon the roof yesterday to look for airships. His playmates were enjoying themselves in the alley below, which leads off Snowhill street. Little Joe heard their childish shouts and called out to them to look up at an airship. He had started to get down to the roof of No. 14, some five feet below. With one foot in the air he turned his eyes back to the imaginary flyer. He did not notice he was near the edge. One more step and his foot went off into vacant space. He fell four stories, almost 80 feet, to the brick pavement.

The children scattered and ran from the heap on the pavement, but a couple of women passing the end of the alley saw Joe lying there and rushed in. One of them picked him up just as Joe's father came out of the doorway of No. 16. The father took the boy, but stood helpless with horror. Joseph De Cicco, a neighbor, saw him standing with the unconscious form in his arms, and took the boy from him, ran up the hill, around the corner and down to the Hull street mission. Dr. W. R. Young was in attendance at the dispensary and did all he could, but the boy died 10 minutes after being brought in, without recovering consciousness. Medical Examiner E. G. Grath examined the body later and said the skull was fractured. The funeral will take place at the church of St. Leonard of Port Maurice, Prince street.

The boy was born in Italy, not far from Genoa. There is another child a year and a half old. But Joe was the hope of his parents and at times they dreamed of his future when perhaps he should enter the priesthood. Of the warm summer evenings when the father returned home from a hard day of pushing a heavy cart of produce about the streets he and his mother used to sit on the doorstep and watch Joe playing with companions in the street, where he was a leader among the children.

WOMEN IN DANGER

Prompt Action of Policeman Saved Them

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—The lives of Annie Randon, 31 years old, of Concord street, Cambridge, and Mrs. Harriet Walton, of Cambridge, were probably saved yesterday afternoon by the prompt action and wonderful physical power of Patrolman William T. Hall of division 2, who held in check a 60-horse power automobile and prevented it from passing over the bodies of the two women, who were prostrate on the street.

The two women, accompanied by Mr. Walton, were crossing Tremont street, opposite Winter, about 3.20 o'clock. They were struck by an automobile owned, it is said by the police, by F. C. Lothrop, 128 Congress street, Milford. The machine was being driven along Tremont street, opposite Winter, when it was stopped by Patrolman Hall in order to allow people to cross the street. While standing still the engine became dead. The driver left the machine to crank it. The speed lever was left in. As the engine started the machine jumped and struck the two women. Officer Hall jumped in front and placing his shoulder against the machine held the automobile at a standstill. The women were quickly pulled from in front of the wheels.

CALLED A DRAW

MURPHY AND MOORE PUT UP A FAST BOUT

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—In a cleverly boxed and fast bout of 10 rounds between Pat Moore and Tommy Murphy at the National sporting club last night the latter fought so evenly that it was hard to choose between them. Each had an advantage in five rounds. On the points scored it was an even session, and the decision of the crowd was a draw. No finer exhibition of boxing has been seen in this city for many a day than Moore and Murphy gave. It was artistic in the extreme. Swings, hooks and uppercuts were blocked many times. Whenever Moore landed a blow it was invariably countered by Murphy. Pat had an early lead, but the fast pace began to wear him down and the veteran Murphy began to score in the last half. Moore's blows to the stomach, followed by punches to the jaw, staggered Tommy several times, but Murphy's ring generalship saved him.

WHY NOT HAVE STRONG NERVES?

Nervous Debility Is Preventable and Curable as This Ohio Case Proves.

Mrs. G. E. Neu, of No. 504 Oak street, Elmwood place, Ohio, was led to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People by her husband after being in a nervous and run-down condition for over two years. She says:

"It was quite a good while before I was aware that I was suffering from nervous debility for I have always had a strong constitution. Through worry and loss of sleep due to the sickness of my children, I began to notice that I was getting nervous and was always tired. I got so that I would fly to pieces over any excitement and could not bear any noise, even that made by the children in playing. I had constant headaches back of my eyes and quite often was dizzy. My hands and feet were always cold and neither friction nor heat would warm them. I had no appetite and could not go upstairs without stopping to rest."

"I was complaining for over two years and often called in the doctor but he didn't help me. My husband had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People some years before and was constantly urging me to try them. Finally to please him I consented to give the pills a trial. Before I had taken many boxes I felt better and then was only too glad to continue using them. I soon noticed that I could go upstairs without stopping for breath and that my hands and feet were warm. When my friends would ask me what I was taking I never lost a chance to praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The pills restored my health and I wonder how any one suffering from a blood or nervous disease, can neglect to take them. I hope my experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may induce others to give them a trial."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are useful in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves such as rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, neuralgia, nervous debility, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write for a free copy of our "Diseases of the Nervous System."

Murphy played more for Moore's face than his body. He nearly closed Pat's right eye with hard straight punches. Pat slightly cut Tommy's nose and right eye.

FIFTEEN INJURED

When Train Plunged Into a Creek

PINCKNEYVILLE, Ill., Sept. 8.—Fifteen persons were injured, eight seriously, when a Wabash, Chester & Western local passenger train broke through a trestle near Pinckneyville during the night and plunged into a creek. Spreading rails were responsible.

RUN ON DOCK

THE STEAMER SANTA CLARA MET WITH ACCIDENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—Creeping into the Golden Gate yesterday through a heavy fog, the coasting steamer Santa Clara ran upon the submerged Centennial rocks, which government engineers in a recent search were unable to find and for the blowing up of which the last congress made an appropriation. All concerned now agree that the rocks are there but the marking buoy was misplaced when the official search was made. The Santa Clara struck near the spot where the Rio de Janeiro, from the Orient, sank Feb. 22, 1901.

"SHOT" PIKE'S PEAK

COLORADO SPRINGS, Sept. 8.—H. O. Green of New Hampshire and M. H. Hayden of Detroit yesterday "shot" Pike's peak on a railroad "toboggan"—a grassed band with cleats that fit over the cog rails of the mountain railroad. Starting from a point above the Half Way house, they reached Manitou at the base of the peak, a distance of five miles, in five minutes and 37 seconds.

"Shooting the peak" was more or less common sport some years ago but was stopped by the officials of the cog road because, as the management put it, "the foot-killer got on the job too often."

ESCAPING GAS

STARTED FIRE IN A FAYETTE STREET HOUSE

An alarm from box 14 at 6.05 o'clock last night summoned a portion of the fire department to a slight blaze in a house at 262 Fayette street occupied by Lumina Hamel and owned by B. Tracey. The fire was caused by a rubber tubing connecting a gas pipe with a stove which became disconnected, causing the gas to be ignited. A door near the stove was scorched but the damage will be small.

HELD IN $1000

MAN IS ACCUSED OF LARCENY AT BANGOR

BANGOR, Sept. 8.—James Tracey, who says that he recently escaped from Augusta jail, had since served 10 days in Bangor jail, had been 13 years in the navy and was on a furlough from the national home at Togus, was sent to jail yesterday in default of $1000 bail to wait for the February term. Tracey, according to a number of witnesses, pulled off the boldest daylight holdup known in Bangor for years. The evidence was that in company with one Frank Moran, he was walking up Exchange street at 4.30 yesterday afternoon with a farm hand from Etta named John Haggerty. When in front of the Penobscot Exchange hotel and while people were

Entered An Appeal from Jail Sentence

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 8.—W. R. Crawford, manager of the Seattle Ronton & Southern Ry. Co., was sentenced yesterday to serve 30 days in the county jail for violating the public service commission ruling prohibiting more than a five cent fare without transfer privileges within the corporate limits of Seattle. Crawford appealed to the superior court from the decision and was released on $500 bond. The fight between this railroad and its patrons and the temporary injunction granted by United States Judge Hanford recently led to a mass meeting at which the judge was fiercely denounced while a crowd in the street hanged him in effigy.

Summary of information contained in Letter of President of the Company.
This Company has acquired a large Oil Refining Plant and Works fully completed and equipped on the Bay of San Francisco with deep water facilities and upwards of 100 acres of valuable water front Real Estate.

WORKS.—The works are exceptionally well built; the construction being of brick, stone and iron with slate roofs to all important buildings, while the situation and arrangement of the plant provide for operating in a large way at minimum cost.

BUSINESS.—The business which has been done by the Works and is to be continued by this Company on a larger scale, is the Refining of Crude Oils for domestic and foreign trade, and this Company will direct its attention especially to the transaction of the Cargo Trade in refined oils to the Orient. The crude oil is to be purchased direct from producers and the refined products sold to the markets of Asia and of all countries advantageously reached by the Pacific Ocean, especially China, India and Australia.

CAPACITY AND EARNINGS.—The works have a capacity of about 2000 barrels crude oil per day. It is proposed to increase materially this capacity later on. At the present time the construction period of the foreign and domestic trade of the Pacific Ocean at a satisfactory profit. This profit should amount to approximately $2.00 per barrel when the works are put into full operation. With the present capacity at 2000 barrels per day, the net profits on this output at $2.00 per barrel would amount to $4,000,000 per annum, a sum sufficient to pay the full 7 per cent annual dividend on the preferred stock, and leave a balance available for dividends amounting to about 25 per cent on both preferred and common stock.

SAFE AND PROFITABLE BUSINESS.—The Company does not produce crude oil but transacts a manufacturing and export business purchasing crude material from producers and selling the manufactured products to the foreign and domestic trade. The very profitable nature of the business is generally well known. On both the American and Asiatic sides of the Pacific Ocean the demand for refined oils is constantly increasing.

NO MONIES.—No Mortgage can be put upon the property, or bonds issued by the Company in priority to the Preferred stock without the consent of every holder of the Preferred stock. This condition is endorsed on each Preferred Share Certificate.

American Oriental Company.

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 2, 1911. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

We are told by some people that the old city charter is good enough, that we are going along all right and that there is no need of a new charter just at present. This statement is not in accord with the facts. For years the business of the city has been blocked, bungled and delayed by deadlocks in the city council or by disagreement between the mayor and the city council. As a result the urgent needs of the city have been neglected, money has been wasted through mismanagement, and yet the people were helpless to change the situation. The mayor has not the power to change things, neither has the city council, and thus the people are victims of a wrong system. We want a charter in which responsibility will be centered on some official or on a small number of officials and under which the people can stop abuses or mismanagement without waiting till next election day. All this can be easily done under the new charter which places the necessary power in the hands of the people and fixes responsibility so definitely that when anything goes wrong there will be no mistake as to where the blame lies.

Some crowds are very unreasonable in their demands for excitement when they assemble at a county fair or any other place of amusement. Out of Norton, Kan., the other day John J. Frisbie, the aviator, appeared on the field to give an exhibition as per contract. Two days previous he had had an accident to his engine and felt it dangerous to take another chance in the air. The insatiable crowd began to yell "Faker," and moved by their jeers Frisbie made the attempt, but it was fatal. The crowd realized their folly after they saw him fall to his death. Who will say that bull fights are too cruel for some people?

The new Sullivan anti-weapon law is raising lots of trouble in New York. In view of the dangerous gangs that infest that city extreme measures are necessary in order to stop the use of firearms and other dangerous weapons. Anybody found with any such weapon on his person or at his lodgings without a permit to keep it is subject to prosecution and fine or imprisonment. The police commission of New York is being besieged with people who have weapons and want to give them up or be licensed to hold them. The police are having their labors multiplied as a result of the operation of this law.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW

It is believed that the court dockets throughout the state will be cleared up sooner than was expected, not only on account of the increase of three judges on the superior court bench but also because of the great decrease in the number of actions of tort resulting from the operation of the Workmen's Compensation law, the more important part of which will take effect July 1 of next year. The part of the act providing for the creation of the Massachusetts Employees Insurance association will become operative January 1, 1912. Although the act will not apply to any accident that occurred prior to the dates mentioned, yet it is presumed that actions previously entered in court and pending afterwards may be disposed of under the provisions of the new law if agreeable to the parties concerned.

There is still a good deal of confusion as to the provisions and scope of that law; and no wonder for it appears so complicated that few outside the legal profession understand it fully.

As to its main features we may say that except for domestic servants and farm laborers the law repeals the defense that the employee was negligent, that the injury was caused by the negligence of a fellow employee and that the employee had assumed all the risks of the business on entering the service of the plaintiff.

The employer will have the option of taking his chances in the courts with the defenses mentioned unavailable or to protect himself by joining the mutual liability association to be formed under the act, or he can insure in any outside company against the liability to pay the compensation provided for under the new law.

The act provides for the establishment of an industrial accident board to have supervision over all parties affected by the act, and this board is given considerable judicial power in forcing what it deems to be an equitable settlement in accordance with the new law.

As to the amount of compensation fixed under this law for death, partial or permanent disability and for other specified injuries, the sum may be less than would be awarded by a jury; but it is not dependent upon chance nor upon the ability of the defense to break down the evidence. Besides, in the ordinary course in an action of tort, if a liberal verdict be secured, the case is carried to the supreme court, and the chances are that when the litigation is over there will be but little if any of the amount awarded left for the plaintiff. In case of death the amount to dependents is $3000; for permanent incapacity an equal amount; partial incapacity, the amount to be paid weekly and to be determined by the extent of the injuries and the victim's weekly wage. In certain very serious specified injuries a sum as high as $1000 may be paid to the victim and his dependents in addition to the amounts stated above.

There is a good deal of detail to the working out of the law, but the accident board, the three members of which will receive a salary of $6000 each, except the chairman who will receive $6500, is empowered to make arbitration compulsory under certain conditions. It is hoped that the law will benefit the employee as well as the employer, and if it proves defective in operation it must be amended. It could hardly be expected that a law of this kind could be made strictly equitable and complete at the first attempt. It is a very laudable effort to establish a basis of compensation for injuries that will relieve the employee from the almost hopeless task of fighting a legal battle to the court of last resort.

SEEN AND HEARD

When the young couple married, a friend who laid claims of being somewhat of a magician presented them a tall bottle of transparent liquid, instructing them to place it upon their mantel and explaining that if either of them ever dared to flirt the contents of the bottle would assume a murky color. After they had been married a year the wife went to the seashore for a vacation. In her absence her husband frequently entertained a group of bachelor friends with amusements thoroughly bachelorette, but innocent enough. The guests inquired as to the significance of the tall bottle on the mantel, but the host persistently refused to divulge the secret. Finally, on the night before the day set for his wife's return, he explained the meaning of the mysterious bottle. One of the guests who was much given to practical joking surreptitiously removed the cork of the bottle into which he emptied the contents of his fountain pen. When the bottle had been thoroughly shaken it was replaced upon the mantel and carefully concealed behind a large photograph. Next day, after the wife had returned, in dusting the mantel she removed the photograph, thus revealing the tall bottle with its sable contents. She very promptly took the bottle to the sink, emptied it, rinsed it out thoroughly, filled it with clean water and replaced it on the mantel.

In a good many families there is a constant tone of disrespect for the boy and all his belongings. He is not wanted in the parlor; his great hobbled shoes "kick up the carpet," and leave prints of mud and dust all over it. He is not to be seen in the kitchen; a hungry boy is not to be trusted to keep his hands off cupboard dainties. His tools and toys are a nuisance in any of the living-rooms, and are usually banished to some bed chamber, or even to a cold, remote outbuilding. His hobbies are rather apt to be laughed at, and in general, he is likely to be a stranger to the language of compliment and admiration.

Is it any wonder that there is an "awkward age" for most boys brought up under such a regime? Young lives must have sunshine; an atmosphere of approval is the kind a boy's heart always responds to, and it will not unfold properly in any other. To help a boy to reach his best development, one great first principle is to build up his self-respect. Let him know that a boy is a very important person in this world, and he is to live up to a sense of that importance. Make it a daily study to find out something to admire in him, either in his conduct, or in his tastes or his work. The praise and interest need not always be spoken; actions speak louder than words. Never let him feel that you despise or underrate him. It is demoralizing.

NO ONE NEED REMAIN FAT NOW

"REDUCED MY WEIGHT 100 POUNDS"

On Nov. 1st Dr. F. Turner, a well-known Philadelphia physician, was one of the latest men in that great city. He weighed 250 lbs. and was a wall of flesh. His health was miserable; he was weak and tired all the time; dull, heavy and stupid; unable to get to work, to sleep nights, or to digest his food. He had just been refused life insurance because of this excessive weight. He was in grave danger, and that unless he could get rid of his fat he might drop at any moment. He had previously tried all the methods of flesh reduction known to medical science, starvation diets, purging, violent exercise, etc., but they had done more harm than good. With practically a death sentence staring him in the face and a wife and family to support, Dr. Turner thought hard. He worked, experimented, studied from every book he could get, and finally made a most wonderful scientific discovery by means of which he has actually reduced his weight 100 lbs., gaining in strength and general health with every pound he lost.

On Jan. 1st of this year Dr. Turner weighed 150 lbs.; his waist measured 32 1/2 inches, and he wore a 34 collar. His health is perfect, he is capable of hard work as at 25 years of age, and his mind is clear and buoyant. Dr. Turner's wonderful success has amazed his friends and now physicians. His method is simple, yet thoroughly scientific. There are no medicines or drugs to be taken, nothing to hurt the physical culture or violent exercise, no Turkish Baths, Sweating, Fasting, Starvation Diets, or weakening methods of any kind. On the contrary, the system, which any person can readily put into his own hands, without medical assistance of any kind, is designed not only to remove superfluous flesh at the average rate of about 1 lb. a day, but to strengthen the entire body, to benefit the general health right from the start.

Dr. Turner's remarkable discovery and experience created widespread attention from both physicians and the general public, and he has been fairly deluged with requests for personal treatments. Close friends have urged him to give his special method to the world, where he could command large fees, but other business interests which occupy much of his time have decided him against it. In answer, however, to the multitude of requests for information and in order that all may have the benefits of the system it was his good fortune to give him the right to publish his book, "Let treating on his method, and telling every fleshy man and woman how they may accomplish the same happy result, without the least danger of it, or without the least expense." The book contains without charge to those who have written him and has a few hundred copies left which he has agreed to distribute to those who are interested to send a two-cent stamp for postage. The doctor's present address is Dr. F. Turner, 1000 N. 1st St., Suite 100, Philadelphia, Pa. A request for the booklet sent there will be given prompt attention.

Faintly begin to glitter,
Night is coming soon.
Water sprites are tripping, tripping
As the evening mist comes creeping.
List the crickets peeping, peeping.
Soon my darling will be sleeping
Out in fairy-land.
Baby, thou art sinking, sinking
Into peaceful rest.
Now the twilight gently closes,
Dew-drops gather on the roses,
As thy weary head reposes,

HOUSE AND HOME
A house is built of bricks and stones,
Of sills and posts and piers;
But a home is built of loving deeds that
stand a thousand years.
A house, though but a humble cot,
Within its walls may hold
A home of priceless beauty, rich in Love's eternal gold.
The men on earth build houses—halls,
And chambers, roofs and domes—
But the women of the earth—God knows—the women build the homes.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

New Bedford Standard: Again there is agitation for the interchangeable mileage book on the railroads of New England. It would not seem to be beyond the power of the railroads of this section to institute the convenience. At any rate, when the New Haven, the Boston & Maine, and the Maine Central are all now practically under a single management, there seems no really good reason why one mileage book should not be made to answer for all three roads, yet three have to be purchased. The Fitzburg Sentinel pertinently observes that these roads are today one system, and if these combinations are perpetuated by the public through their legislatures, the public as well as the corporations should receive some benefit now and then. The logic is sound. Moreover, if the interchangeable mileage book were adopted, the railroads would undoubtedly find that travel would be stimulated.

SPECIAL MAILING STAMPS

Brooklyn Times: Fortunately the postal authorities have condescended to approve of a style of "stamp" that may be used on first class mail, and have modified the peremptory ruling made last week sending all letters that had anything but a government stamp placed on either side to the dead letter office. The "stamp" method has been the means of bringing thousands of welcome dollars to the White Cross society, especially in holiday seasons. The originators of the "McNamara Defense Stamp" idea have submitted, and had approved, an octagonal sticker which can be placed on the back of a letter.

MOVING PICTURE SUBJECTS

Brooklyn Enterprise: Cincinnati's mayor has declined to allow moving pictures of the Beattie murder case to be exhibited in his city. He did the right thing. It is queer that theatrical managers themselves cannot see where exhibitions of this kind would in the long run hurt their business. One of the strong features of the moving picture game has been that they were generally safe for women and little children to see. When they take up murders and atrocious murders at that, and prize fights, horrid accidents, robberies of banks and street holdups, they are verging toward the place where they become no longer safe, but decidedly evil, suggesting violence and crime and showing how to commit crime with more or less success. There is so much that can be pictured in pictures, and can object that it is astonishing to see the choice falling now and then to something that moving picture managers themselves, if they have children, would hardly be likely to want those children to see.

NO CHANGE YET
It is now the first of September, and there has been no change in the retail price of coal. A month ago the retail dealers in Boston advanced the price 25 cents per ton, but we determined in the Spring to make one price for the whole summer. Coal is costing 50 cents per ton more at wholesale now than it did in April, and we advise those who have not already placed their order to do so very soon.

The Home Coal Company has taken particular pains this summer in laying in a stock of coal which is good old fashioned coal. If you have never burned Home's Coal give it a try, even if it's only a quarter of a ton. If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column.

MRS. BEMIS WEDS

THE BRIDEGROOM IS A FLORIDA MAN

BARRE, Sept. 8.—Mrs. Myra A. Bemis, who has been brought into public view many times in this community by reason of the mysterious deaths which have occurred on her farm here, was married last evening to William A. Bushnell of Florida City, Fla. The groom is 67, and has had three wives previously. This is the second time that Mrs. Bemis has been married. Her age is given as 53. The marriage occurred on the "farm of mystery" and was witnessed only by the hired man and housekeeper of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. B. Blanchard of Barre, retired Methodist minister and now employed as local manager of the Barre telephone exchange. The couple left for Boston last night. The last time that Mrs. Bemis was brought before the public was early in August last, when an investigation was conducted into the death of Frank Ceeley, her farm superintendent, who died from poisoning on July 30. The death of Ceeley attracted unusual excitement in this vicinity, because it was the second apparently mysterious death on the farm in which it was asserted poison figured. STEAMER IS STRANDED

650 Iowa "Boosters" Had an Exciting Experience

MOLINE, Ill., Sept. 8.—The river steamer Sydney with 650 eastern Iowa "boosters" on board struck a rock reef in the Mississippi river last night. Early today the boat was still stranded, half a mile out from shore in three and one-half feet of water.

The passengers were loaded on a big sand barge and hauled to shore by a towboat. They took cars to Davenport. The Sydney, which left Dubuque,

Iowa, in the morning, loaded with the mayors of three Iowa cities, four boards of aldermen, hundreds of merchants and professional men and four bands, had fairly easy going till it began its passage down the harbor channel leading into the Moline lock.

When in sight of the local gates the boat struck the rock bottom and before the captain could get it under control it had swung around and became stranded.

BIG LOTTERY PLANT

Was Seized by the New York Police

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—After following a shifting trail for more than a year Detectives Miceli and Cavanaugh of the Italian Squad, caused a raid yesterday afternoon on an establishment which, they declare, was the headquarters of the biggest lottery system in the United States.

It was at No. 35 Rose street, when Captain Clark and a squad from the Oak street station arrived in support of the detectives they arrested three men and seized an elaborate printing equipment. They found copies of a periodical called La Speranza ("The Hope").

which, according to the detectives, was issued and circulated to induce people to take chances in the lottery.

From the completeness of the establishment and the piles of numbered slips found there the police estimated that the people in charge of the game were selling at least $50,000 worth of lottery slips every month.

This would mean a business in excess of half a million dollars in the year and more during which Cavanaugh and Miceli have been on the trail of the band.

The detectives say they caught the chief of the crew in the person of Oppone Chian, of No. 214 Thompson street. The other men arrested were Euzoro Misteili, of No. 18 Roosevelt street; Gioacchino Vistelli, of No. 25 Roosevelt street; and Rudolph Sala, of No. 204 East One Hundred and Thirtieth street. Sala was released. The other men said they were printers.

According to the detectives no drawings were made. While not connected in any direct way with the government lottery in Italy, the operators used the same series as used abroad, and copied the winning numbers, so that it was, in effect, an extension of the Italian lottery.

The operators were shrewd enough to do no mail business and they moved their plant several times while the detectives were after them. They were finally discovered through information gained from the establishment which delivered three new presses to them.

FIRST COTTON REPORT

Was Issued by Director Durand Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The first cotton ginning report of the season, issued today by Director E. Dana Durand of the bureau of the census department of commerce and labor, shows that 771,415 bales, counting round as half bales, had been ginned from the growth of 1911 to Sept. 1, compared with 563,011 bales of the growth of 1910 ginned to Sept. 1, 1910; 388,242 bales for 1909 and 402,223 bales for 1908.

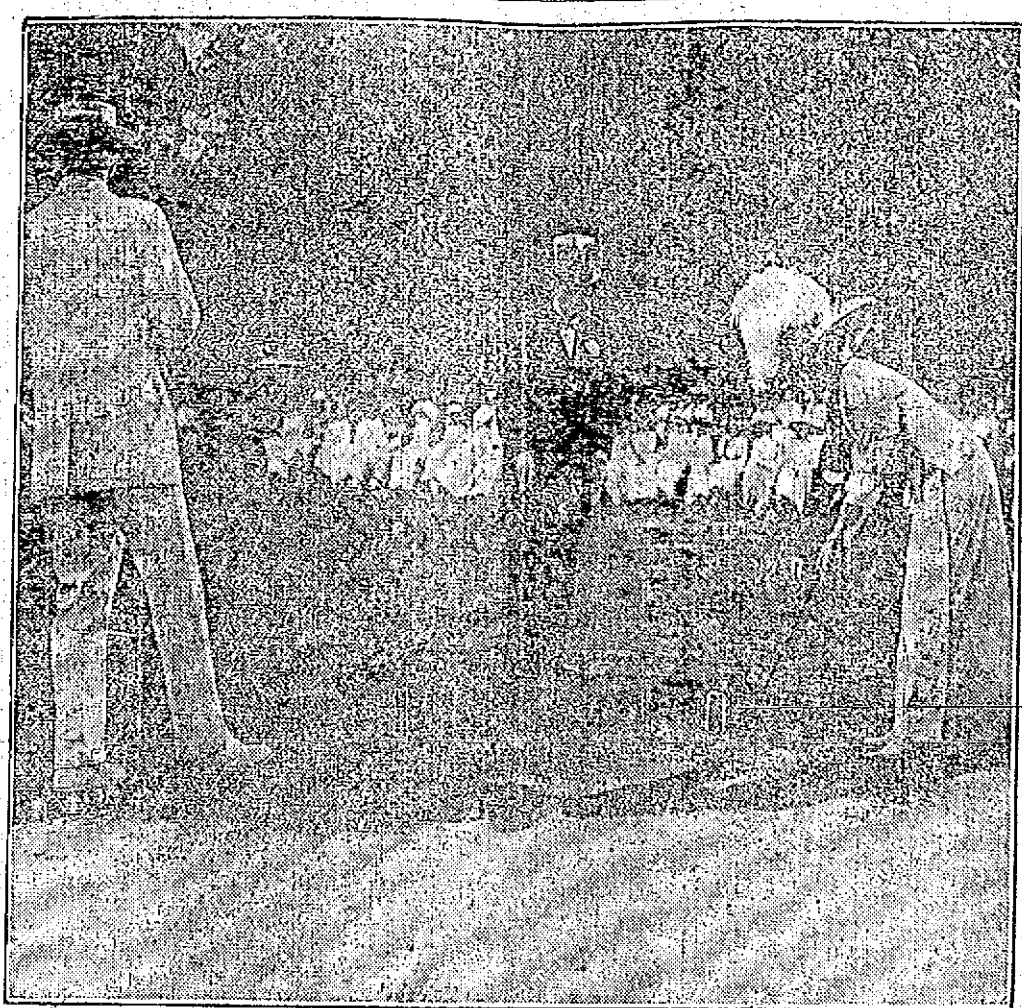

Round bales included this year are 6984 compared with 10,976 bales for 1910; 11,557 for 1909, and 20,862 for 1908.

Decided the Outcome of Battle

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 8.—Supplementary reports received today by an official news agency from Teheran, Persia, establish that the outcome of the battle at Immandeh-Jafar, on Sept. 6, when the forces of ex-Shah Mohammed Ali Mirza suffered a crushing defeat, was decided by the government machine guns operated under the direction of the German instructor of the Persian army, Major Haas.

THE LATEST OUT OF DOOR SPORT, GOLFSTACLE

The latest out of door sport is the game of golfstacle, played with croquet wickets. It is, in fact, a sort of combination of the two games and originated in England.

THE FIRST WOMAN

To Go Over the Niagara Falls in a Barrel

The feat of going over Horseshoe falls at Niagara, recently performed by Bobby Leach in a barrel, recalls the fact that Mrs. Annie Edson Taylor went over the falls in an oaken barrel in 1901. She was not even bruised in the trip and was the first one to make it. Leach used a steel barrel.

Miss Carrie Kilbourne, sixteen years old, daughter of a wealthy city engineer of New Brunswick, N. J., volunteered to appear in a baseball game—a charity affair—for the benefit of the Ridgewood Day nursery, in which she is interested. She played on the German hospital team in Brooklyn, and her brilliant playing was a sensation from the start.

The little girl's speed and curves proved too much for the batsmen, and they never touched the ball. The girl pitcher has had many offers from professional women's teams, but she plays only for fun and wants to remain an amateur. She wears a short blue skirt, a white middie blouse and is equipped with the regulation glove and spiked shoes.

The most important woman's race of the season in France, the 120 meter international handicap, provided a very close struggle between the winner, Mlle. Jeanneaud, and her English rival, Miss Emma Clist. There was great excitement, as after leading the entire distance, threatened by none save Miss Clist, the French girl was seen to be losing her advantage slightly as Miss Clist finished at increased speed. Mlle. Jeanneaud, however, just managed to touch the line barely two inches ahead and was declared winner. The 100 meter scratch international race was won by Miss Mary Footman, the fourteen-year-old champion of the south of England and winner of the White Challenge shield. Miss Footman is Hattersea's fastest swimmer, and she had no difficulty in outdistancing all competitors. Touching the rope at halfway two meters ahead of her nearest competitor, Miss Footman won easily, five meters separating her from the second, Miss Emma Clist.

The New York Woman's League For Animals is making a great effort just now to teach owners of horses how to take care of them. Summer bridges and fly nets have been distributed to the drivers of work horses, and the league has a farm where tired horses may be sent for a few weeks' rest, which often restores them to health. Mrs. James Speyer is the president of the league, and Mrs. Russell Sage is one of the women deeply interested in it.

NORWEGIAN PUDDING

Two tablespoonfuls of corn flour, one egg, one cupful of sugar, the rind and juice of a lemon. Mix the corn flour to a smooth paste with a little cold water and add enough boiling water to make it like starch. In another basin mix the yolk of the egg, the sugar and the rind and juice of the lemon and quickly add these to the corn flour. Mix well and bake in a buttered pie dish for twenty minutes. Set in a cool place and when cold turn out and put the stiffly beaten white of the egg mixed with a little sugar or some whipped cream on top and serve. A nice supper dish.

THE LOOSE GOWN

Is Said to Conceal the Tight Corset

In general it may be observed that long lines are still a feature of the new styles. Everything is done to make the waist line less of a feature and the hips invisible. Gowns are fitted with an appearance of looseness, which means merely that the outside material hangs loosely on a tightly corseted woman.

The slender woman has it all her own way nowadays. She may go corsetless or merely wear one of the scantily boned corsets of jersey material so comfortable and cool for summer days.

The short waist line still lingers in popular favor, for it lends the illusion of hiplessness. Borders which are being used surplus fashion are quite the thing for smart afternoon functions.

Tunic effects are being modernized by being shirred at the bottom to give a hobble effect.

Shirt waists are being sewed to colored linen skirts. The high waist line is concealed by a cord of the same shade as the skirt. Striped effects of all sorts are made by means of velvet ribbons of a slightly contrasting shade sewed to silk or satin.

Velvet is much to the fore this summer. Velvet tam-o'-shanters are the latest in summer headgear. Such are the vagaries of fashion. They are usually black, decorated with a face-frill of yellowish lace and a single rose. Worn with sheer gowns they look inappropriately on hot days, but Paris decrees them, and that is enough.

Hats continue to be trimmed in the back principally as regards feather effects.

Evening gowns allow a great liberty of choice. Unusual and historical effects are being sought for, and almost anything skimpy and outre in color is voted stunning.

The coarse meshed veil of gold or of silver net is the latest craze.

RHUBARB JELLY

One pound and a half of rhubarb, a quarter of a pound of sugar, the juice and rind of a lemon, three-quarters of an ounce of gelatin powder. Stew the rhubarb till tender with the lemon and sugar; pass it through a sieve and add more water if necessary to bring it to one pint and a half. Heat over the fire and then stir in the gelatin powder. When quite dissolved remove from the fire and when nearly cold pour into a mold.

SWANSON AND MARTIN WON RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 8.—At the democratic primaries yesterday Senators Swanson and Martin won by 20,000 plurality over Congressman William C. Jones and Carter Glass, who aspired to seats in the upper branch of congress. The campaign for the selection of a senator to succeed Walter Martin for a full term and to succeed Senator Swanson for the unexpired term of the late Senator Daniel has been bitter.

It was charged that Senator Swanson gambled in American Tobacco stock while a member of the ways and means committee of the house and that Senator Martin solicited money from the railroad companies to aid in his election.

BIG CUSTOMS FRAUDS

The Government Expects to Unearth an International Scandal

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The indictment of Nathan Allen and John R. Collins for smuggling the Jenkins Jewels, it was learned today, is only one stop in the government's prosecution of customs frauds. A banker even more prominent and wealthy than these millionaires of Kenosha, Wis., and Memphis, Tenn., is said to be under investigation and if the federal authorities can accomplish his arrest, it is said, they hope to reach the bottom of an international scandal involving many others, including the gem dealers and minor custom employees.

The alleged frauds cover a period of several years and it is reported that the banker under suspicion enabled his friends also to benefit by his carefully laid scheme. This financier, it is said, has offices in several foreign countries and it is expected he is expected to plead non-residence with the accompanying right to bring jewels for his own use into the United States duty free.

MONEY WAS STOLEN RAILROAD EMPLOYEES

Charged With Violating Customs Seal Law

The police have been informed that the residence of Mrs. John S. Daniels at 558 Chelmsford street was entered Sunday night and $14 in money taken. Although the police have been working on the case they have been unable to secure any information which would lead to the arrest of the thief. Mrs. Daniels went to church during the early part of the evening and when she returned she found that the house was in a state of disorder and an investigation showed that $14 in money had been stolen. The thief, who gained an entrance through a window, was evidently acquainted with the premises.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Sept. 8.—Charged with the violation of the United States customs bond seal law, John Rashaw, a conductor on the Central Vermont railway, and L. Marshall, a brakeman, are under arrest in this city today. It is alleged that the men broke the seal on a freight car containing a consignment of liquor at South Royalton on the night of August 25 last. The liquor was being shipped from a New York house to a Chicago customer.

THE WOMAN MAYOR

Has Plan to Settle City's Trouble

This was the reply that Mayor Wilson made on her arrival here today to all questions concerning the result of her conference in Kansas City with C. W. Trickett, special attorney appointed by Gov. Stubbs to restore peace between the woman mayor and her adverse council of men. So Hunnewell, for months, without an effective government, now awaits the meeting of the council next Monday, when the secret is expected to come out. From Mayor Wilson's confident manner it is believed the question of dealing with the rebellious council will be solved at this meeting.

COLONEL ASTOR

PREPARING FOR A WEEK END CRUISE

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Preparations aboard Col. John Jacob Astor's steam yacht Noma today indicated that the owner was getting ready for a week-end cruise, but whether at the end of the cruise stood a clergyman and a wedding was a question neither Colonel Astor nor any of his fiancée's family would answer. Even the destination of the Noma was a secret.

TWO MEN SHOT DEAD

Shooting Affray in a Boarding House

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 8.—A fusillade of shots followed a bitter quarrel of laborers here this morning and two Italians fell dead and another was severely wounded. The affair took place in a boarding house and the police are hunting for Marino Rorino as the assassin.

SECRETLY WED

SON OF U. S. STEEL OFFICIAL MARRIED TO CHORUS GIRL

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The paternal blessing is the only thing needed today to complete the happiness of Louis E. Beam and his bride, who was Eleanor Pendleton, a former chorus girl. Norman B. Beam, the father, one of the big men in the steel corporation, learned for the first time yesterday that his son, only three years out of college, had been married. Since Sept. 1, Young Beam is assistant secretary of a trust company here. His bride, whose real name is Davidson, formerly lived in Richmond and Baltimore.

RACED WITH DEATH U. S. GOVERNMENT

Mother Sped in Automobile With Dying Son

NORTH ADAMS, Sept. 8.—A race with death for 35 miles over one of the roughest roads in the state was won Wednesday night by Mrs. Joan Cuneo in a high-powered automobile.

Mrs. Cuneo's 12-year-old son, while shooting at a white rock for a target Wednesday was struck by a bullet that wounded back and severed an artery in his leg.

The accident happened at the Cuneo summer home, Lake Raconda, where there was no physician. Mrs. Cuneo, who is well known as a driver of racing automobiles, put her son into one of the swift cars and headed for Wilmington, Vt., four miles away, to get a physician.

Just outside the village she met Dr. L. F. Page in his automobile. Transferring the doctor to her machine Mrs. Cuneo headed back for North Adams. The road was dark and at its best one of the roughest in the state, but was made worse by washouts and mud of a recent rain. Unfamiliar with the road as she was, Mrs. Cuneo sent the car over the 35 miles in a little more than an hour to the North Adams hospital. There the boy received the proper medical attention and was able to return home yesterday.

CHICAGO THEATRES

Decide to Get Rid of Orchestras

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Two Chicago theatres, after the first clash, have decided with orchestras. The cause of the absence of music is said by the managers to be the blame of the trombone in the orchestra pit. The musicians however, say the objection to the trombone is only an excuse. They claim that the managers are trying to ruin their union.

The Chicago Federation of Musicians recently passed a rule that the orchestras in all of the big Chicago theatres must consist of 11 players and a leader, or as an alternative, they must go without music entirely. The ultimatum was presented to the theatre men. The manager of one of the theatres said today:

STRIKE STILL ON

AT THE ATLANTIC MILLS IN LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, Sept. 8.—Larger in proportions today than ever, the strike at the Atlantic Mills gives no indications of letting up in the course of a week or two at the least. A large number of the weavers and doffers are out and both declare they will not return until the demands of both are granted. The main grievance is that while the work has been greatly increased the pay remains the same. A mass meeting is being arranged to give the public the causes of the strike and to devise means of assistance.

ATHLETE RUED ILL

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 8.—Owing to ill health, it was learned here today, Nathaniel Reed of South Weymouth, Mass., looked upon as one of Yale's distance runners, will not re-enter college this fall. This illness is of a pulmonary nature and Reed plans to go west and spend several months on a ranch in the hope of benefiting his health.

Does Not Want Panama Canal Threathened

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—With every disposition to encourage the investment of capital in the development of the isthmus of Panama, the government is resolved that it will not permit the issue of concessions by the Panamanian congress that will in any degree threaten the business of the canal. Attention has been drawn to the subject recently by the passage of a law in Panama, granting a concession to a company to construct a railroad entering the city of Panama from a mining country to the southward. It has been alleged that the concession is so drawn as to permit the construction of extension of lines of road that might cross the isthmus and so prove to be an active competitor for business with the canal. There is already a project under way for the construction of a railroad entering Panama from the north and this is thought desirable because it will form part of the intercontinental system, to the development of which the United States is committed. If it can be shown that the projected southern road can be likewise made available as part of this system and that it cannot be turned into a crossroad between the Caribbean and the Pacific it is possible the state department will make no objection to the concession. A careful inquiry is being made.

A BRIEF SESSION

Of Police Court With None But Drunks

This morning's session of the police court was one of the shortest that has been held for a long time. There were only drunks before the court and Judge Hadley was lenient with the majority of them.

Frank A. Clark was given a suspended sentence and placed in the custody of the probation officer for one year. A similar sentence was imposed upon Winifred Wrenn.

Michael J. Burns, who was yesterday sentenced in the state farm and appealed appeared in court this morning and withdrew his appeal.

A JOINT DEBATE

ON THE NEW CHARTER AT PAWTUCKETVILLE SOCIAL CLUB

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Pawtucketville Social club was held last night in the club rooms in Moody street, President Joseph Sawyer occupying the chair. Several new members were initiated, but the main topic of the evening was the proposed new charter about which the members are anxious to get information.

After considerable discussion on the way of obtaining the best information on both sides of the question, it was finally decided to ask two prominent men of the city, one in favor and the other opposed, to meet in a debate to be held in the club rooms.

A committee was named to interview two men on that question, the said debate to be in the English language, and if they accept, the meeting will be held probably next week. It is an assured fact that one of the debaters will accept, but the other has not as yet been seen, but if he refuses, another prominent man is in line. The members of the club and their friends are anxious to learn who is to take part in the debate, but for a few days yet their names will be kept in the shadow. However, whoever it may be, the audience is sure to be repaid for their trouble.

CRACK GOLF PLAYERS WILL CONTEST FOR THE TITLE OF NATIONAL CHAMPION

RYE, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Because of the great popularity which the game has attained, unusual interest attaches to this year's tournament for the national amateur golf championship to be decided on the Apawamis links here Sept. 11-16. In addition to Harold H. Hilton, British amateur champion, who has come over to try to add the American title to his laurels, such noted cranks as W. C. Fownes, Jr., the present title holder; Jerome D. Travers, metropolitan and New Jersey champion; "Chick" Evans, the western star, and the veteran Waller J. Travis are entered.

CHILD KILLED

LITTLE ONE WAS RUN OVER BY A CAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—A throng of about a thousand persons, some muttering threats, others grimly silent, followed a large covered van from Ninth avenue and Twenty-first street to the old West Twentieth street police station last night.

The van was guarded by policemen. It contained a frightened man and the body of a little girl. The man was the motorman of a trolley car that had killed the child.

When the station was reached the reserves had to charge the crowd, and it was an hour and a half before it was considered safe to escort the motorman out of the danger zone.

BIGAMY CHARGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—John M. Griffiths, of Baldwin, L. I., who has a wife and five children living in that town, and who, it is charged, is married also to Rose Gordon, of Far Rockaway, was arrested three times on a bigamy charge within three hours yesterday, and each time the complaint was dismissed by Justice Norton, at Frazerport, because of some flaw in the drawing up of the papers.

Finally, as Griffiths was walking out of the court for the third time, he was arrested on a charge of abandonment, it being declared that he has not contributed toward the support of his first family. His first wife and five children were in court, while Mrs. Griffiths No. 2 paced up and down outside the court awaiting the result.

MARLBORO PEOPLE

GIVEN A SCARE BY INFANTILE PARALYSIS

MARLBORO, Sept. 8.—Two members of the family of N. H. Tilton, Mabel, 6, and Marion, 16, are dead of infantile paralysis, and two other members of the family are seriously ill. Helen, 19, is not expected to live more than a few hours, and Lindsay, 4, is in a critical condition.

Another case has also been reported to the local health authorities. It is that of Elizabeth, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doyle. Her case is not considered serious as yet.

Dr. Sheppard, a representative of the state board, visited Marlboro yesterday and called the physicians together at the town hall and gave them a short talk on infantile paralysis.

WOLGAST-McFARLAND BOUT

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 8.—Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion, has mapped out his program from now until Sept. 15, the date of his fight with Packey McFarland. He will work to the limit of his endurance from now until Tuesday when he will lay off heavy training and take only light work for two hours daily until the day of his fight.

Mrs. Joseph Sawyer of 113 Gershon avenue, received word yesterday of the death of her sister, Mrs. Pierre Beaumier nee Adeline Boulard, which occurred suddenly at Cap de la Madeleine, Que. The deceased who was 83 years of age, was well known in this city where she came on several occasions. Her funeral will take place Saturday morning.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

THE SAME OLD GAME

SEPTEMBER 8.—Amy Robson is one of the pathetic figures in English history. Daughter of Sir John Robson, she was married at 13 to Robert Dudley, youngest son of the Earl of Warwick. The first few years of their married life was as happy as youth and passion could make it, and then Dudley grew cold and cruel. Looking for a reason the young wife found that her husband had become a great favorite of Elizabeth. Scandal followed the favors of Elizabeth to the young earl, and gossip said that a royal marriage might happen very soon. The young wife was sent to a lonely castle where she saw little of her husband. On September 8, in the year 1560, when the servants were away her dead body was found at the foot of a long stairway. Some said murder, some suicide. In any event Dudley did not profit by her death as Elizabeth did not marry him, showing that it's a good idea to hang on to your first partner.

Commissioners' Sale at Public Auction

CONSISTING OF THREE-STORY BLOCK OF TWO TENEMENTS AND BAKERY AT NOS. 163-165 EAST MERRIMACK STREET AND 109 FAYETTE STREET, THREE-TENEMENT BLOCK AND TWO STORES AT 173-175 EAST MERRIMACK STREET. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE IN REAR OF 175 EAST MERRIMACK ST. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AT 110 AND 112 FAYETTE STREET. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AT 120-122 FAYETTE STREET. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AT 126-128 FAYETTE STREET, STABLE AND ABOUT 12,732 SQUARE FEET OF LAND.

ON SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1911, AT 3 O'CLOCK P. M.

I will sell by order of the superior court at the advertised time, to whomsoever will bid the most at absolute auction sale, this extraordinary and extremely well situated estate, the property comprises 13 tenements, three stores and a large stable. On the corner of East Merrimack street and Fayette street is a block of three stories, containing two tenements, one of eight rooms, bath, pantry, gas, city water, etc.; and another of five rooms with toilet, gas, etc.; a bakery with large work room in rear, two ovens built in the whole yielding an income of $62 per month. Adjoining at 173 and 175, on East Merrimack street, is a two and a half story block of three tenements, two of four rooms each and one five rooms, also two stores, paying a rental of $35.17 per month. In the rear of the above is a two-tenement house one of three rooms and one of four rooms, with separate toilets recently put in, renting for $150 per week each. Adjoining at 120 and 122, another two-tenement house of five rooms each, toilet, etc., renting for $2.50 and $2.25 respectively, per week. At 126 and 128, a two-tenement house of five rooms each, renting for $2.50 and $2.25 per week, respectively. Also stable with two stalls and carriage room, rented at $5 per month.

Now, for the investor or speculator, this sale presents a most unusual opportunity. First, it is to be sold for the highest bona fide bid; secondly, its condition is exceptionally good, only recently a considerable amount of money was expended upon it. Again, its location, within five minutes' walk of Merrimack square, also in the very center of the very largest of Lowell's manufacturing industries, assures one of steady income, as the tenements will always be in demand. The property is situated all in one lot, thereby making it a pleasant and profitable investment, as one is wasting no time in looking after his interests. The entire property rents for $173 per month making a total of $2136 per year. There are 12,732 square feet of land, with a frontage of 69 feet on East Merrimack street and 162 feet on Fayette street.

Attend this sale, as down-town property with the income yielding quality that will pay the revenue on the money invested that this property shows, is very seldom offered at public auction.

STANLEY E. QUAY, Commissioner.
